Howie-In-Hills Turning Point Seen Wednesday

by NANCY COWGER

Wednesday night will be the turning point in deciding the future of the Howie-In-The-Hills site in Hoffman Estates, George Longmeyer, Hoffman Estates village manager, predicted yesterday.

Longmeyer said the village board will meet in executive session Wednesday with representatives of Meridian Investment and Development Co. and the federal receivership now holding title to the land. Executive sessions may be closed to the public, and are permitted under the State Open Meetings Act for discussion of legal suits.

The meeting could signify the end of a $17 million legal suit against the village, or could mean the suit will be pursued in county and federal courts.

"I don't know whether it will wrap it up, but I will say this — it will be a major meeting point. It will either go one way or the other" as a result of Wednesday's meeting, said Longmeyer, who will attend the session.

"The receiver will be there, so obviously we still have the litigation and lawsuits and everything," he added. Indicating final agreement may not yet have been reached on all points of negotiations over development of the land.

LONGMEYER ALSO indicated that Village Atty. Edward Hofert probably will make a statement on the results of the meeting Thursday morning.

The village, Meridian and the receivers are working for settlement of a string of lawsuits centering on the Howie property, which is a 497-acre site north of the Winston Knolls Subdivision and along both sides of Palatine Road.

Also involved in the suits are the Teamsters Union Pension Fund and a group of investors who purchased bonds to finance public improvements at the site prior to its assignment to the receivership.

The suit against the village, filed by the bondholders, charges former local officials with fraud in winning court approval on a special assessment to finance those same public improvements.

THE RECEIVERSHIP, was appointed by William Campbell, former federal judge, in 1964, when City Savings Association of Chicago, which held title to the site, went bankrupt. Campbell this summer ordered sale of the property, to liquidate the association's assets and partially repay association depositors. Meridian was highest bidder on the site.

The sale was dependent upon Meridian's receiving clear title to the land, and obtaining the zoning it desired from the village. Settlement of the suits would clear the title.

Zoning is the village's bargaining lever in settlement negotiations. Hofert has said he would not accept a settlement that left the village with any responsibilities other than granting zoning.

Meridian first presented its development plan to the village Oct. 3, and since then the village has had it under review by its own staff and by consultants, to determine impact on the village and services the village would be required to provide.

THE VILLAGE'S Plan Commission chairman, Richard Regan, said yesterday he had received final reports on the impact studies Dec. 13. He and Hofert have consistently said the village will not act on the development plan until full details have been disclosed in plan commission hearings before the public. The details, however, have been kept secret pending successful completion of negotiations.

Regan said yesterday he had received no specific instructions on when to schedule the hearings, although he has been asked to review the impact reports.

Hofert two weeks ago predicted the hearings could be held in late January or early February.

New Baseball Program Formed Here

The formation of a new community baseball program, combining representatives from the two existing programs and the Hoffman Estates Park District, has been announced.

The program, a result of a series of meetings between directors of the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association and the Independent Baseball Association, will be known as the Hoffman Estates Community Baseball Association.

George Rush, outgoing president of the HEAA, and Charles Johnson, president of the IBA, jointly announced the formation of the group at the park district meeting this week. Governing boards from both groups have approved the plan.

Park Comr. Fred Weaver and Al Binder, park district director, will represent the park district on the HECA board.

DISCUSSIONS OF forming a single governing body for the baseball program began after Binder recommended to the park board that a merger of the two groups take place, or the park district take over the program.

With the merger of the two groups, the HEAA and IBA baseball programs will

Crash Scene One Of Desolation

by STEVE BROWN

Hunks of twisted metal, the acrid smell of aviation fuel, and the nearly indistinguishable fuselage of what had been an airplane was all that remained yesterday at the scene of the North Central Airlines crash at O'Hare Airport.

About one-half mile away, on another runway, a Delta jet sat, minus its tail assembly. There, bigger chunks of airplane were scattered about.

With the exception of about 20 Chicago policemen and a few airport officials, that was the scene at the crash site.

The North Central DC-9 rested with only its tail and nose sections still intact. The cabin section of the plane was completely burned away. Nine of its passengers had died after a collision with the Delta jet in dense fog.

COTTED CUPS, dinner trays and food carts were scattered about, probably never used on the flight which crashed on takeoff.

Chicago police said they had been given strict orders not to talk about the crash, but they also admitted they knew little more than had been in the newspapers.

A US Post Office security agent stood by, impatiently waiting for clearance to retrieve what might be left of several mail pouches aboard the plane.

"The mail we got off last night was terrible. It smelled like burned flesh," he said.

Neither plane has been moved. They await the federal investigators. The areas around the two planes had been cordoned off Wednesday night.

The police detail stood by on the windswept runway, quietly wishing they had pulled some other assignment.

A Delta maintenance truck was parked near the Delta Convair 880. A few police officers, sitting in an unmarked car, were nearby.

THE INFLATABLE escape chutes, now deflated, hung limply from the doors of the plane. An occasional gust of wind made them waver slightly.

The Delta man said he was waiting for the company's safety board to arrive. He said they apparently had been delayed by the same bad weather that had held up the arrival of other investigators.

The area between the two planes contained more bits of metal. The nose wheel of the North Central plane was about halfway between the two jets, imbedded in a mound of snow.

The point of impact was situated about 100 yards in front of the airport's new control tower, which was completed last summer.

AN O'HARE OFFICIAL who identified himself only as "Angelo," and that had been working straight through the night, said the tower may as well have been a hundred miles away Wednesday night.

"The fog was just too thick to see what was going on," he said, noting the crash trucks and fire equipment had some trouble reaching the scene because of the weather.

Yesterday's overcast skies offered slightly better visibility, but the remains of the North Central plane still could not be seen clearly from the point of impact.

Crash Victim Wins His Battle For Life

by BARRY SIGALE

John Burton came face to face with a certain, untimely death only to escape through newly found courage and dedication.

Now the 29-year-old Arlington Heights man has returned home to his wife and three children and an optimistic outlook that allows him to believe he can also return to a normal, happy life.

Most people don't live through the ordeal that John Burton lived through.

Consumed by the flames of his crashed motorcycle in an accident 3½ months ago, Burton sustained burns over 70 per cent of his body and suffered head injuries and two broken hands.

Doctors say his recovery is nothing short of sensational and point to statistics that show that nearly eight of every ten persons with similar injuries usually die. Burton survived and therein lies the tale of one man mulling his own death knell.

Wednesday, Burton, walking gingerly, was honored by the personnel at Evanston Hospital with a going-away party, complete with cake and punch and well wishes from the doctors, nurses and aides who treated him.

THE HOSPITAL IS a regional trauma center in the Illinois Trauma Network and 70 to 80 patients a month are treated there for serious physical injury or shock resulting from major accidents. Some are treated as inpatients, some as outpatients. It was as an outpatient that Burton first entered the hospital Sept. 4.

While most people were enjoying a quiet, enjoyable Labor Day dinner, Burton was involved in a catastrophic accident.

He was traveling on Route 83 near Pine Street, just south of Northwest Highway in Mount Prospect when he collided head on with an auto traveling in the other direction. When the cycle burst into flames, Burton was set afire. Passersby, neighbors near the crash scene and members of the Mount Prospect Police and Fire Departments helped douse the fire.

When that was completed, Burton was rushed to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, where he was given emergency treatment. A call was made to the Chicago Fire Department and a helicopter was dispatched to take the injured man to Evanston.

Until Wednesday, doctors treated Burton at Evanston Hospital. Due to the many kinds of injuries he suffered, he was under the care of 10 different departments and about 30 to 40 employees. Each was impressed by Burton's amazing recovery.

"PEOPLE JUST don't recover from something like this," said one doctor who treated Burton. "We had to give him seven skin grafts for the burns which were mostly on his legs, arms, torso and back. He didn't have enough skin to cover it all up and he wound up losing 40 pounds, even though he was being given about 6,000 calories a day."

According to Dr. David Winchester, director of the trauma center, the fact that Burton was young, that he possessed a "will to live" and that he received superb care from the hospital's medical health team enabled him to survive.

"It's one of the most courageous things I've ever seen," said Dr. Winchester. "He certainly rose to the occasion. It's amazing. Usually a patient will fall apart after a catastrophe like this. But he had a positive attitude. The last six weeks he was always asking me when he could go home."

Village To Weigh Paying Styer's Salary

Youth Head Fund Cut Due

Hoffman Estates' director of youth services, Bryan Styer, told youth commission members Wednesday that funding for his salary will be terminated.

Styer said Cook County officials told him funding for the Emergency Employment Act will be cut back this year. The youth worker's salary is paid with EEA funds.

Funds will be available until January or February when STYER WILL HAVE BEEN WITH THE YOUTH COMMISSION ONE YEAR. Youth Commission chairman Frank Alexa said there is some hope these controlling the EEA funds may continue the funding after evaluating Styer's job.

Alexa and the commission recommended to the village board that Styer be retained even if his $8,500 yearly salary must be paid with village funds.

"In fact, our year-end report to the village board will recommend the youth services be expanded and a second outreach worker be hired," Alexa said. "With the opening of the Hoffman Estates drop-in center, we definitely need a larger staff."

Styer, in his report, said he is cooperating with other youth commissions to establish joint youth programs and services. A task force of young people is devising plans to refurbish and open the drop-in center, he added.

Officers of the Hoffman Estates Teen Club have pledged its $400 treasury to aid in getting the center operational, Alexa said.

Commission members plan a meeting Jan. 3 in the municipal building at 8 p.m. to discuss Hoffman Estates Police Youth Division's yearly report.

County Spokesmen Deny It...

Cook County administrators of Emergency Employment Act (EEA) funding yesterday denied that salary reimbursements for Hoffman Estates' director of youth services will end before next August.

"As far as we know, it will last until the end of August, just as we said it would," said Edward Reid, a training coordinator of the EEA department at the county's Bureau of Administration.

Reid said there was an apparent misunderstanding with village officials who anticipated reimbursement for the salary of Bryan Styer would be cut off in January or February.

The money comes from the federal government, and Reid said it would continue unless President Richard Nixon orders it stopped. Personnel from the department would contact the village today to clarify the matter, Reid said.

Even if the funding stops, it appears unlikely Styer's position would be eliminated, said George Longmeyer, village manager.

Longmeyer, who was under the impression the funding would end Jan. 15, said he had not received official notice but had inferred from "hearsay" the federal government would discontinue the allocations.

THE VILLAGE first participated in the program in August 1971. Its initial application and approval was for one year. Since then, reimbursement for Styer's salary has been handled with monthly applications, and approvals. Longmeyer said he believed allocations for 1972 had not been approved, and the county agency was disbursing funds from excesses in its allocation. These would have resulted from program applicants that either did not actually participate or that dropped out mid-way through the year, he said.

"It is our intention, at this time, as far as I know, to keep Styer, 'even if the funding is dropped,' said Longmeyer. 'We feel that the service he provides is needed. It's a worthwhile program, and he appears successful with the program. I don't anticipate the program being scrapped at all.'"

And even though federal reimbursement cannot be obtained for a second youth counselor, Longmeyer indicated the chances are good the village board will agree to spend village monies to hire one.

"It is my understanding the youth commission will recommend we hire a second youth worker, due to Bryan's work load being so heavy. I can see the need for it. I will probably go along with the youth commission recommendation, because according to what I've observed of Bryan's work load, he's getting swamped," said Longmeyer. He noted, however, the village board must approve the expense.

be dissolved, Binder said.

Park Board President Tom Barber said, "We are very pleased this has come to pass. Many have said that the differences between the two groups could not be overcome, but this proves them wrong."

"The key to the whole effort is that we will now be able to offer baseball to any boy in the community that wants to play," he added.

IBA formed last year after the HEAA announced that there were not enough fields to accommodate everyone. The new group organized and adopted the motto "all shall play."

IN A STATEMENT released jointly by the HEAA and IBA, leaders of the two groups stated, "The joint effort between the IBA and HEAA to promote a baseball and softball program for all the youth in Hoffman Estates has been a long time in the making and hopefully will meet the needs of the community in years to come."

Further meetings are being planned to complete arrangements for the 1973 season. Rush, in recommending adoption of the resolution creating the new group, proposed that the organization take the necessary steps to officially join the Little League.

He also suggested that immediate attention be given to increasing the number of baseball fields available for the 1974 season.

vital area of public service have earned the gratitude of the people of your community and all who are concerned with the welfare of American education."

Mr. Fremd, born July 12, 1902, attended a one-room school house in Palatine and one of the new rural high schools in the state, graduating in 1920.

He became involved in the running of schools in 1928, when he happened to attend a board election meeting. "I was sitting in the back of the room minding my own business when someone nominated me for the board," he recalled in an interview last spring. "The next thing I knew, I was elected."

Mr. Fremd served on the elementary school board until 1946, and was instrumental in the consolidation of area school districts into what is now known as Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

He was elected to the Dist. 15 board of education in 1946, and served until 1957.

MEANWHILE, he also served on the High School Dist. 211 board of education, from 1937 to April of this year. During his 35-year term, he served on 10 separate occasions as president of the school board, and numerous other times as secretary. He rarely missed a board meeting.

Mr. Fremd once said that his greatest enjoyment was serving as a liaison between the elementary and high school boards of education.

With a seat on both boards, he was able to report back and forth, forming in effect a "quasi-unit district." He was responsible for much joint action by the two groups.

Mr. Fremd's many local honors include a Spotlight on Youth award in 1970 from the Palatine Township Youth Committee, and the naming of the Future Teachers of America chapter at William Fremd High School after him.

In addition, the 1973 Palatine vehicle sticker is designed in his honor.

Library Adds New Encyclopedia

The Schaumburg Township Public Library has added Compton's Encyclopedia to its reference materials.

Librarian Michael Madden said the Compton's Encyclopedia was given top position on the merit rating chart of recommended encyclopedias in the latest edition of general encyclopedias in print. This is an independent rating that helps consumers evaluate the worth of encyclopedias on the market.

Compton's features the copyrighted fact-index. Using the index patrons can find articles, photographs, maps, charts and illustrations in the main text.

The fact-index has more than 24,000 entries, with short articles not included in the main text. Fact entries also are listed in the main text. "This unique two-way cross referencing means that, whether you check the main text or the fact-index, you will find the answer to your question," said Madden.

Police Organization Elects New Officers

The Hoffman Estates Police Department chapter of the Fraternal Order of Police elected new officers to two-year terms recently.

The new officers are Sgt. James Dutton, president; Det. Earl Mauer, secretary, and Richard Osborne, treasurer. The FOP unit represents the policemen in discussions with village officials over salary and other matters.

Center Fund At $1,426 And Growing

Dollar donations add up. In an effort to help The Salvation Army Community Counseling Center maintain its services to suburban families in crisis, the Herald is asking its readers to contribute $1 or more to a special Christmas season fund.

A total $1,426.50 had been received yesterday with more donations arriving daily.

"We appreciate this response to our call for help," said Charles E. Hayes, Herald editor and publisher. "The task of trying to prevent family ills and to cure them is a tremendous one. The need and demand for family counseling services exceed the center's limited resources, and it desperately needs help if it is to continue helping troubled families in our Northwest suburbs."

The professional, full-time family service agency is headquartered in Des Plaines with branch offices in Palatine and Schaumburg. A third office will open soon in Arlington Heights. The agency serves suburbanites in Wheeling, Palatine, Schaumburg and Elk Grove Townships and Des Plaines.

THE CENTER is financed largely by The Salvation Army and Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy campaign with some income provided by a modest fee structure. It must depend, however, on the communities it serves for its continued service in the suburbs.

Proceeds from the Christmas season fund will be used to help defray an estimated 1972 deficit of $15,000.

Many readers enclosed notes of hope and encouragement with their donations.

Wrote Mrs. James A. Brown of Schaumburg: "I would just like to write a short note to you to say I don't think there is a better or more helpful organization than The Salvation Army. They are always there when needed."

"As a long-time member of the business community here, we are aware of the great work being done by The Salvation Army and want it to be continued," wrote Roger E. Sellstrom of Sellstrom Manufacturing Co., Palatine.

FROM Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Omahan of Buffalo Grove came this endorsement:

"The work of The Salvation Army has always been at the top of our list, right after our church and parish obligations. The Salvation Army is true charity. They give without asking. Their motto, as in no other charitable organization, is 'If a person asks for help, it is given.' And no questions are asked whether one is rich, poor or in-between."

I. H. Syoen of Arlington Heights echoed the sentiments of many readers toward the center with his simple comment, "God bless you wonderful people!"

IN ADDITION to gifts of $1, $2 and $3, a number of readers have contributed $5, $10 and more. Donations range from $1 given by a Rolling Meadows pensioner to $100 from a Park Ridge woman.

Support also came this week from

All-Area Counseling Center Handles Varied Problems

by HARRY SIGALE

The Salvation Army Community Counseling Center is all things to all people, according to Mrs. Marge Lusinski, director of the family services department.

The family service department handles the counseling of 834 families in Schaumburg, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Palatine Townships and the City of Des Plaines and is involved in such areas as marital, parent-child, adolescent problems and depression.

The center mainly deals with middle income families and charges fees based on a family's gross yearly income plus the number of persons in the family. But, Mrs. Lusinski emphasized, the center doesn't turn anyone away, even if they can't afford to pay.

With 11 social workers, a case worker and secretarial personnel, Mrs. Lusinski feels the center is meeting the needs of the people in helping them solve their own problems.

Staff personnel conclude that their purpose in dealing with individuals or families with problems is to act as a catalyst, to let the patient find his or her own solution to his or her problem.

EACH SOCIAL worker is assigned a variety of cases but the most pressing problems people come to the center with are marital and parent-child.

Mrs. Lusinski, three social workers, Shirley Whitman, Mitz Takehara and Phyllis Gilson, and a case assistant, Holly Kusmer, explain in general terms some of the most common problems they handle and the process by which they first come in contact with people.

Mrs. Kusmer is in charge of the initial contact with persons seeking help. She takes about 60 to 70 phone calls a month from people asking to be counseled. She conducts an interview with each caller and determines whether the center is equipped to handle the problem or whether to refer the person to another agency.

"Usually the people who call do so because a crisis has just occurred, such as woman who has just found out her husband is having an affair," Mrs. Kusmer said. "Then I ask how they think we can help them. Usually they just want to talk to a third party. Then I ask if they've tried to solve the problem themselves before calling."

When it is determined that a person seeking help should be counseled at the center, the case is assigned to a social worker, who will conduct interviews at the office or make house visits.

MOST OF the persons counseled make regular visits to the center and by far the number one problem is marital.

The social workers listed several of the most common reasons for marital problems: lack of communication, infidelity, alcoholism and outside pressures.

In some cases where a communications breakdown is evident it is determined that the problem existed for a long time but that it came to the forefront when something like children growing up and leaving home occurs.

The couple is married several years, probably 20 or more, and they raise a family. When the children become independent and seek a life of their own the parents are suddenly faced with renewing a relationship they haven't had since they were first married, according to the staff.

"When the children are in the home, the couple's problems haven't surfaced too much yet," said Mrs. Lusinski. "But when they've grown and out of the home the couple is left to themselves. One of the parties (realizing there are problems) wishes to focus on their problems and bring them out in the open. But the other party doesn't want to face up to them. The first party then seeks help."

ANOTHER problem handled at the Center is the ones resulting from young couples getting married because the girl was pregnant. The girl is interested in getting married, the counselors said, but the boy wants the "prerogatives" of being a boy. He hasn't grown out of adolescence yet. The girl probably wouldn't have married the same type of person later on in life, they said. This shotgun marriage approach has resulted in the deterioration of many relationships.

Another common problem is the one involving the parent and the child and most often occurs because of the relationship the parents have with one another.

According to the counselors, the child is sometimes pressured to achieve too much at school. Some parents are too preoccupied with themselves to show interest in the child. There is no communication. Then the child misbehaves. It's hard for parents to understand this. They think that in their own way they are good parents.

An example of this is parents who come to the center about their child; they are there for 15 minutes talking about Johnny's problems but after that the conversation swings to the couple's own marital problems — then they don't talk about or mention Johnny's name again.

Ogilvie Appointees Dropping Out?

by BOB LAHEY

The announced resignation of Peter B. Bensinger, director of the Illinois Department of Corrections, may be preliminary confirmation of reports that key aides to Gov. Richard G. Ogilvie have no intention of sticking around to help get the administration of Gov.-elect Daniel Walker off the ground.

Bensinger, credited with major steps in reshaping the Illinois penal system, has been widely considered one of Ogilvie's most fortunate choices as a top aide. There have been reports that he was among those whom Walker hoped to persuade to stay on.

Instead, Bensinger announced that he will leave Springfield the day Walker arrives, to head the Chicago Crime Commission.

His resignation was the first to be announced, but an aide close to Gov. Ogilvie predicted many days ago that there will be score of key aides who will not be interested in sticking around to help make the transition between administrations.

CONCERN PERSISTS among Capitol watchers over the steps being taken by Walker in preparing to assume the governor's chair. As late as last weekend, one legislator reported that a number of department heads were still saying they have had no communication from Walker's office.

At the same time, however, Walker's initial appointments have been greeted enthusiastically by those who believe wholesale reforms are needed in state government.

Walker's first two announcements were that Rep. Anthony Scariano of Park Forest will head the Illinois Racing Commission and that U. S. Rep. Abner Mikva will chair a new ethics board charged with investigating key state employees and enforcing Walker's requirements for financial disclosure. Both Scariano and Mikva were defeated in the recent election and both have many admirers who are happy to see them in important governmental roles.

Their appointments are taken by many, including Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, whom Walker defeated for the Democratic nomination for governor, as hopeful signs of the kind of team Walker will put together.

Even on the Scariano appointment, however, there is disquiet on the part of Republicans and some dismay among Democrats over Walker's approach.

FOLLOWING THE resignation of Alexander McArthur as head of the racing commission, Walker called a press conference at which he publicly called on Ogilvie to appoint Scariano forthwith.

Ogilvie was understandably angered at not having been given that request privately and to date has ignored it.

Some friends of Ogilvie believe that all Walker would have needed to do to get Scariano appointed immediately was to phone the governor beforehand and ask him.

Walker's actions may be simply an effort to continue projecting his campaign themes of "restoring government to the people" and "not going to the bosses." The anti-boss theme, directed primarily at Mayor Daley, served him well in the primary campaign, and he attempted to picture Ogilvie as a comparable boss in the Republican Party during the general election campaign.

Had he gotten Ogilvie to go along with naming his racing commission chairman, Scariano, strictly speaking, would have been an Ogilvie appointee, not a Walker

by MIKE FEINSLBERG

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If the peace that was almost "at hand" when Congress adjourned in October is not achieved by the time it returns in January, look for a new and more determined effort on Capitol Hill to legislate an end to American participation in the Vietnam War.

Even though the breakdown of peace talks, the resumption of intense bombing and the heavy loss of U.S. aircraft and airmen have stiffened the spine of the end-the-war bloc, the prospects of success appears no stronger than in the past.

In any event, it will take months for Congress first to find its collective will and then to force its will on President Nixon, who has managed for four years to run the war free of congressional restraints.

EVEN BEFORE Congress has assembled, there have been — and there will be more — demands:

—That Congress set the final date for a U.S. presence in Southeast Asia, contingent only upon the Communists' release of American prisoners and regardless of the effect withdrawal may have upon the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

—That Congress punish or prod Thieu by denying him further military or economic aid. Surprisingly, even Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, Pa., an administration loyalist on foreign policy matters, came out Wednesday for an aid cut off.

—That Henry A. Kissinger be summoned before a joint session or a committee of Congress to explain what went wrong between his Oct. 26 "peace is at hand" statement and last week's apparent impasse in the talks. Many in Congress blame Thieu.

—That the United States return to Paris to sign — over Thieu's objection — the tentative agreement that Kissinger worked out in October. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called on Nixon at a news conference Wednesday to take that course. He said the size of the international peace-keeping force to police the agreed-upon cease-fire was an insignificant issue.

NIXON'S failure to achieve a U.S. withdrawal could sour his relations with Congress, even on domestic matters.

Last week, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said, "We in Congress, and I for one, will extend the olive branch to the administration in the coming Congress."

But Tuesday night he withdrew it. "One way or another, we must be out of Vietnam in early 1973," he said in a speech delivered in New York.

EVEN SUCH staunch an administration supporter as conservative Sen. William E. Brock III, R-Tenn., said he would keep his options open on whether to support the White House in another end-the-war debate. He said, though, that he tended to back Nixon and believed the new round of bombing was designed to head off a communist offensive and was unrelated to the negotiations.

Walker Returns, Chats With Leo

PECATONICA, Ill. (UPI) — Gov.-elect Daniel Walker paid a return visit Thursday to this small northern Illinois town where he visited Rocky's cafe and chatted with farmer Leo Kraut during his campaign walk.

Kraut, a 55-year-old cattle and crop farmer who describes himself as a lifelong Democrat, said Walker had stopped by the farm during his walk and asked for a drink of water.

"We got to talking about the tax problem," Kraut said, "and we were joking and I said, 'How do I know I can trust you?'"

Walker's office said the governor-elect remembered Kraut's query, and referred to the question frequently during his campaign. So he decided to pay him another visit.

"I'm sort of thrilled," Kraut said. "I'm a lifelong Democrat and my folks were, too. But a lot of my friends are Republicans, and they voted for him (Walker). Everybody around here really thinks he's the man."

TWISTED WRECKAGE from the tail section of a Delta Airlines jetliner littered the runway yesterday at O'Hare Airport. Airport officials said they did not know yet when or where pieces of the two planes that collided Wednesday night would be removed. Investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board will examine the wreckage as part of their efforts to determine why the two aircraft were on the fatal collision course.

Plane 'Shouldn't Have Been There'

by RICH HONACK

"The only information I have is that there was an accident and an airplane where it shouldn't have been."

Those were the comments of Neal Callahan of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) at a press conference yesterday afternoon. Callahan and Rudolf Kapustin of the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) spoke in the aftermath of an airplane crash that killed 9 and injured 11 at O'Hare Airport Wednesday evening.

"I can't say what caused the accident or who was at fault. It will be up to the NTSB to decide that information," added Callahan.

Kapustin, who will head the investigation into the cause of crash, would not comment on the crash.

"ALL I CAN TELL you is I received a call last night that a DC-9 airliner had crashed on take off. When I arrived on the scene I saw a Delta Airlines Convair 440 partially damaged and the complete wreckage of the North Central DC-9," said Kapustin.

The chief investigator added that his team of investigators had done nothing as of yesterday afternoon but try to get organized.

"We have had no opportunity to interview anyone at this time and we are in no position to make a judgment on what caused the crash," he added.

The NTSB spokesman said his group will not release any judgments until at least four or five days from today.

He said the investigation should be rather easy because the crews from both airliners involved in the crash are alive, there are witnesses, and the recorders from both planes and the controllers are intact.

ASKED IF THE controllers could have been the cause for the problem Callahan answered, "We have a very complex system at O'Hare and there are two controllers. One assumes the responsibility for the aircraft when he is five miles out. Once the aircraft is cleared for landing he is picked up by the ground controller.

"The ground controller assumes responsibility of the plane until it is stopped," explained Callahan.

He said with the fog as heavy as it was last night the guiding was done by radar in the control tower. He added that he has not heard the conversation between the controller and pilots, but it is on tape.

Callahan also said it is normal procedure for an aircraft to cross a main runway if it is a route that must take the plane from point 'A' to point 'B'. "However, a clearance must be given to that aircraft before it crosses the runway," he said.

THE FAA OFFICIAL would not comment on whether the Delta jet was given that clearance.

Callahan then said there have been a few near misses in similar occasions at O'Hare. He confirmed reports that one of those misses involved a North Central plane and a military plane only a few weeks ago.

When asked if the controllers at O'Hare are overworked Callahan said,

"There is a lot of traffic at this airport and we often add controllers."

Callahan said the FAA would never send aircraft from O'Hare to Pal-Waukee Airport in Wheeling to alleviate the traffic problem. "Pal-Waukee is not set up to receive the type of craft that come into O'Hare. Those planes would never be rerouted to that airport."

It was also confirmed at the new conference that the airport had been opening and closing throughout the day because of the weather. At the time of the crash the forward visibility was at 1,200 feet or just over the limit for flying.

CALLAHAN DEFENDED his position on the visibility when a reporter told him he was told it was hard to see a foot forward during the fog. "Our instruments told us we had more than 1,200 feet forward visibility," he repeated.

When pressed for an answer on the ceiling at the airport at the time of the crash he said "I don't have an answer for that question."

He also said he could not confirm a report that there were tire marks on the top of the Delta jet that were made by the North Central Airliner. "I haven't been up there so I can't say," answered Callahan.

According to Callahan the FAA has no say in the closing of the airport during weather conditions. He said it is the administration's job to advise the pilots of the conditions and let them make the decision to leave the ground under certain conditions.

"IT IS IMPOSSIBLE for the FAA to know the qualifications of every crew of every aircraft. Only the pilots can make that decision. And only the City of Chicago can close the airport entirely," said Callahan.

Following the press session Kapustin outlined what his team of investigators will be looking for as a cause to the accident. They will look at the following: human factors, weather, witnesses, air traffic control, operations, systems, power plants, structures, the chief investigator's findings, tape recording and management findings in Washington, D.C.

This is the third such investigation headed by Kapustin, who said the team is entirely different from the one that is completing its investigation on the crash near Midway Airport exactly two weeks ago.

The team had not yet decided where it would move the wreckage for examination.

O'Hare Closing Decision A 'Judgment Call'

by KURT BAER

A decision to close Chicago's O'Hare Airport always is "a judgment call with numbers" in the words of the one man who had the power to shut down the world's busiest airport the night of the fiery airplane crash that killed nine people.

The City of Chicago has sole authority to close O'Hare, a Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) spokesman said yesterday. And the city employee responsible for making that decision is J. Patrick Dunne, first deputy commissioner of aviation.

"It's my decision with advice from the FAA and some others. But yesterday (Wednesday) we didn't need much help. We were below minimum most of the day," Dunne told the Herald yesterday.

The "minimum" that Dunne was talking about are minimum visibility standards both forward and vertical.

O'HARE HAD BEEN closed to most planes for about four hours Wednesday prior to the collision of a North Central Airlines DC-9 and a Delta Air Lines Convair 440. But the airport was reopened about five o'clock, one hour before the crash, Dunne said.

Updated weather information is supplied to both the pilots and the air traffic controllers. It is this information plus the advice of pilots and airline technicians that Dunne says he uses in deciding whether to close some or all of O'Hare's runways.

"We have three weather services to rely on — United and American Airlines' meteorological service, plus the U.S. Weather Bureau," he said.

DESPITE THE DETAILED weather information, the decision on whether planes will take off and land remains largely a judgment call.

"We don't state that an airport should be closed. We look at the weather and advise pilots that it might be below minimum for flying," an FAA spokesman said.

Minimum conditions will vary according to the type of aircraft, the electronic equipment it carries and the pilot's experience.

A pilot does not have to take off or land if in his judgment weather conditions are unfit.

"The pilot is in command of that aircraft and is directly responsible for the safety of the passengers on board. He doesn't have to fly if he feels conditions are unsafe, though he might have to fight a battle with his company afterwards because these are questions of judgment," a spokesman for the Airline Pilots Association (ALPA) said in Washington yesterday.

He declined to comment on the circumstances surrounding Wednesday night's crash, other than to say that a team of ALPA pilots will assist the National Transportation Safety Board in its investigation of the incident.

O'HARE AIRPORT operates under two general visibility categories, Dunne said.

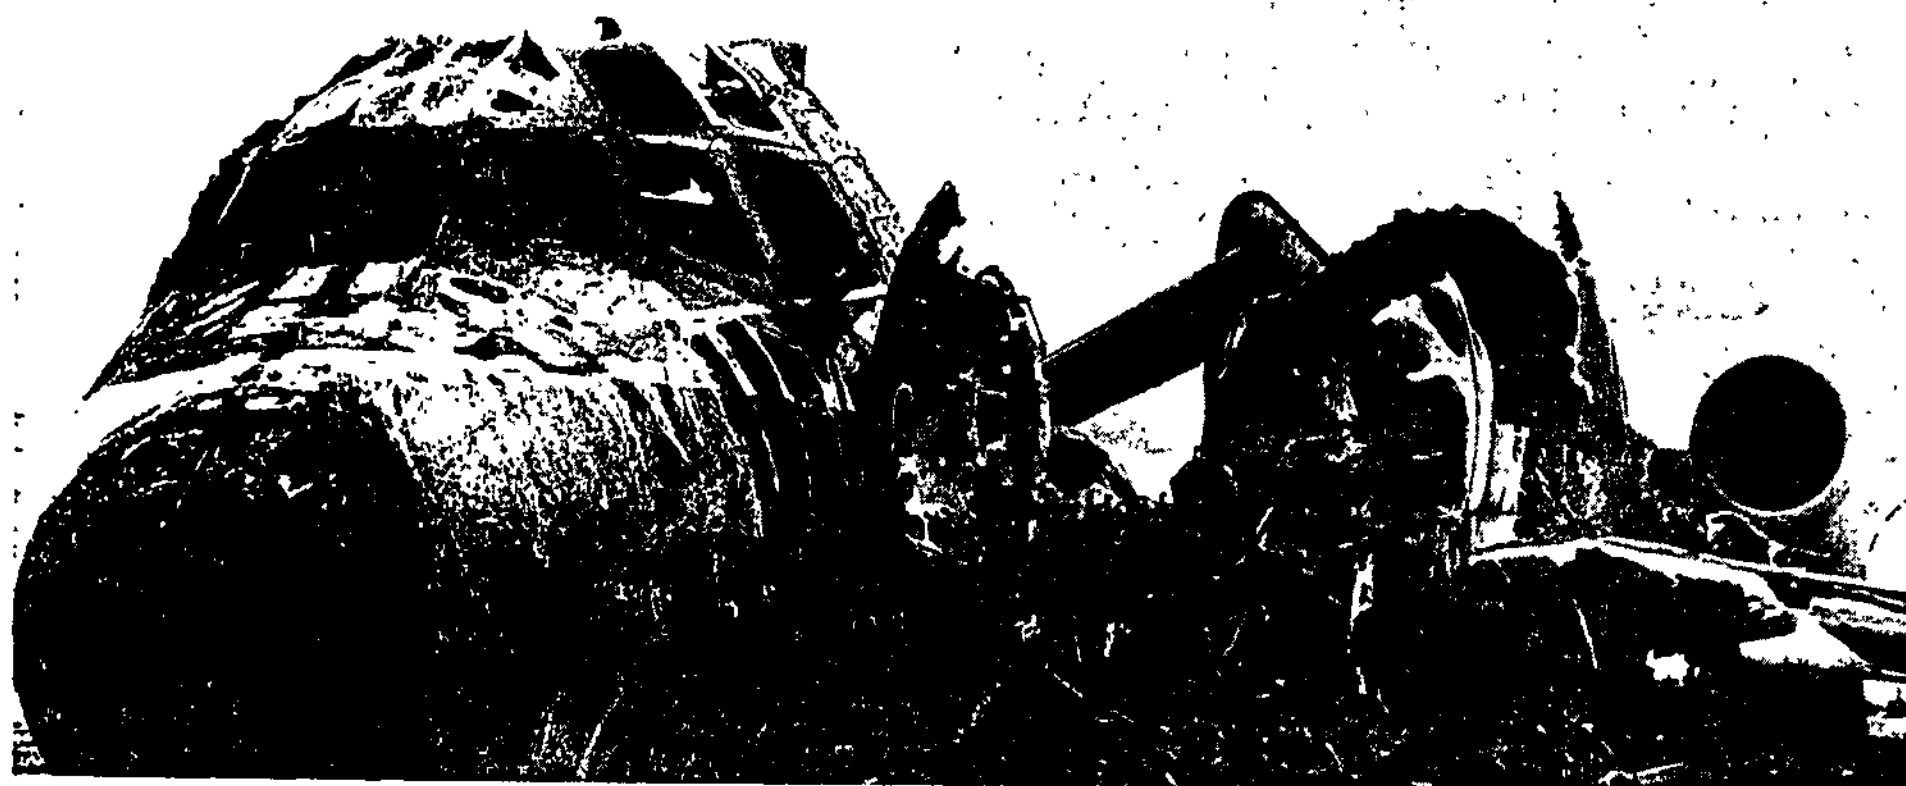

Minimum flight conditions are a quarter-mile visibility with a 100-foot ceiling but some pilots and planes cannot fly unless there is at least a half-mile visibility and a 200-foot ceiling.

FAA officials say there was slightly more than a quarter-mile visibility at O'Hare at the time of the crash but said they did not know the ceiling.

Dunne said O'Hare was closed immediately after the crash so that emergency trucks could get to the crash scene and because newsmen and other spectators had run out onto the airport runways.

Besides fog, O'Hare sometimes has to be closed because of ice and snow.

"The only thing you can do with ice is spread hot sand. And if the planes and runways continue to ice up, the airlines will stop flying altogether," Dunne said.

THE BURNED-OUT SHELL of North Central's DC-9 was still on the runway at O'Hare Airport yesterday. Nine of the plane's 41 passengers lost their lives shortly after 6 p.m. Wednesday when the North Central Airlines plane collided with a Delta Airlines jetliner in dense fog. Federal Aviation Administration officials said yesterday that the Delta aircraft, which had just landed after a flight from Tampa, Fla., was out of position on the runway at the time the crash occurred.

Clearing The Air On Energy Crisis . . .

The Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) called upon Midwest governors this week to set up special task forces for the coordination of current information about the energy shortage.

"What I've done in the last several days is to touch bases with each governor in the region we serve," said Terry Vangen, OEP's assistant director for the Midwest region, based in Chicago.

Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio are included in the Midwest region. Illinois Commerce Commission chairman David Armstrong serves as coordinator for Illinois.

"We suggest they discuss fuel conservation with industry and the public," Vangen said. "Then we ask the governors to jawbone with the refineries and major oil companies to see what they can do to allocate more supplies to their state."

"We're asking them also to consider the possibility of relaxing some environmental rules as a last resort, as with the burning of fuels which don't meet modern ecological standards (some grades of coal, for example)."

"Our biggest problem is with propane gas," he said. Farmers seek unusually large amount of propane gas to dry their crops, shrinking available supplies. Wet weather and a shortage of natural gas contribute to the problem. Industrial customers may be put on waiting lists for natural gas this winter, although residential customers have not faced this problem, Vangen added.

OEP is undertaking special arrangements with the Interstate Commerce Commission and other agencies to speed the delivery of needed energy supplies to the Midwest. In the meantime, he said, moderate weather conditions would alleviate part of the power crunch in the Midwest.

"The long-range outlook, though, is for somewhat colder weather than usual," Vangen said, "and January is usually the heaviest demand period for the season."

Vangen anticipates that President Nixon will deliver a major energy message in the near future. OEP, along with other federal agencies, is studying long-range solutions to energy supply situation.

PART OF the complaint within the oil industry relates to the concentration on long range plans and neglect of current problems, according to oil industry expert Herbert Hugo. He is Midwest bureau chief for the daily publication, Platts Oilgram, in Chicago.

"Just in the last few days the federal government has started loosening the restrictions on oil import quotas," he said. Hugo noted that it usually takes a long time for foreign oil supplies to reach the Midwest area.

"Meanwhile, there are plants in the Midwest area being forced to shut down in Minnesota and southern Illinois," Hugo continued. "In Wisconsin, the Wisconsin Gas Co. advised 27 of its largest users that they can have natural gas supplies only on weekends until next April."

"These industries are being forced to turn to No. 2 fuel oil, which has started to run short," he said. The inequities of Phase II price controls and the lack of economic incentives to develop domestic oil supplies also were cited by Hugo as factors in the power shortage.

COMMONWEALTH Edison Co. vice president Glen Beeman said the all current power demands are being met and that no curtailments in service are anticipated this winter. However, the utility will face a power shortage problem next summer, he said, if new nuclear units in Zion are not licensed for operation.

Beeman conceded that Edison is experiencing difficulty in obtaining normal supplies of No. 2 heating oil. Moderate weather would be a boon to the utility in meeting current power needs, he said.

"We're all right for the next few weeks, but if the weather gets very cold and the (oil) supplies don't materialize, this could hurt us," Beeman said.

Natural gas can be substituted as a fuel to operate the Edison generators, but this fuel also is in short supply. Beeman said neighboring power companies may have excess power capacity which the utility could purchase. As a last resort, certain coal burning units could be activated.

Hospital Budget Plea 'Wasteful'

THE HERALD

Friday, December 22, 1972

Section I —9

by ROGER CAPETTINI

Clinging what he called "tremendous waste" in the operation of the Cook County hospitals, a Republican county commissioner announced yesterday he would seek to have financial control of the hospital placed back in the hands of the county board.

County Comr. Charles Chaplin, of Winnetka, made the announcement as the county board's Finance Committee considered a preliminary budget submitted by the county Health and Hospital Governing Commission.

The tentative proposal, expected to undergo major revisions before it is adopted, calls for a total appropriation of more than $129 million for fiscal 1973. More than $85 million of the total would be used for the operation of the Cook County Hospital, slightly less than $30 million for the county-operated Oak Forest Hospital and $11 million for the governing commission itself.

The budget hearing also included a request that the hospital governing commission plan to take over the medical operations at the county jail medical facility, currently operated by the sheriff's department.

THE APPROPRIATION request for the coming year by the governing commission represents an increase of $3,054,039 over the budget of last year.

Chaplin said he has no criticism of the medical treatment being provided at the hospital, but attacked what he called "administrative fat" in the budget request. He said he planned to meet with Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott later in the day to seek a way to transfer the financial responsibility of the operation from the governing commission to the county board.

The county board maintained that control until 1970, but lost it with the establishment of the governing commission.

While the county board still has to approve the hospital budget, it is severely limited in its ability to make any changes in the budget. When asked precisely what power the board has, Chaplin said, "None, really. Eventually we have to approve it."

The Republican commissioner said an act of the legislature would be required to remand financial control of the hospital back to the county board.

Chaplin noted that in the last year of county board operation of Cook County Hospital, 1969, there was an average of 1,824 bed patients with 5,872 employees. The budget that year was for slightly less than $32 million, including the appropriation for the governing commission itself.

By 1972, the average number of bed patients had dropped to 1,200, with 7,802 employees and a total appropriation of almost $96.5 million.

"THIS YEAR, Dr. Haughton (Dr. James Haughton, director of the governing commission) said he's going to lay off 1,000 employees and instead of saving the $5 to $10 million he said he would, he comes in with a budget increased more than $2 million," Chaplin said.

The commissioner specifically attacked proposed annual salary appropriations of $113,000 for Public Affairs, $414,000 for Planning and Development and $61,000 for Legal. "The governing commission has no right to a legal staff," Chaplin charged. "Their lawyer is the state's attorney. The administrative staff is incredible," he added. "There is no way I can or will vote in favor of this budget."

Dr. Haughton defended the budget during the stormy session in the County Board Room, stating the patient load at the hospital has not been reduced. He said the same number of patients are being treated, but because of improvements in medical techniques, the patients are being kept in the hospital fewer days.

Haughton said through "intensive treatment" of patients, the average stay goes down, but the costs for doctors and technical factors increase. "When you treat patients efficiently," he said, "costs don't decrease, they increase."

THE DIRECTOR added, however, that when technical efficiency increases, the costs for preparation of meals, laundering, and housekeeping are lessened, and fewer employees of that type are needed.

The two-hour session, which also included criticism of hospital accounting and budgetary techniques, was adjourned indefinitely. Jerome Huppert, chairman of the county board's Finance Committee said the governing commission is scheduled to discuss possible amendments before bringing the budget back before the board in mid-January.

Huppert also suggested the commission take over operation of the hospital at the county jail this year, over the protest of Dr. Haughton, who said it would be difficult to determine budget requirements for that facility in a short period of time.

Schools Plan More Mechanics Courses

More students may be able to take classes in power mechanics and auto repair in the future if studies authorized by the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education this week are successful.

The board authorized Assistant Supt. Rod McLennan and his staff to investigate building a facility to house advanced classes in mechanics and auto repair that are now operated in the district's individual schools.

McLennan told the board it might consider building the facility on the same lot at Prospect High School or of building on another site in cooperation with High School Dist. 211. Once the building is completed, McLennan said, beginning classes could remain in the individual schools and advanced students could use the central facility for their program.

In addition, the board approved a proposal that a coordinator be hired to work with a new program which places advanced mechanic students in local auto dealership repair shops for part of their school day. Eighteen students are now in the program and McLennan said that number may be expanded to as many as 50 next year.

McLennan explained that if the central classroom facility is built for the mechanics classes and the program of placing students in the repair shops is expanded, the district will be able to accommodate large numbers of students in the vocational program.

Supt. Edward Gilbert explained that because of student interest in the program now offered, he and McLennan have decided "we will either have to restrict the programs we offer in the buildings or provide a central facility."

Gilbert said he would prefer to build the facility in cooperation with Dist. 211 under a cooperative arrangement because more financial help would be available from the state.

Board members agreed that McLennan should continue studying the possibility of building the central facility and could use the district's architects as consultants in getting cost estimates. A further report on the program will be made in January.

Check State Parks For Winter Fun

Illinois state parks do not close in the winter. Granted, they are not so busy as they are in the summer, but they are just as beautiful, and perhaps more so.

Winter recreation has become increasingly important in the past few years, as more and more people begin to have more leisure time. And no matter where you live in Illinois, you're not far away from one of Illinois' more than 100 state parks and conservation areas.

A winter visit to a park can reward a visitor with many exciting hours of pleasure, and there are many ways you can pursue an outdoor sport if you happen to be a polar bear fan.

Many of the parks and conservation areas offer hunting. Grab your shotgun; there's still plenty of time before the season ends to enjoy some rabbit, quail, pheasant and partridge shooting. Many of the areas available to hunting enthusiasts require sportsmen to check in and/or out, so be sure before you go.

If hunting isn't your bag, but fishing is, many of the parks offer some fine ice fishing. Ice fishermen are of a select breed and you'll find most of them a friendly bunch, not to mention the reward of a skillet of panfish when you return home.

AND, IF YOU LIKE fishing but only on open water, don't let winter keep you at home. Illinois has two state-managed areas, Baldwin Lake and Sangre de Cristo Lake, that provide open water fishing year round. However, Baldwin Lake is closed on Mondays and not open to anglers during the waterfowl season, so be sure to check your calendar before you hook up the boat.

Klondike derbies, or winter camping, have become a major winter activity in the last couple of years. These are events most often of Boy Scout troops, but with the advent of tent heaters there has been a rise in popularity with older campers as well.

And even if you don't want to spend a winter night in the park, you might like to try a winter picnic. Many of the parks offer shelter facilities which have picnic tables.

Nature enthusiasts will find many enjoyable hours of hiking or just sitting in the great outdoors. Animal and bird watching can be a most relaxing way to spend a winter day. Just a pleasant walk through new-fallen snow can be a rewarding pastime.

Ice formations on rocks and trees provide a photographer with thousands of cooperating models.

Interpreters at seven parks conduct nature walks daily, if you prefer to go with a group. These parks include Mississippi Palisades, Rock Cut, Starved Rock, Illinois Beach, Kickapoo, Pere Marquette and Giant City. All of these parks, except Kickapoo, are equipped with visitor centers which explain the ecology of the park and can serve as warming facilities.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

John Rau of New York won the national team championship with Ely Culbertson, Billy Barrett and John Carpenter in 1970 when he was less than 25 years old. He overbid a trifle then and still overbids a little in rubber bridge today.

His four-heart call had little to commend it except courage, but with skillful play and a little bit of luck he brought it home.

He won the spade lead; ruffed a spade; led the jack of trumps; let it ride after West played low; led a second trump to dummy's queen; ruffed another spade with his last trump and played the three of clubs.

West took his ace and after East signaled with the nine, West continued with the jack.

Johnny ruffed in dummy; played the ace of trumps to pull West's king and cashed dummy's last two spades.

East discarded three diamonds as did South. This left East with the ace of diamonds and queen-six of clubs.

At this point East claimed the rest of the tricks.

Johnny said, "Making four."

West said, "You've already lost a trick."

"Right," said Johnny. "But I am only

A five-cent reduction in tolls on the Illinois Tollway system appears likely if independent consulting engineers agree with preliminary conclusions of the Illinois Tollway Authority.

The authority, at the suggestion of Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, has asked for a feasibility study by the engineering firms to determine whether it may reduce passenger car tolls at each collection station from 30 to 25 cents.

Elliott W. Frank, chairman of the authority, explained that the feasibility studies by the independent agencies are required by the bonding resolution under which the authority borrowed funds in the 1950s for tollway construction. The Continental Bank of Chicago, trustees for the bondholders, must be assured that the reduction "will not in any way endanger the bonded indenture for a period of 10 years" before it may be instituted, Frank explained.

He said the authority still has about $429 million bonded indebtedness.

Frank said studies by the authority's Toll Collection and Engineering departments indicate that the reduction will meet the requirements of the bonding resolution.

The authority expects the feasibility study to be completed by Feb. 15. It will be conducted by the firms of Knowl, Bender, Stone and Associates, and Wilbur, Smith and Associates.

If the report is favorable, tolls could be reduced by April 1, Frank said.

Late Birthday Fete For Passenger

Mary Burchard celebrated her 69th birthday Wednesday night by sliding down the emergency chute of a Delta Airlines Convair 580.

She and her husband, John 72, both former Des Plaines residents, were among 86 passengers and seven crew members aboard the taxiing Delta jetliner that was struck in the tail section by a North Central Airlines DC-9, taking off from O'Hare Airport.

"The pilot had just finished announcing that we were late but were lucky to be on the ground. He said we didn't have a gate yet . . . then we felt the crash," Mrs. Burchard said, describing what happened immediately after the Delta jetliner touched down on the runway.

"Nobody panicked. The crew members were very nice and had us all leave the plane by sliding down the emergency chute," Burchard said.

"They had the runway lit up with flood lights and told us right away that all the emergency vehicles were at the other plane because that was where the injuries were. We couldn't even see the other plane but we did see the tail section and part of the wing of our plane lying on the ground," Mrs. Burchard said.

THE COUPLE said they had different thoughts running through their minds immediately after the crash.

Burchard thought their plane had left the runway but Mrs. Burchard said she thought the plane had crashed. "The lady sitting next to us — she was next to the window — told us afterwards that she saw lights coming toward our plane but didn't know what they were," Mrs. Burchard said.

After waiting on the runway for about half an hour following the crash the passengers on the Delta were bussed to the terminal and by 7 p.m., an hour after the crash, were in a taxi on the way to their motel.

BUT THE evening was not over for Mary Burchard. At 8:30 p.m. the Burchards were driven by their son, Tom Burchard of Des Plaines, to a surprise birthday party for her at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 760 Pearson St., where some 50 friends and relatives had been gathered for more than an hour anxiously waiting for the couple's arrival.

The Burchards, who will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary next June, said the crash won't keep them from flying again.

"Those things just happen," said Burchard.

MARY AND JOHN Burchard relate the experience they shared as passengers on the Delta Airlines jetliner involved in Wednesday's crash at O'Hare Airport. Burchard founded Burchards Cleaners, Des Plaines, in 1929. The couple moved to Florida after retirement two years ago.

Wednesday Crash Not First Of Kind At O'Hare Airport

Wednesday evening's crash of a North Central Airlines DC-9 and a Delta Airlines Convair 580 is not the first such incident to occur at O'Hare Airport.

According to both North Central and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) officials about four weeks ago an Air Force tanker knocked part of the tail section off a North Central Convair 580.

The collision was termed an "incident" rather than an "accident" by the FAA according to Neal Callahan, director of public affairs. He added that the cause of the crash was determined to be a "systems error." He said the error was in the traffic control system that covers the entire United States.

A North Central spokesman, Robert Hall, confirmed the incident and said the jet-fuel tanker, a KC-97, was taking off when the pilot noticed the Convair 580.

The Air Force jet made an emergency take off but still "clipped the tail section of the North Central plane," according to officials.

Weather conditions at the time of the crash are unknown. No one was injured in the incident.

Callahan said similar incidents have occurred in the past, but they are "an uncommon occurrence." Neither Callahan nor Hall would release any other details of the incident.

9 Crash Victims Identified

North Central Airlines has released the names of the nine persons killed Wednesday night in the crash of a North Central DC-9 at O'Hare Airport.

The dead were identified as:

1. Charles D. Blair, Madison, Wis.
2. Mrs. Helma Aalto, 79, Aurora, Minn.
3. Darlynn Darby, Baker, Ore.
4. John Kruse, Sun Prairie, Wis.
5. Beverly Dempsey, Rantoul, Ill.

6. Mrs. E. Tonder, Haffa, Norway.
7. Mrs. Beverly Long, Edgewater, Fla.
8. and 9. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Edward Wolf of Edgewater, Fla.

A Peacetime Carol
(As sung to the tune of "Chestnuts
Roasting on an Open Fire," or "The Christmas Song.")

Hanoi roasting in a napalm fire,
Phantoms sniping at their foes,
Peacetime talks bogged down in a mire,
With Henry telling us, "It's close."
Everybody knows a bombing when the war is slow,

Helps to make the season bright,
POWs, with their eyes all aglow,
Will find it hard to sleep tonight.
They know that Peace is on the way,
Dick Nixon told them all before Election Day,
And every mother's child will wonder why,
Their daddies still are being sent to fight and die.
And yet Dick's offering his standard phrase.
For us and "buddy" Nguyen Van

David Poling's Column

'A New Relation Among Men'

by REV. DAVID POLING

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column was written before the current dimming of hopes for peace. But the thoughts in the column still apply.)

The Christmas message heralded so long ago in Bethlehem has a special meaning for the whole world this year.
We stand at the threshold of a new political arrangement in Southeast Asia. We sense the coming cease-fire, the reduction of hostilities, the closing of open warfare. Peace is the word and with it comes hope. Our country has been so torn by war and the policies of killing that the Christmas message of peace, good will toward men has caught in our throats for nearly a decade.

Christmas 1972 gathers the hopes and yearnings of millions of people, for there is no better word than peace and that is why those first heavenly messengers used it with the coming of Christ.

The New Testament saw peace and its meaning in a broader understanding than the cessation of hostilities. For them it meant reconciliation between God and man, the coming of Jesus being the sign of God's love toward the whole world. Peace also contained, in biblical terms, a new relation between men. To be reconciled to God was fulfilled in your forgiveness and acceptance of your neighbor. Christians believe that Jesus Christ was the Peacemaker, serving the divine and human needs that always thrive on love and forgiveness.

Christmas 1972 will test every aspect of the angel's announcement. The obvious need for peace overseas must not distract us from the same demands at home. The controversies over the Vietnam war have piled havoc and hopelessness upon thousands of domestic victims, casualties of conscience and dissent.

There are three groups that need special attention, for they have carried special burdens as a result of our foreign policy.

1. The returning servicemen. Thousands upon thousands of young men have faced major disruptions in their normal life. Too many of these men have come back from overseas, cynical about society, tempted by drugs, and crushed by unemployment. They deserve and must have the high priority of government, educational, and religious groups to find their full life and their rightful place in this society. And that should be happening right now.

2. The returning civilians. Some experts claim that as many as 100,000 young men of draft age have left this country (or gone underground within the country) rather than participate in the destruction of Vietnam. Several thousand chose prison sentences instead of military service. Reconciliation must be offered here if we are serious about the word of peace at home. Amnesty can be a responsible act for a government to offer its own citizens. Many young men would accept the terms of domestic service to their country, perhaps for the same period that would have been claimed in military assignment. A thoughtful, concerned administration will find a solution to this heartache.

3. The dissenters. There have been men and women that took courageous stands against the war and suffered abuse and slander from many sides.
Leaders like the Berrigan brothers, William Stringfellow, Bill Coffin carried the burden of protest and carried it with nerve and intelligence. The imprisonment of the Berrigan was not a bright moment in American history. The release of Father Philip Berrigan (brother Dan was released earlier this year) by the U. S. Parole Board is one of the great announcements of this Advent Season and reflects leadership of President Nixon in a most creative way. Good will may be the greatest gift of all.

'Continue Saving Those Coupons'

Can you imagine what 160,000 Betty Crocker coupons look like? Can you also imagine how happy the children at Dixon School will be at Christmas when they will take advantage of the specially designed equipment for the retarded that these coupons, $600 worth, bought? They will be content using this equipment all year long, probably knowing that many people from our area helped get them this equipment, by sending me their coupons. I even had one dated 1947, 25 years old.

I couldn't resist buying $100 worth of individual gifts from "Wonderful Mr.
Wilson" at the Palatine Ben Franklin.
This man really knows the true meaning of Christmas, helping others, never losing his patience with me, having his clerk add up over 200 items on the adding machine in the back room, to make sure I didn't go overboard.

The many local groups, scouts, clubs, churches, all came through this year again, and we ended up with 40 large boxes of new toys. Some departments in Motorola, instead of their usual grab bag exchange, bought brand new toys for our collection. Kids of all kinds, ages, lovingly made gifts, and made friends, too.

Seventy dollars in cash was collected and this will go to about 12 cottages to pay for food; Coke, cake, chips and dips, candy, etc., things they normally don't get, to have a real Christmas party.

As usual, I find it hard to thank everyone. Many people left things while I was at work, or else when I asked who it was from they just smiled and said "a friend." Most contributions were multiple, just boxes and boxes of toys. Paddock Publications again gave me terrific publicity, making this eighth year again

grapher, were just great.

So, again in sincerely thanking everyone, could I just ask to please continue saving the coupons? If you have the time, cutting them, and tying them in bundles of 100 points would help the blis-ters to heal on my husband's and children's fingers. My Christmas prayer will be to thank my many friends, neighbors and my family for going along with me.

'Blessed Christmas To All'

There is no day in the year as beautiful as Christmas Eve. Along about dusk, a hush settles over the land as though in expectancy, the whole world seems to hold its breath in anticipation of His coming. Stars are more brilliant; even the bells ring out from the church steeple in silvery, clear tones to herald His birth. Christmas carols we have heard since the first of December take on a more beautiful meaning, "Silent night, holy night —" How beautiful those simple carols seem to echo our feelings, carols handed down, lived for generations. Christmas tree lights spread prisms of jewels on the new fallen snow, a fairyland to the beholders.

I sincerely hope that all families will be joined together in the spirit of peace and love.

A blessed Christmas to all.

1973 Budget Amendments Made

MSD Praises Salt Creek Plant Work

Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) officials yesterday praised the beginning of construction on the Salt Creek water reclamation plant, approved amendments to the district's budget, and delayed action on numerous new construction projects.

Board Pres. John Egan delivered his annual "state of the sewers" message, detailing district accomplishments in 1972. Egan said work on the Salt Creek plant is on schedule with construction 23 per cent completed.

The $43 million plant in Schaumburg Township is one of the major projects among the $122 million total of construction projects awarded during 1972.

Total district construction was accelerated this year by 300 per cent over 1971, Egan said.

OTHER NORTHWEST suburban projects which Egan singled out in his message included:

—Construction of the Wilke-Kirchoff basin in Arlington Heights.

—The work of the local river basin steering committees.

—The Chicago Underflow Plan of underground tunnels to abate pollution and flooding from overloaded combined sanitary and storm sewage.

—The design of proposed O'Hare and Poplar Creek water reclamation plant.

—The completion of a 4,000,000-gallons-per-day expansion of the Hanover Park water reclamation plant, and —The continuing use of liquid fertilizer for land reclamation at the Hanover reclamation water plant.

LATE YESTERDAY afternoon the MSD board approved amendments to the district's 1973 budget. The amendments bring the budget total to approximately $301 million.

The budget and tax levy of 79 million will mean 1973 tax rates for the district of 35½ cents per $100 assessed valuation. The tax rate may increase as general obligation bonds are issued during the year, however.

The amendments to the budget mainly distributed salary figures among individual employees and changed the district's insurance program.

The board also adopted a resolution proposed by new Trustee Joanne Alter to urge the MSD staff to expedite engineering work on the Chicago Underflow Plan. Earlier yesterday the board deleted eight items from its agenda.

THE DELETIONS were projects for which the district originally had planned to seek bids for construction, or which were to be awarded to contractors yesterday.

The board delayed the projects because new federal Environmental Protection Agency rules require the district to get EPA approval before seeking bids on a project. If the district proceeds without EPA approval, it risks losing federal grant contributions to help finance the project.

MSD General Supt. Ben Sosewicz said the new EPA rules may delay advertising for bids on numerous MSD construction projects until March or April.

Wages Up $8.7 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wages and other earnings of Americans rose $8.7 billion in November, the Commerce Department reported.

The department said this compared with an unusually large increase of $17 billion in October. About half of the October increase came from a 20 per cent boost in Social Security benefits.

The November increase included a $4.6 billion rise in wages and salaries, compared with a $7 billion rise in October. The slowdown in wages and salaries was in private industry, since government payrolls in November went up.

The Almanac

Today is Friday, Dec. 22, the 356th day of 1972 with nine to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn.

American composer Deems Taylor was born Dec. 22, 1883.

On this day in history:

In 1775, the Continental Naval Fleet was organized, consisting of two frigates, two brigs and three schooners. Sailors were paid $8 a month.

In 1864, Union Gen. William Sherman sent President Abraham Lincoln a message saying . . . "I beg to present you as a Christmas present the city of Savannah."

In 1941, Gen. Anthony McAuliffe of the American 101st Airborne Division, replied with one word when ordered to surrender by the Nazis who had him trapped . . . "Nuts."

What's Behind Santa's Compulsions?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It is reported that two shrinks in Dallas are making a psychiatric study of Santa Claus. And about time, too.

Anyone can tell from just looking at him that the old gent is a mass of complexes. Take those kinky red suits, for example.

Anytime you find a grown man dressing up in outlandish costumes like that, you can be pretty sure there's something Freudian in his background.

Then consider the fact that he lives at the North Pole. Wouldn't you say that's a bit misanthropic?

I mean, who else do you know with a North Pole address?

It's exclusive, sure. But I doubt this was a case of status seeking.

I'M NOT SAYING a man doesn't have a right to choose his own life style. If a man wants to turn his back on society by moving to the North Pole, more power to him. But why open a toy store?

And why elves?

Are you beginning to pick up a pattern here? A pattern of feeling rejected by the adult world and being unable to relate to persons his own size? In short, a person with an identity crisis?

Well, we all have our hangups. But when you put all these Santa Claus characteristics together, they add up to a real weirdo.

Then there is this business of the levitating sled. That is not exactly one of the earmarks of a person who has a firm grip on reality.

Nor is the compulsion to give away the toys he makes. That could be a sign of a severe guilt complex.

WHAT COULD HE be feeling guilty about? The Vietnam War hadn't even started when Santa Claus turned kook.

Apart from freaking out with elves and other flaky behavior, Santa's personal appearance is not terribly reassuring insofar as mental stability is concerned.

The weight problem is a case in point. He has reached a state of obesity that obviously is more serious than the flab that develops from sitting around watching football games on television.

I'd say a psychological disturbance is causing him to overeat. Which ties in with his roseate nose, the tell-tale mark of alcoholism.

And that beard and long hair — anti-establishment rebellion?

I'll leave further analysis to those two psychiatrists. But if you want a layman's opinion, Santa Claus is a hopeless Neurotic. And a dirty old man to boot.

The Doctor Says

Pap Smear: It's Not Obsolete Yet

by LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I was shocked recently to read that the Pap smear in the best laboratories across the country can detect only up to 50 per cent of women's cancers and that it is so ineffective because it frequently misses cancer of the upper womb. It only detects cancer of the mouth of the womb (cervix). Is this true?

I also read that a new "Gravlee Jet Washer" has been invented which detects 100 per cent accurately and that 3,500 women died from cancer of the upper womb in 1970. Is this true? What is the "Gravlee Jet Washer" test and why are doctors not using it when it is efficient, cheap and reliable. We women have believed that if our Pap smear shows negative we are perfectly safe. Previously the only sure test for detection of cancer of the womb was a dilatation and curettage (D & C).

Dear Reader — Don't knock the Pap test. It has made a wonderful contribution to health. The equal number of deaths from cervical cancer and endometrial cancer (cancer of the upper womb) is only because the Pap test and education about cervical cancer have been so successful. As recently as 1940 there were eight cancer deaths from cervical cancer to every death caused by cancer of the upper womb. The change is because the campaign against cervical cancer has been so successful. So, let's give credit where credit is due.

Cancer in the upper womb is normally closed off from the vaginal vault and could not be detected without a dilatation and curettage (D & C) which involved a general anesthetic and operative procedure. This was the procedure that was done whenever a woman had any unexplained bleeding and the advice to all women to go immediately and seek medical attention if they have any unexplained bleeding still applies. Early examination can save people's lives. In fact, at least one woman went to see her doctor, even though she had had a recent examination, because of this warning in this column and as a result had an early diagnosis and cure of cancer that would otherwise have gone undetected.

Now, the new invention you spoke of was developed by Dr. L. Clark Gravlee of Birmingham, Ala. It's a modified syringe, the tip of which can be inserted through the opening of the cervix at the mouth of the womb and inserted into the upper womb. By washing out the womb and suctioning out the fluid, this fluid is then available so the cells can be studied. This invention really makes it possible to obtain cells from the upper uterus to do the ordinary Pap test on them.

PRIOR TO THIS procedure the only cells that could be obtained were those in the vaginal vault and around the cervix located in the vaginal vault. This new procedure is relatively painless and rapid, and I am sure that it will be available soon in most offices where examinations of women for cancer are conducted.

One gynecologist defined the high risk candidate for cancer of the upper womb as women who are over 40, post-menopausal, menstruating after 45, obese, diabetic, hypertensive, childless and women on long-term estrogen therapy.

For the women in the United States who develop cancer of the upper womb, this method offers an opportunity for early detection and treatment. It should do for cancer of the upper womb what the routine Pap test and education have done for treatment of cancer of the cervix.

A Bible Makes An Appropriate Gift

by LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

Bibles make good Christmas gifts for three reasons.

First, they are the most appropriate thing you can give on what is supposed, after all, to be a religious holiday.

Second, many people who already have a Bible do not have one of the superlative new translations — and may be wishing they did.

Third, you can spend as much or as little as you like. Bibles suitable for Christmas giving range from more than $35 to as little as 35 cents.

There's little point in paying more than $19.95, however, even when you're spreading yourself. For $19.95 you can give someone the new two-volume edition of the Jerusalem Bible, one of the finest modern translations. It has just come on the market and is a beautiful job of book-making.

ANOTHER MAGNIFICENT modern translation, the New English Bible, is available in a standard hard-cover edition for $9.95, and in various fancy morocco bindings for almost any sum you wish to splurge. The standard edition would be fine for anyone who intends really to read the Bible instead of leaving it on the coffee table when the pastor calls.

"The Living Bible" really is a paraphrase rather than a translation of the Hebrew and Greek scriptures which constitute the Bible. But it's an excellent paraphrase, and many people find it even easier to read and understand than modern English translations. You can buy it in a padded-cloth edition for $9.95 or shoot the works on a leather edition at $24.95.

If the gift is for someone who feels there is only one "real" Bible — the revered old King James Version — you can delight him or her with a copy of "The New Scofield Reference Bible," which comes complete with concordance for $8.95 in hardcover and up to $26.95 in leather.

AT THE BOTTOM of the price scale — but at or near the top in quality of translation — is the American Bible Society's modern English version of the New Testament, "Good News for Modern Man." This has become the best-selling book of all time — and it deserves to be. You can still buy the standard paperback for only 35 cents. Or you can go hog wild and pay $1.45 for an edition in extra-large print that's easy to read.

The non-profit Bible Society also is offering "The Psalms for Modern Man" at 10 cents a copy 50 cents in extra-large print and "Wisdom for Modern Man," which contains the books of Proverbs and Ecclesiastes, at 10 cents a copy.

The True Meaning Of Yule: To Light A Spark Of Charity

by United Press International

The teenaged Jewish girl was frightened when the angel appeared.

But the angel said:

"Do not be afraid, Mary, for God has been gracious to you. You will become pregnant and give birth to a son, and you will name him Jesus."

What's in a name?

In this case, quite a lot.

Jesus is the way the name has reached us through Greek, the language in which the New Testament was written. But the original Hebrew form was Joshua, or more fully Yehoshuah.

It means: "God saves His people."

Thus the whole message of Christmas is included in the name which Mary, dutifully obeying the angel's instructions, bestowed on the baby she bore in a manger at Bethlehem.

BUT WHAT DOES it mean to say that God, by drawing nigh to men in Jesus, "saves His people?"

Saves us from what?

Well, first of all, He saves us from ourselves.

Each of us, if he is honest about it, can confess with St. Paul:

"The bad traits I detest are always cropping out in me. But the good things I want to do, I never seem to get done."

That's what the doctrine of "original sin" is all about. To be human is to be flawed, to lack the innate capacity to be really good. We cannot achieve simple justice — let alone love, mercy and generosity — in our relations with others, without some outside help.

CHRISTMAS SAYS that help is available from God through Christ. It is called "grace" and no one has ever understood how it works. But millions know that it does work. It can make a saint of a dirty old man named Augustine, a fearless hero of a cowardly fisherman named Peter. It can even light a frail spark of charity in the heart of an old curmudgeon of a newspaperman.

Through Christ, God also saves us from despair.

True despair does not come from misfortune, or suffering, or even the approach of death. It comes from the fear that life has no meaning; that it is merely a brief interlude of self-awareness preceded and followed by nothingness; a struggle without enduring significance.

CHRISTMAS SAYS the God whose creative will brought us into being is determined to enjoy our company eternally. He will not let us disappear into nothingness because, out of all reason, He loves us.

An old German Christmas carol, which dates back to the 14th century, sums up the glad tidings of great joy in these words:

"Good Christian men, rejoice,
"With heart and soul and voice;
"Now ye need not fear the grave:
"Jesus Christ was born to save!"

Battle For 'Bells' Holds Special Position In Area

TRADITION AND rivalry are words that appear to belong almost exclusively to the vernacular of college football — right in there with Grange, Glpp, Harmon, Dear, Darrell, Woody, and all that kind of thing.

Old as the two words are, they are irreplaceable, for it is what they suggest that specifically separates the college game from the professionals.

There are many types of rivalries, all of which help any college season keep its hip pads up. There are intrastate rivalries, border rivalries, crosstown rivalries, and interservice rivalries.

They play for the Little Old Oaken Brown Jug, or something like that, and they admit it's more fun to play — and beat — someone you know.

Through the years tradition and rivalry have also been a real part of the high school sports scene, although obviously not on such a grand scale as USC vs. UCLA or Texas vs. Oklahoma.

Times are changing.

The traditions are dying, and it's a slow and painful death if you are a high school fan. It is distressing to see what has happened to tradition and rivalry on the prep level as areas expand and more schools are built. It was inevitable but it is still very sad in a way.

There are so many schools, so many teams, so many more people that it boggles the mind. It hasn't stopped yet. Progress is great, but there was something very special, about the genuine enthusiasm that was generated in the communities for those football and basketball games between neighbors like Harrington and Palatine and Arlington.

Those battles on the athletic field helped lighten the load at a time when there were more serious battles on other fields. In January 1945 the end of World War II was only months away. The Allies were planning a series of attacks along the front to destroy the German armies west of the Rhine.

Dwight Eisenhower, Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces, was preparing the final offensive blows which he intended to maintain incessantly until the final defeat of Germany.

Back home folks were worried about their loved ones on the front but feeling more confident with each passing day. Students at Palatine and Arlington high schools were aware of the situation in Europe and the Pacific in that winter of 1945, but they also had a minor worry.

It didn't seem so minor to the people involved. It was time again for another basketball game between Palatine and Arlington. Would the Cardinals lose again to the Pirates — for the 11th straight time?

There was more snow than usual on this January evening in 1945. Newspapers called it the worst storm of the winter, but the fans still packed Palatine's old gymnasium. Nobody wanted to miss this attraction.

Earl Stutzman guided a fine Palatine team, and Armand Seidler was in command of Arlington. Seidler had been in a precarious position when the season began, but a snappy 9-3 record had calmed down some of the critics who had been demanding his dismissal. Fans never change, do they?

It was a tension-packed game as expected and Palatine owned a 31-28 lead with 2:30 remaining. The Pirates appeared on their way to an 11th straight basketball victory over Arlington.

Suddenly, the Cardinals came alive. Al Stroker, a fine athlete, dropped in a rebound shot to cut the deficit to one and when a Pirate stall failed, Arlington took over again.

Stroker was fouled, and he calmly dropped in the tying free throw. Time was running out. Palatine came down the floor and missed a pressure free throw. The clock ran out with the fans standing and shouting. What more could they ask for in this neighborhood rivalry? The Cards and Pirates were headed into overtime.

It was all Arlington in that extra period. Stroker hit one from close in to kick things off and the Cardinals pulled out to a 37-41 victory, snapping the Palatine domination. Seidler's job was secure. The winner between Arlington and Palatine always felt a little more secure.

That game in 1945 was significant because it gave Arlington the "Sleigh Bells" for the first time and signaled the start of a new period in this fascinating rivalry, a period of incredible Cardinal domination.

In the 1943-44 season the Dads Club of Arlington had come up with the travelling trophy as a symbol of basketball supremacy between the Cards and Pirates. They hoped this would inspire Arlington teams in a series that favored Palatine for so many years.

It obviously helped.

Palatine now has won only five games in the "Sleigh Bells" series since 1944. Arlington has won 22 of the last 23, and Pirate victories have been so scarce they are easily remembered.

In one of the most memorable games in the series history, Palatine's Al Eck, now head football coach at Maine East, dribbled the length of the floor in the final five seconds to give Palatine a thrilling 61-59 victory in 1954. With 10 seconds left and Arlington trailing 59-56, the Cards' Denny Maher had hit a three-point play to knot the count.

Palatine didn't win the "Bells" again until Dec. 3, 1964 when Bob Wirsing poured in 30 points and Craig Gaare 21 in a 73-63 victory. And that, as Pirate fans are painfully aware, is the last time Palatine has won the "Sleigh Bells" game.

They've switched the time of the game from December to January to the night before Thanksgiving, but it was this Thanksgiving Eve date that drew the biggest crowds and enjoyed the most acceptance.

They now settle the "Sleigh Bells" during the first league game between the schools each year and that may mean a December or January meeting. Fortunately, it's early this year at holiday time, and many of the graduates and college students, who used to make up such a big part of the Thanksgiving Eve crowd, will have a chance to attend.

It certainly would make sense to keep this remaining piece of area basketball tradition at the same time every year. The trophy isn't very big and certainly doesn't look like much, but it is steeped in tradition and should not be casually dismissed.

At a time when it is so difficult to keep up with the present, the "Sleigh Bells" show, although just a one-night stand every year, always gives us a very refreshing reminder of the past.

HORSE SENSE is what Elk Grove's Bob Siomianowski uses this year as he tries to improve on his third place finish in the state meet in 1972. The Grenadier also received splits of 8.6 and 7.8 for an 8.2 average to help pace Elk Grove to a booming 132.21 team score against Maine East Wednesday night.

HARDWOOD PRIZE. Framed by bells and featuring the most recent scores in a basketball series between the Herald area's two oldest schools, the coveted "Sleigh Bells" trophy is displayed by Arlington Athletic Director Russ Altis. The trophy was instituted for 1943-44 and is given annually now to the winner of the first meeting each season between Arlington and Palatine. The Cardinals have only lost twice in the "Bells" series since 1953. The two teams will play again tonight in Palatine.

North Feature Matches Cards, Pirates Tonight

Chances are, it will be a while yet before Mid-Suburban League North Division basketball fans can draw much of a line on what direction the race is headed for this year.

It may take until well after the New Year before any team can take command, even though the usual slate of three division games is on the docket tonight. These will be the fourth league tests for each squad and the final ones until post-Christmas holiday tournaments.

Arlington, the North's only unbeaten team thus far, has a game lead on the others. But even if the Cardinals win tonight, there will likely be a team or two still within a game of them.

If Palatine can knock off Arlington in tonight's league headliner, there could be as many as four teams tied for first place within the next 24 hours.

Here's how each matchup looks:

ARLINGTON AT PALATINE
Both Arlington and Palatine sport red traveling uniforms, but just about all similarity between the two basketball teams ends there.

The Pirates, with an experienced nucleus and an offensive-minded style of play, will be wearing the home whites for this encounter. That leaves the inexperienced, defense-oriented Cards with only their thoughts of a league lead to share with the hosts, Arlington's 3-0; Palatine's 2-1.

Also at stake is the "Sleigh Bells" trophy, a traveling award that hasn't been in the Pirate trophy case since 1964. Palatine has only won it once in the past 23 games! (See Bob Frisk's "Kickin' It Around" column.)

"This could be one heckuva showdown if we're prepared for them," observed Arlington's George Zigman. "We're getting better every game but we're still giving away the edge tonight. This is, I think, the best club Ron (Flinck) has had over there and having to go over to their place doesn't help our chances a bit."

"They've got a couple of kids with definite all-conference potential in (Jim) Sander and (Rick) McCormick," Zigman continued. "And they've got some fine talent to fill in the rest of slots. It's a crucial contest and we're going to have to be at our best to beat them."

Arlington was at, or close to, their best last week when they fell to West-Aurora's talented group. Through that contest and a victory the previous night at Fremd, Zigman was able to see some young talent blossom on his own squad in underclass guards Jerry DiSimone and

FEELS LLOYD, R.M. SLIGHTED

Dear Sirs:

I, like so many others, will probably decide that this letter is a waste of time, for I am from Rolling Meadows (and proud of it). As soon as you see where it's from, it will probably be discarded in the oval file (wastebasket). Your paper may have "Rolling Meadows" printed on the top of the front page, but basically, it's the Arlington Heights Herald. Once you get past the front page, this is very obvious. I've had many gripes in the past, but this is the first one I have written about.

Your issue dated Dec. 12 shows a picture in the sports section of Zeke Bratkowski and John Huarte from the Bears speaking at the Pro Sports Club luncheon. In the background (as usual), sits Jack Lloyd, of Rolling Meadows High School. The caption under the picture briefly mentioned that Jack received the Knute Rockne Award. In the article concerning the luncheon, again, there are only a few brief words mentioning that Jack just happened to make all-state linebacker. I think that making all-state linebacker takes a great amount of personal ability, dedication, and hard work on the individual's part and is worthy of more than a few lines of print. We in Rolling Meadows are very proud of Jack Lloyd and the Rolling Meadows football team and coaching staff.

I, for one, think that the MSL and the Herald should also be proud of Jack's achievements and pay due respect by printing a complete article on him. It's not often that we have an all-stater from our area. Or is it just a token gesture on your part to put "Rolling Meadows" on your paper for commercial reasons? The thought will always be in my mind that if he (Jack Lloyd) was from Arlington, this might be front page news, with two or three columns devoted to an Arlington Heights boy's accomplishments.

Come on, give credit where credit is due. Rolling Meadows is here to stay. As time passes, it's going to be very hard to pass by the accomplishments of our town.

Donald Kuthe
A Very Proud Resident
Rolling Meadows

The fact that the Herald chose to honor Jack Lloyd and two representatives of the school at the sports luncheon speaks for itself. There were many All-Staters in the area this year, but we felt it was appropriate to publicly honor the All-Stater from our newest school. Yes, Rolling Meadows is here to stay and will be recognized for its accomplishments in high school sports, as it has been in the past. Thanks for your interest.

A.D. SENDS THANKS

Dear Bob Frisk:
I would like to thank you for myself,

Ange Barro and Jack Lloyd for having us as your guests at the Pro Sports Luncheon. It was a most enjoyable afternoon.

We are most appreciative of your continuing support of our high school athletic programs. I'm sure that Paddock Publications must have the finest prep sports coverage in the entire country.

'VERY FAIR ACCOUNT'

Dear Herald:

The entire situation involving the gymnast at Hersey High School needed some type of explanation. I had heard so many different viewpoints that I didn't know what to believe. I think Jim Cook did an excellent job presenting both sides of the issue in his series this week. The Herald is to be congratulated for giving us this type of in-depth reporting and not the sensationalized stuff we read in other papers. It was a very fair account, with both sides presented.

DOLPHINS HAD PATSY SCHEDULE

Dear Herald:

Everyone has been raving about the Miami Dolphins and all their great records this year, especially their 14-0 record as they were the first team ever to win that many games in a regular season.

What I have not seen mentioned often is Miami's schedule. How many people realize that the Dolphins were the ONLY team in the NFL that did not play a single playoff game all year! In fact, the best record of any team they played was 8-6 (the New York Giants).

There are tremendous inequities in the NFL schedule every year. Everyone thinks the San Diego Chargers had a bad year because of their 4-9 record. But San Diego had to play half of its schedule (seven games against six teams) that made the playoffs. Green Bay was 10-4 and made the playoffs even though they had to play five playoff teams. To me, this is more impressive than 14-0 with a soft schedule.

Even the Bears had to play four playoff teams. I guarantee you their record and that of a lot of other teams would be a lot better if they got to play Buffalo twice and New England twice every season.

Granted, the Dolphins are a very good team with some great stars, and deserved all their wins. But I'd better not hear any talk of them being one of the all-time great teams, like the Packers of the '60's.

Prospect Shoots For 4th Straight In South Chase

Ask any South Division basketball coach in the Mid-Suburban League what his foremost Christmas gift preference would be, and all six probably would reply: a victory tonight.

Whether they come in the form of "gifts" or not, wins are needed by each team for varying reasons.

Prospect would like one to take even stronger command of the division than it already has. The Knights are a game ahead of Conant and at least two up on the others.

The Cougars want to at least keep their runner-up status and Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Forest View all need triumphs to avoid dropping almost out of contention before the New Year.

After tonight, the teams all take a holiday break until the usual tournaments begin next week at various sites.

Tonight's agenda:

PROSPECT AT SCHAUMBURG
Prospect's early success in the Mid-Suburban League (3-0) must partially reflect the team's ability to adjust to the game conditions dictated by the opposing team.

Head coach Bill Slayton feels that if his Knights can beat a team down on the floor, they'll do their best to run and if his club is giving up speed and quickness — the situation may demand a more deliberate style of ball.

Schaumburg (1-2) is capable of offering one of these extremes when the Knights visit tonight. "They gave us a heck of a time last year," Slayton remembered of the Saxons' slow-down game plan.

"I think Joe Breaux (Schaumburg head coach) has good command of the game and is well received as a student of the deliberate style they play," Slayton said.

Chief contributor to Prospect's early season noise-making is 6-9 center Tom Bergen who "has really come into his own this year," according to Slayton. The versatile Knight pivotman hammered on the door of Prospect's record books last week when he ousted names like Dave Kingman and Dave Lundstedt from second place on the all-time, single-game rebounding charts with 22 against Elk Grove.

The effort fell only one shy of Dick Palmer's 23 against Maryville Academy in 1960-61 and bettered the 21 by both Kingman and Lundstedt.

The addition of 5-9 Jim Anderson has

Track In Russia

Donetsk, USSR will be the site and July 24-25 the dates of the 1973 Russian-American Track and Field Meet. That announcement came recently from Olan C. Cassell, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Upwards of 15 gold medalists from the recent Olympic Games are eligible to compete in the Russian-American meet.

Both mens and womens events will be contested.

Prior to that meet, a triangular will be held between the United States, West Germany and Switzerland July 11-12 at the Olympic Stadium in Munich.

The United States and Italy will compete on July 16-18 in Florence in a final tuneup for the Americans.

American men hold an 8-2 edge over the Russians since the meet was begun 10 years ago. But the Russian women have a 9-1 edge.

They Love Water

A record 46 million persons participated in boating more than once or twice last year and they spent $3.9 billion in the process.

Those startling figures come from the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers plus International Marine Expositions, Inc.

The groups report over 9.2 million boats of all sorts are floating on America's waters. Over 5.5 million are equipped with motors.

Earns Cross-Country Letter

Richard Staback, a 1971 graduate of Schaumburg High School, has earned a varsity cross-country letter at Tarkio (Mo.) College.

Staback was the fourth leading runner for the Tarkio Owls this past season. He won 15th in the "Heart of America" conference meet and placed eighth in the District 10 NAA championship meet.

Sweeney All-Conference

Joe Sweeney, a College of St. Thomas freshman from Palatine, has been named to the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference All-Star cross-country team.

Sweeney finished 9th in the MIAC meet and eighth in District 13 NAA competition.

He attended St. Viator High School.

Mueller Says Thanks

Newly elected President Earl Mueller of the Mount Prospect Baseball Association has conveyed his thanks to the Mount Prospect Lions Club for its recent $300 contribution.

Mueller said the contribution will be applied to the purchase of uniforms and other equipment for the 1973 season.

Terry Kukla, stellar guard during his prep playing days for Fremd in Palatine, has earned a starting berth with the Millikin University varsity basketball team.

Only a freshman at Millikin, Kukla was invaluable to Fremd as the Mid-Suburban League's assist leader and team scoring ace.

Gobel Earns Numerals

Greg Gobel of Arlington Heights has earned freshman numerals and a wind-breaker jacket for participation in junior-varsity football at DePaul University in Greencastle, Ind.

Gobel played end for the DePaul University junior-varsity and saw action in every quarter of every game.

Powerful Mat Field Awaits Glenbrook Test

by MIKE KLEIN

Memo to Santa Claus — Give George Jurinek a victory at this weekend's Glenbrook South Holiday Wrestling Tournament and he'll be plenty happy.

Jurinek has said the winner of this 16-team meet that features numerous sectional and state qualifiers from last year must be regarded as a threat for the 1972-73 state team title.

His Maine East Blue Demons are 7-0 on the season and own 20 consecutive wins. That includes victories over defending state champion Hersey plus No. 1 ranked East Leyden.

Jurinek plans only one major lineup change for the tourney that will have 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. sessions on Friday and Saturday.

Mike Kan, the Blue Demons' 167-pounder, is injured and can't compete this weekend. He'll be replaced by either John Wolff or Ed Dembski.

John Funovits returns to the East lineup at 145 pounds after sitting out the past two meets. He has a 3-0 record.

Virtually every Blue Demon wrestler rates at least a good shot at winning an individual title. Certainly Marc Grant, 7-0 at 185 pounds, should finish high. Other Maine East wrestlers with seven victories include Scott Vaughan (7-1), Tony Raschillo (7-2) and Jim Sylverne (7-1).

Jurinek will stick with Jay Cheek (5-0-1) at 98 pounds and follow with Bob Hoffman (4-2) at 105 pounds.

Paul Board (6-1) will be at 112 for East, followed by Sylverne at 119 and Murray Rodnick (6-1) at 126.

In the middle weights, the Blue Demons will have Raschillo at 132, Don Isaacson (4-4) at 139, Funovits at 145 and Vaughan at 155.

It'll be Dembski or Wolff at 167, followed by Grant and then heavyweight Mike Johnson (5-1-1).

Three other schools from the Herald area will journey to Glenbrook South for the two-day festivities. They are Arlington, Wheeling and the two-time state champ Hersey Huskies.

Hersey has won 11 consecutive dual meets since dropping its opener to Maine East. Its top drawing card is heavyweight Kevin Pancratz who finished fifth in the state finals last year.

Their returning district qualifiers include Kurt Weisenborn (105) and Massimo Busterna (132). The Huskies also have a good 98-pounder in sophomore Joe Rizza.

Wheeling is loaded with returning district qualifiers. Best among the group is 138-pounder Kent Lewis who secured third place in last year's state meet. Steve Jorgenson at 155 was third in last winter's sectionals.

Other Wildcats who qualified for districts last winter and will be at Glenbrook beginning this afternoon include Neal Kendall (112), Mike Millay (126) and Ken Smith (167).

Arlington has a basically young team that's already greatly surprised Mid-Suburban League wrestling followers. The Cardinals biggest achievement during a 3-2-1 campaign has been a dual meet victory over Wheeling.

Top draw Tom Patterson knocked off Wheeling's Jorgenson, 8-6, a couple weeks back and is undefeated against six opponents.

Arlington's Steve Frankovic has established himself as an aggressive and certainly one of the most exciting competitors from this area.

Other top wrestlers who will participate at Glenbrook South include 185-pounder Earl Vatch of Addison Trail. He's the brother of 1971 state champion Ed Vatch.

The Trail Blazers were winners of the Ridgewood Invitational held last week. K. Cortez of Addison gave Maine East's Paul Board his only loss of the year.

New Trier West will bring Mickey Rossett. He reached the state finals at 105 pounds last year as only a sophomore.

Niles North's Bruce Zimmer made it downstate as a junior last winter and Barrington's Russ Visser is a returning sectional qualifier.

Other schools entered include Glenbrook North, LaGrange, Lake View (Chicago), Libertyville, Niles East Riverside-Brookfield and the host Glenbrook South Titans.

Team trophies will be awarded to the first and second place teams. Tournament finals will be at 7 p.m. Saturday.

10 Years Ago...

Naperville won the Prospect Holiday Wrestling Tournament by three points over East Rockford. . . Prospect was fourth and Forest View last in the eight-team field. . . Wayne Zachler (at 120 pounds) and soph Jim McMillan (133) of Prospect were the only champs from the area.

Lions Travel Saturday For Non-League Action

Mercifully, St. Viator's Lions will get a break from Suburban Catholic Conference basketball this weekend.

That doesn't mean coach Ed Wasielewski's charges get a real rest, though. They still must take on a winning team on the road when they visit Ridgewood (4-3) Saturday night in a non-league battle.

The Lions will be trying to put things together after losing six of their first seven games (the only victory over Rolling Meadows) and dropping all four of their conference games so far. Viator lost to Holy Cross and Notre Dame last weekend, the latter game going down to the final seconds before being decided, 51-47.

Ridgewood also lost a close one, 64-59 to Wheaton North, last weekend. Going into the game both teams were 2-0 in the Tri-County Conference.

The Rebels pose another big height problem against the much smaller Lions. Ridgewood has front-liners measuring 6-4 and 6-5. Forward Bob Mann is leading scorer with a 17-point average.

St. Viator has not been scoring enough, though Dave Hutcheson is leading with a 12.4 average. Much of the rebounding burden falls on 6-3 Mike Cook, the only Lion taller than six feet.

"We did a pretty nice job against Notre Dame," said Wasielewski, remaining cheerful in spite of his team's problems. "Our morale is still great. The kids have a never-say-die attitude and I'm very pleased with this."

Three-Time Winners

DePaul, Andy Withstand Comeback Try By Harper

by LARRY EVERHART

Three former Mid-Suburban League players, two of them from Hersey, enjoyed a little reunion Wednesday night at Schaumburg High School.

Harper College's Scott Feige (Class of '70 from Hersey) and teammate Terry Rohan, a Prospect grad, shot the eyes out of the basket, particularly in the second half. But it all went for naught as another former Husky, big Andy Pancratz, played a major role in an 83-72 victory for DePaul's junior varsity over Harper.

Since Harper is now 3-6 and DePaul's underclassmen 8-0, and since Harper made a big comeback to keep things interesting until the final minute, it might have been considered a moral victory of sorts for the Hawks. However, neither coach Roger Bechtold of Harper or Joe Meyer of DePaul (son of long-time varsity coach Ray Meyer) felt their teams played well.

Former Mid-Suburban Leaguers did, though. Feige and Rohan, with red-hot hands in the second half, scored 28 and 26 points respectively in comprising most of Harper's offense (three-fourths of its points, to be exact).

And it was Pancratz, the agile 6-9, 232-pound center whose name was synonymous with Hersey basketball for three years, who did most of the damage at the end to seal Harper's fate. After the Hawks had slashed a 19-point deficit to only five, Andy sank six points in the final minute, four on free throws, and also cleared a pair of missed Hawk shots in that span. Pancratz finished with 16 points.

Guard Larry Hefflin, with deadly long-range sniping all night, paced the Blue Demons with 25 points.

In explaining the defeat, Bechtold said,

"We started slow and missed some easy shots under the basket early. After we got behind we couldn't quite make it up. They (DePaul) did a good job with their man-to-man defense.

"In the second half we ran our plays better, moved the ball and got good shots. We also went to a man-to-man ourselves and got a lot of turnovers. If we'd gotten a couple of breaks near the end, we would have been right in it.

"We've played better than this many times. We just played one half tonight. We've got to be more ready mentally at the start."

Harper could not take advantage of the fact that DePaul was guilty of 27 turnovers to just 13 for the hosts. This kept the Hawks in the game, but DePaul shot 50 per cent from the field to just 42 per cent for Harper and the Demons had a huge 45-26 advantage in rebounding. "That was it — they killed us on the boards," said Bechtold.

DePaul quickly took command with an early 8-2 lead it never lost after a pair of long ones by Hefflin. Harper began to warm up with three baskets by Feige and two by Rohan, creeping within 16-13 and 20-17, but John Czarnecki and Pancratz each tallied two quick baskets for a 13-point lead. At halftime it was 42-33.

Halftime score—DePaul 12, Harper 23

Harper's two big threats came out smoking after intermission. Feige and Rohan each collected 18 of their points in the final 20 minutes, both being on target from long range in a shooting duel with Hefflin.

The Hawks trailed by just five on two occasions early in the second half, but the Blue Demons found the basket and raced to leads of 61-43 and 71-52, the latter with 7:36 left. It seemed only a matter of how wide the final margin would be.

It didn't turn out as wide as many thought as the Hawks stirred some excitement in a sparse crowd of only about 50 and threw a temporary scare into the visitors. With the whole Harper team forcing several turnovers and Feige and Rohan chipping away at the bucket, it was only 75-70 with 1:22 left. Harper had just outscored DePaul by 18-4 in a six-minute span.

Then Pancratz took over with four straight free throws and a rebound basket with 25 seconds left and it was all over.

"I was disappointed in our team," frankly admitted Meyer, even in victory. "I think our guys were looking forward to their six days' vacation. They got lackadaisical with that lead. But part of it was that Harper did a good job. They run a fine disciplined offense and looked good on defense too."

Asked about Pancratz, Meyer said, "He's still a little hesitant out there. He's probably afraid of fouling and doesn't take his hook or jumper as often as he should. He has tremendous potential that he hasn't come close to showing yet. But remember, he's only a freshman."

Bechtold added that Pancratz "has a fine shooting touch for a big man but makes some mistakes. He'll be a good one, though."

Palatine product Chris Andriano stars at Millikin University.

Andriano In Record-Breaking Season

Special to: Paddock Publications

Millikin University's junior wide receiver Chris Andriano of Palatine may be one of the smaller pass-catching threats in the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin, but opponents are learning he's more difficult to stop than many of his bigger counterparts.

Andriano turned in a second straight record-breaking year for Millikin's grid-ers, which posted a 7-2 overall record and 6-2 CCIW mark that gave them sole possession of second place in the final conference standings. It was the best finish for Millikin in 11 years or since the 1961 Big Blue team went undefeated through an eight-game schedule.

Andriano, a diminutive 5-10, 165-pound receiver, continued to amaze Millikin fans and opponents with his often-spectacular catches that accounted for 612 of the Big Blue's 1,441 passing yards for the season. His 34 receptions, twice the number caught by the Big Blue's next top receiver, tight end Kevin Koehler of Chicago, were good for an average gain of 18 yards per catch.

Andriano's 612 yards gained by pass receiving narrowly missed the Millikin single season pass-reception yardage record of 629 yards he set during the 1971 season. His 34 receptions this year is also a single season mark.

The two fine seasons, back to back, enabled Andriano to establish a new Millikin career record for most passes caught and most yardage by pass receiving — 68 receptions for 1,282 yards. In addition to the career and season marks he now holds, Andriano also set a single game standard this year for most yards receiving by gaining 142 on eight receptions when Millikin beat North Central, 55-13.

Andriano capped off his fine 1972 season by being voted to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) District 20 (Illinois) All-Star Team as a wide receiver.

Millikin Head Coach "Skip" Mathieson, who completed his seventh season as Big Blue football mentor this year, calls Andriano "the finest receiver I've ever had the pleasure of coaching. Chris has exceptional quickness, tremendous hands and an extraordinary desire to excel."

Mathieson, who plans to call on suburban high schools during January and February seeking good prep prospects for his squad, noted that "Chris realistically is on the small side for college football, but let me tell you right now that I'll be happy to get several more like him. Unfortunately, a player of Chris's caliber doesn't come along every day."

Andriano capped off his fine 1972 season by being voted to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) District 20 (Illinois) All-Star Team as a wide receiver.

BRUCE'S BALANCE. Hersey's Bruce Freedman makes the side horse event appear incredibly easy with his smooth movement and high-amplitude scissors. Freedman owns the area's top score in the event after registering a booming 8.8 average against Barrington last week.

Elk Grove Hits 132.21 In Gym

Elk Grove, after just its second dual meet test of the season, has stamped "State Gymnastics Contender" after its name by virtue of clocking for a resounding 132.21 to 77.35 triumph over Maine East.

The Grenadiers of head coach Fred Gaines rank second only to Hersey's 139.71 for high-scoring honors in the Mid-Suburban League. The loss, meanwhile, dropped Maine East's overall mark to 2-1.

The Elk Grove victory was highlighted by superb individual achievements in almost each of the six events. The meet's best show came in the horizontal bar competition when Grenadier anchorman Scott Phillips hit a dazzling 8.35 routine — tops in the league.

Also cracking the eight-point barrier for Elk Grove were side horse ace Bob Siemianowski who scissored for an 8.2 average and Dave Hadley who bounced to a nifty 8.15 on trampoline.

Clicking in the sevens for the winners were Kerry McMahon (7.35) in floor exercise, Bill Bosslett (7.45) on high bar, Dave Khoshaba (7.35) and Steve Torgerson (7.05) on tramp, the trio of Dave Niemeyer (7.25), Bosslett (7.4) and Phillips (7.7) on parallel bars and Phillips, again, (7.2) on still rings. The latter combined five events of work for a steady 6.71 all-around average.

The Demons, lacking for numbers, opened strongly with a 15.85 composite in free ex off a 5.8 by Bill Yedor, 5.45 by Steve Slaw and 4.6 by John Jurica.

Joe Darby captured Maine's top score with a 6.9 routine on parallel bars, but Steve Stein's 6.65 on side horse and Jurica's 6.45 on still rings ranked close behind.

Registering scores in the fives for head coach Tom Gardner were Dan Dahlin (5.3) on rings, and both Yedor and Slaw on the floor. Dahlin compiled a 3.7 all-around average.

In frosh-soph competition, Elk Grove again showed only slight weakness in soaring to 73.46 to Maine's impressive 58.64.

Hersey, Wheeling Record Easy Wins In Wrestling

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

Wrestling teams from Hersey and Wheeling posted identical 30-point span victories on the road in conference competition Wednesday night.

The Huskies knocked off hosting Fremd 39-9 for their 11th straight dual triumph of the season. Meanwhile at Rolling Meadows, the Wildcats were carving a 38-8 victory to up their overall slate to 6-1.

On the Viking mats the meet was only close through the first six weights. Hersey's Joe Rizza, Kurt Wiesenborn and Jim Adams all opened with triumphs but Fremd rallied on victories by Dave Motta at 110, Mark Lynch at 126 and John Lynch at 132 to nearly knot things up.

After that, however, the home team failed to make another visit to the winner's circle and Tom Porter's hand easily nailed down their third conference verdict.

Winning in order for the guests from 130 out were Mike Pusateri, Pat Hart, Bob Noll, Brian Nelson, Jeff Reinhard and Kevin Pancratz. Hart's surprising triumph was over previously unbaten Steve McGuinn by a 9-8 count after trailing 8-3 going late into the final round.

Nelson captured his win by default over Tom Bullen.

For Bob Schulze's visiting gang in the meantime Bob Daulton at 98, Rick Moran at 119, Mike Millay at 126, Jay Szek at 132, Kent Lewis at 138, Steve Jorgenson at 145, Mike Kamins at 155, Ken Smith at 167 and Bob Wargo at heavyweight all claimed victories.

Kamins, Lewis and Millay all pinned their foes. Moran was an upset 3-2 winner over Gary Ahr.

Wheeling and Hersey both swept their meets at all four levels of competition.

Haaning, Mueller Pace Victory

Falcons Hang On, Shade Glenbard

by a STAFF WRITER

It wasn't as easy as might have been expected.

Forest View found out that Glenbard North in no pushover at the Panthers' gym on a foggy Wednesday night. The Falcons had to nurse leads of less than 10 points all night before finally shading Glenbard, 49-44, in a Mid-Suburban League South Division game.

It was only Forest View's second victory in six games overall and their first in three conference tilts while dropping Glenbard North to 0-3 in the South.

The Falcons, though, have yet to play a game in their own gym (the new floor being laid will not be ready until after the New Year) and for an added handicap Wednesday, they were playing without their ace scorer, Don Woodsmall. A 6-5 forward averaging 15 a game, Woodsmall is out with a badly-sprained ankle.

That meant the scoring punch had to be taken up by 6-1 forward Rick Haaning and 6-0 guard Tom Mueller, and they responded to the challenge by tying for honors with 15 points apiece. Haaning was effective inside, using his burly form to good advantage, and Mueller shot well from outside.

Brian McIlale, 6-2 forward, paced Glenbard with 11 points and 6-4 Marlon Brooks added 12.

There weren't many fouls on either side and thus not many free throw opportunities, but Forest View sealed the triumph by sinking three more field goals than the hosts.

The Falcons also shot better from the field, 47 per cent to 37 per cent, with consistent shooting throughout. Glenbard North, though, offset this with a rebounding advantage of 35-31 (led by McIlale's 15) to stay close until the final two minutes.

The Panthers threw a scare into the Falcons by creeping within two, 42-40, with less than two minutes left. Haaning then came through with a clutch three-point play and Lou Leuzzi sank a pair of important free throws in a one-and-one situation.

Despite the loss, Glenbard coach Terry True said it "was one of our better games." The Panthers are still looking for their first win overall after six games.

Haaning now has 36 points in his last two games, taking up the scoring slack since Woodsmall was injured early in a game against Elgin Larkin last Saturday night.

Forest View has averaged 49 points in three conference games while yielding an average of 55. For all games, the Falcons have been outscored by just a 57-53 average for all six games.

If conference action tonight, the Falcons are at Conant and Glenbard North hosts Elk Grove. (See South Division preview elsewhere in this section).

Position round and first half results went unchanged in the Parkway Men's League at Beverly Lanes. Turkey winners on each pair of alleys were Coke Helgeson, Wally Joern and Bob Donahue. High scores were recorded by Bob Slottag (572), Gary Wagner (559), Al Karsten (545) and Joern (536). Fred Turcotte had a 216 game, Bud Mills 215 and Donahue 207.

No Problem For Harper; Hawk Wrestlers In Romp

Harper wrestlers lost more matches than they won but still came out with another lopsided victory at Lake County Wednesday evening.

The final verdict favored the Hawks 42-6 and enhanced their current dual winning streak to 10 straight meets. It was accomplished even though coach Ron Bessemer's visiting group captured only one of three actual bouts.

Lake County forfeited at no less than six weights with Bernie Kleiman at 118, Al Gordon at 126, Bob Ressler at 150, Paul Ortwerth at 167, Ron Vylasek at 177 and Paul Morris at 193 all collecting pointage without putting a foot on the mat. Heavyweight would have been forfeited as well except that Harper also declined to put a competitor and the event was simply cancelled out.

In what action did take place, two of the three notorious Weller brothers gained decisions for the hosts. The only Hawk winning verdict via competition was at 190 pounds where Tryst Anderson fashioned a pin at 7:03.

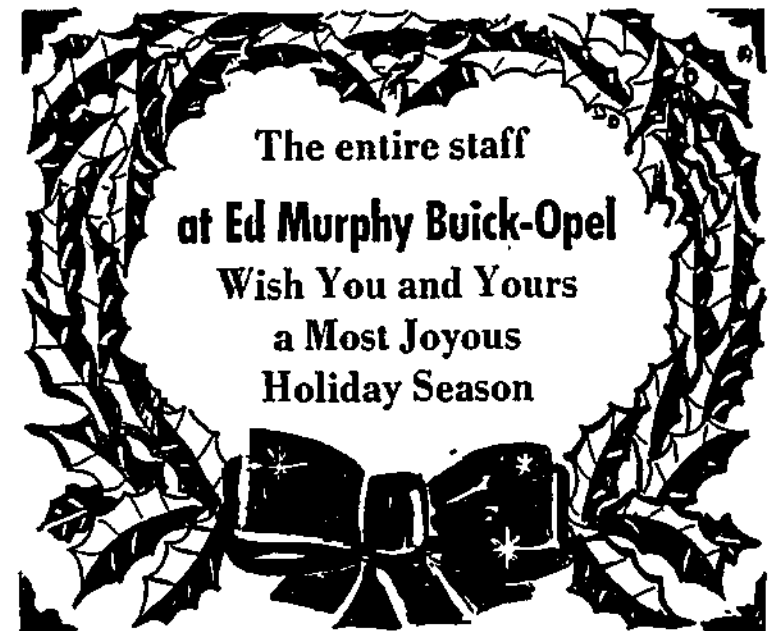

At Elk Grove

Gary Thomas paced the Friday Nite Mixed Nuts at Elk Grove Bowl with a 583 series and a 214 game. Frank Columbo hit 549 with games of 206 and 201 and Jim Nelson blasted a 529 off a 186 high. Wally Wagner posted 527 with a 193 contest and Doug Niggemann was the last to crack 500 with a 522 off a 190 top score. Hap Diddle registered a "triple patch" with identical scores of 150, 158 and 158.

At 134 Tom Dal Campo was turned back 10-3 by Jim Weller, a national champion two seasons ago. Brother Casey Weller followed up with a 14-9 decision over Rick Odom at 142.

The third Weller brother is ineligible and did not compete in the meet.

Harper will return to Grayslake Saturday to participate in the eight-team Lake County Tournament. That will close out activity for the year for them with their next scheduled meet slated for Jan. 6.

SEE ROGER jump. Conant's 6-3 center Roger Sander is not to be denied on this layup and four Schaumburg Saxons cannot do much but watch. They are, left to right, Charley Lindberg, Art Abraham, Ray Kralick and Trent Tucker. Sander dominated the boards in this fashion all night with 25 rebounds, a school record, and 16 points in Conant's 61-39 romp.

also been fruitful since his scoring potential (15 vs. Conant) and defensive prowess (helped hold Elk Grove's Bob Prince to six points) has already been realized. Schaumburg, though it did not win in two tries against Prospect last winter, did a creditable job as heavy underdog and will likely employ the same slow-down game plan tonight.

"We're going to try and control the ball and the tempo of the game," said Breault. "We won't try to run against them. They're also so big that if we don't get a basket on our first shot we probably won't get a second crack at it."

Although Schaumburg's shooting was not good last weekend, Breault says his boys have been "finding the hole better in practice." The Saxons were ice-cold in a 61-19 loss to Conant but bounced back for a 54-50 non-league win at Crown (Dundee).

Trent Tucker, 6-0 forward, has had only one off-night in six games and is easily the Saxons' leading scorer with a 17-point average. Breault also was pleased with the play of Charley Lindberg, who got 13 points in each game last weekend. "He also showed a lot of hustle, boarded well and played good defense," said Breault.

"Our kids will be up for this one," promises the Schaumburg boss. "They remember last year, Prospect is real tough, though, and we've got to hold them down."

This tall order will be the challenge of 6-3 center Ray Kralick, the only Saxon over six feet tall.

FOREST VIEW AT CONANT
Both of these teams played a big role in the South Division race last season (tying with Prospect for first place) and were expected to do likewise this year. But each needs a win tonight to stay in good position.

There probably won't be a whole lot of scoring unless one team gets unusually hot. Neither has been shooting very well lately and both favor a deliberate, set-up offense.

Both have big front lines that can rebound and play defense and the Cougars' zone defense in particular has effectively cut off inside penetration, forcing opponents to shoot from afar. This means a lot could depend on the scoring of Forest View's 6-0 guards Tom Mueller and Mike Meyer.

The Falcons have a 6-6 center in T. J. Skelly and 6-4 forward in Rick Haaning, who was top scorer (21 points) in a heartbreaking 59-58 overtime loss last week against Elgin Larkin.

But the Falcons are hurting up front since their top scorer, 6-5 forward Don Woodsmall, can play little or not at all with a severely sprained ankle. Woodsmall also was the Falcons' top scorer last year and seventh in the MSL with a 16-plus average and was averaging 15 a game this year until he was injured last weekend. Another problem for Forest View in its slow start is that it still has not enjoyed a home-court advantage, even for practice. Its gym has been under repair with a new floor being laid, which should be ready after the New Year. It was then that the Falcons came on strong last season.

"This is a typical Conant team we'll be playing — very physical on the boards," said Forest View coach Ted Wissen.

Conant head man Dick Redlinger will be starting as much height as he can, saying, "I'm sure they (the Falcons) will be tough to rebound against. We're going to try and plug up the middle like we did against Schaumburg (in a 61-39 victory last Friday). If they're going to beat us, they'll have to do it from outside."

Starters will be Tracy Robertson and Mike Atkocilis at guards, Roger Sander at center and Steve Irion and Dave Sutherland at forwards. The Cougars have good bench strength, too, with several others of about the same ability.

"Jimmy Brown and Neal Thompson (guards) hustle so much that I can't keep them out too long," said Redlinger. "And we'll use (Dick) Southworth if they press us. He's our best ball-handler."

"We have the personnel to be diversified this year, depending on how the other team plays us."

Redlinger said he honestly hopes that Woodsmall can play tonight because, "If we beat them, we'd like to beat them with their best."

The Cougars have had fairly balanced scoring although Sander has led the past two games with 18 and 16 points. The aggressive, strong center also pulled down an eye-popping 25 rebounds against Schaumburg.

Atkocilis and Sutherland also can score, having been in double figures in four of Conant's first five games.

The two teams split a pair of highly-spirited games last year, each winning on its home court. The Falcons won the first match 65-56 and the Cougars the second 61-56.

ELK GROVE AT GLENBARD
Elk Grove and Glenbard North are suffering from a similar malady: They are both in dire need of a win right now to get back on the right track.

One of them is bound to take the cure tonight, since they'll be going against one another and one of them has to come up a winner. For the hosting Panthers that would be a unique experience this season since prior to their Forest View contest

Can Fremd Check Corzine?

Steve Loughman.

While starters Bob Dunn and Jim Stull continue to produce, neither will be replaced. Both sophomore Disimone and junior Loughman are expected to see some action tonight.

Finfrock was not only impressed with Arlington's first team performance but also with Disimone. When told that the up-and-coming sophomore was expected to emerge late in the season, the Palatine coach just chuckled and said he thought he was there already.

Besides the potential scoring power of this bench warmer, Finfrock is also concerned with the shooting of Jim Stull. He has plenty of respect for his shooting ability.

The reverse feeling of Zigman for the Pirates' offensive aggregation is brought about by four starters in double figures. McCormick is tops with a 19-point average. Then comes Sander (18.3), Scott Cole (14.3) and Jim Arden (13.3). Defensive ace Andy Knotek (5.4) rounds out the top five.

Palatine's offense didn't work at full efficiency last week, according to Finfrock, and last because of it. As for Arlington's scoring ability over the past weekend, he had this to say:

"I think they did pretty well. I think their overall discipline on offense is very good."

Finfrock laughed at the notion that Arlington was rebuilding. He remarked that Zigman's "good, steady program" never needs rebuilding.

FREM AT HERSEY

How do you keep pigeons out of a hay-loft if you don't have a ladder?

A situation akin to this has been foremost on coach Leon Kasuboske's mind this week as he prepares his Fremd quintet for their first meeting of the season with Hersey.

The hayloft towering over the Huskie gym will be 6-11 Dave Corzine. And these pigeons the Vikings hope to keep shooting away are basketballs, the kind that Corzine seems to have little trouble finding a place to dispose of once they are sent up to him.

Kasuboske finds the situation challenging. "The teams that have given Hersey trouble this year have been the ones that press. Since that's our style of play, we feel we have a chance although we're going to have to put it all together, exactly the right way, to beat them," he said.

Fremd's mentor is confident, at any rate, that the Huskies can be held within range. "I'm satisfied with the progress our defense has made and I think Hersey can be contained to some extent. But that still leaves us with the problem of getting some points up on the board ourselves. We've been concentrating on offense this week and I'm hoping with the adjustments we're making we can increase our scoring."

One of the adjustments Kasuboske is planning will be to put the biggest line he has available up front to contend with the likes of Corzine and their big forward Greg Hale. It's still small by comparison but in 6-5 Larry Coughlin, 6-3 Bob Youman and 6-3 Doug Mize, Fremd figures it can at least cope with the awesome Hersey inside game.

Hersey head man Roger Steingraber is also making some adjustments to both accommodate Fremd and instill further spark in both the Husky offense and defense.

"I'll be starting two new players," Steingraber said in apparent search for a quartet that can complement Corzine. "We'll go with (Greg) Hougendobler at one forward and (Mark) Krause at a guard."

The switch by Steingraber is aimed at beefing up Hersey's front line which produced just eight rebounds between the forwards against Barrington and, at the same time, hopefully fortify the outside shooting game.

Steingraber will be the least surprised to see Fremd press full court. "The press has been hurting us and forcing us into a lot of turnovers," he said. "We expect every team we play to press us the whole game."

Against Palatine two weeks ago, the press helped produce 27 Hersey turnovers and Barrington's similar brand of play forced 25 last weekend. "We'd be happy to cut that total in half," Steingraber said.

Corzine is still the key to the team's offensive attack. "Dave should be able to do some scoring around the rim against them (Fremd)," Steingraber said. "They're not as big as some of the teams we've played," he added, "but they're still physical."

Offensively, Steingraber mentioned Coughlin and Youman as potential Fremd scoring threats and admitted that his front line will be severely tested tonight.

MEADOWS AT WHEELING

As if Wheeling wasn't enough, Rolling Meadows head coach Ken Arneson has been battling all week to field the same five faces in practice each night.

The flu has swept through the Mustangs already thinly-populated camp and has taken a toll of at least three players who are doubtful against the Wildcats tonight.

"I'm only dressing nine the way it is," Arneson moaned. "(Jack) Lloyd was out Monday with a cold and (Gary) Lesley was excused after fifth period on Tuesday. He was complaining of a sore throat and head congestion."

"Then (Dave) Thorstensen told me he'd be a little late to practice because he made a doctor's appointment. He came back and told me the doctor said he shouldn't be practicing at all."

The flu bug is bound to hamper Meadows' accustomed running and pressing game, especially against what Arneson says is the best four-level talent school in the league.

"I think they started four juniors and a sophomore last week," Arneson said. "And they aren't rebuilding — those kids are good right now. Their guards are very capable and their front line is strong. It seems that their kids play bigger than their heights."

Arneson admits that the key to his team's fast-break and pressing tactics is the ability to substitute seven or eight players into the lineup without losing momentum.

Tonight, he'll be happy to see seven or eight healthy players lining the bench.

Wheeling's not without an injury list. Although only one player was listed earlier this week, it was an important name — Tom Marzee.

After playing his first game last week against Palatine and helping lead his team to victory with some key baskets in a relief role, Marzee's back problems have flared up again. Wheeling head coach Ted Ecker was very doubtful that he'd be available at all.

Pat Smith, bumped from the starting lineup last week in favor of Mike Brzuszkiewicz, will be on hand for the tipoff tonight.

Although the Mustangs are winless in the league, Ecker is concerned about them.

"They're fairly small but quite aggressive and quick," he said. "We expect a lot of harassment from them."

Wheeling, 2-1 in the league, is hoping that Palatine will help them out with a victory over Arlington. "The team that wins it (North Division) won't go through undefeated," added Ecker.

GBN coach Terry True last Tuesday. At that juncture his team was 0-5 overall, having fallen Saturday to Glenbard South.

"Saturday's loss really hurt but I think the kids are about ready to snap out of it at any time now," True went on. "I know Elk Grove has a good team this year but I feel we're better than our record shows. I don't think they should totally disregard us at any rate."

What Parmentier would like to change is his team's shooting percentage. "This is really going to have to improve if we want to beat Glenbard or anyone else this season. You just can't hit at a 22 percent clip and expect to beat many people."

With Schroeder absent for the time being, Mike Miltner will probably be pulled back to guard, where he has acquired some experience this year, and Bill Butler and Jeff Stewart will both assume starting forward berths.

Interesting matchups in the North and South divisions of the Mid-Suburban League will be the next two featured basketball games on WWMM-FM radio.

The station has selected Arlington's visit to Palatine this Friday evening, Dec. 22, and Prospect's battle with Forest View for the first league engagement after the holidays on Friday, Jan. 5.

Station Sports Director Dick Thomas and Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk will be at the microphone Friday evening for the "Sleigh Bells" battle between Arlington, unbeaten in the North

Division of the MSL, and once-beaten Palatine.

The "Sleigh Bells" trophy is given annually in the Arlington-Palatine series to the school that wins the first meeting of the season. Arlington has not lost the "Bells" since 1964 and has lost only twice since 1933.

Arlington and Palatine rank as the oldest rivals, and Prospect and Forest View, scheduled for the WWMM-FM broadcast on Jan. 5, were the next schools built in the expanding area.

NORTHWEST CATHOLIC ATHLETIC CONFERENCE

The St. Theresa seventh grade Trojans closed the first half of conference play Sunday with a 30-20 win over the St. Emily Eagles of Mount Prospect. The win was the Trojans' 12th straight.

Center Dave McKinney leads the Trojans scoring attack with 118 points in 11 games. Forward John Martin has stuffed in 101 points in 11 games and forward Chris Pirzak has 86 points in 12 games. The Trojans are averaging 37 points per game while limiting their opponents to 25.5 points per game.

Defense has been the name of the game thus far in the season. The Trojans alternating zone in man-to-man has proved quite effective against the opposition. St. Theresa is also out-rebounding the opponent by nearly a two to one clip. The Trojans have pretty much stayed out of foul trouble averaging 10.2 team fouls per game.

Theresa has one win, if not, the best 7th grade team in the Northwest area, the Trojans have been invited to play at the Chicago Stadium on Tuesday, Dec. 26 before the Bulls-Kansas City-Johns game. St. Theresa will meet Santa Maria of Mundelein in a non-conference affair beginning at 5:15 p.m. The Trojans will not play after the stadium game until the new year. Their first opponent will be the Washington Jr. High Wildcats of Wilmette Jan. 4.

St. Joe

The St. Emily Eagles broke a 23-23 deadlock after 3 quarters of play and out-pointed the St. Theresa Trojans in the 4th quarter to gain a 37-32 decision. It was Theresa's 4th setback of the year against two wins.

St. Theresa fell behind 16-13 at the half due to Emily's hot-shooting of Juntaro & Foulla. Juntaro finished the game with 17 points with Foulla scoring 10. Theresa's Andy Peterson stuffed in eight points and Jim Hamilton was outstanding with 17 points.

St. Theresa will compete in the annual St. Victor Christmas Classic which began on Dec. 30th. Theresa faces the winner of the St. Anne's vs. St. Mary's game at 11 a.m. on Dec. 31st. All games will be played at St. Victor High School.

St. Colette vs. St. Alphonsus

St. Alphonsus won two out of three games in last Sunday's action at St. Colette.

In sixth grade play, the Tigers trailed throughout. Alphonsus took its big lead in the fourth quarter mainly on free-throws. The Saints won, 17-9.

In the seventh grade game, Alphonsus swept the win, 40-5. Leading the Saints in scoring were Steve with nine and Reynard and Lenzinski with eight apiece.

St. Colette's eighth graders saved the day by overcoming the Saints' early four-point lead and never again falling behind. Alphonsus fought hard all the way but could not stop the Tigers' fourth-quarter surge assailing them the win, 48-31. Jeff Schrock and Scott Sander paced St. Colette with 15 and 13 points; Schrock pulled in 14 rebounds. Rich for Alphonsus were Casey and Reed with 11 each.

St. Colette vs. St. Alphonsus

The same two teams had met also a week earlier at St. Alphonsus' floor. The seventh and eighth grade results had been the same, but in the sixth-grade contest it was St. Colette eking out a 23-21 win. Jim Rose led the way with nine points and 20 rebounds and Keith Zarawski had six.

St. Alphonsus was a 26-11 winner in seventh-grade action. Dan Sarich was high point man with eight.

ST. JOSEPH SWEEP

It was a clean sweep for all the teams of St. Joseph the Worker last Sunday over St. Gilbert of Graylake.

The sixth grade team held St. Gilbert to one field goal in the first three quarters. The final score was St. Joe 39, St. Gilbert 9. Danny Brown led St. Joe to victory with 13 points. The victory gave the Workers a season mark of eight victories against all losses. St. Joe retained sole possession of first place.

The seventh grade routed St. Gilbert 64-21 as they recorded their ninth win in ten games. Their conference record is now six wins and no losses. The victory kept St. Joe in sole possession of first place. Scott Stultford and Jim Kennedy each scored 11 points to lead St. Joe.

The varsity remained in first place by virtue of a 63-23 victory over St. Gilbert. The victory gives St. Joe a season mark of 13 wins and no losses. The Workers were led by Brian Beggs with 26 points and George Krusk with 16 points.

Next conference action for St. Joseph the Worker will be Sunday Jan. 7 at 1 p.m. against St. Joseph of Round Lake at Holmes Junior High.

SOUTH JUNIOR HIGH

South's Cardinals remained undefeated with their fifth straight victory over the Rand Raiders. Greg Klaiber led the winners with 20 points in a 47-36 win. Rand's high scorer was Eisenben with 16. South opened with a 14-4 lead after one quarter and led 29-17 at the half. Rand cut the lead to five points in the third quarter but South bounced back in the last period.

The Cards had recorded their fourth victory in as many tries, 48-46-31 over the Thomas Trojans. Gary Adams of South led all scorers with 17 points and had 18 rebounds. South never trailed, leading 8-7 after a quarter, 19-13 at the half and 35-20 after three periods. Mike Mayer paced Thomas with 15 points. Klaiber had 12 and North 10 for the winners.

ST. MARY'S (BUFFALO GROVE)

Donni Hensan led St. Mary's sixth grade to a 42-20 victory over St. Bede's. The victory makes St. Mary's season record 7-0. Donni scored 12 points and controlled both boards, while Greg Bazany with nine and Fred Macchin with eight played well. Bill Thurlwell and John Bambini also were outstanding for their overall play.

St. Mary's begins play Friday, Dec. 22, in the St. John Brebeuf tournament.

The second and third teams saw considerable action as St. Mary's seventh grade won their fifth of six league outings, 41-21. Paul Wilhoit led St. Mary's with 21 while the rest of the scoring was evenly divided.

In the first round of the St. John Brebeuf seventh grade tournament, St. Mary's team defense was enough as the Bison won 21-19 over St. John Vianney. Steve Jarrett, Fred Kruse, Ken Puzoski and Tom O'Neill spearheaded the defense, while Wilhoit led the scoring with nine.

The varsity ran its league record to 4-3 with a 42-22 victory over St. Bede's.

In the Brebeuf tournament St. Mary's won its second-round game with Immaculate Conception 33-31 but lost to St. Joseph's Wilmette 24-17 in the third round. No other details were reported.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for 10 years, 10 months (4 1/2% the first year). That extra 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Take stock in America.

THE U.S. SAVINGS BOND...

Our Hero!

He's a Herald Carrier boy.
He's our hero!

He's our "anchor man" performing the last task in a team relay of effort to keep the Herald readers and the Northwest suburbs the best informed possible.

Without him, all the labors of reporters, editors, photographers, salesmen, production people, pressmen and many others would be futile.

Without him, hundreds of advertisers would wait in vain for customer response.

He shoulders a big responsibility; and he's up to it! A good student, honest, dependable, energetic: these are the attributes of a Herald carrier. Small wonder that we take this time and place to recognize his sizable contribution.

We have over 2000 such carriers and each one of them is . OUR HERO!

The Barn Gallery In Rural Palatine

by GENIE CAMPBELL

The Michael Hollidays reside in an old converted dairy barn situated in an uncluttered natural setting that has yet to be touched by modern buildings.

It's part of the Warren Kayler property, one of the few farms left in Palatine that is still all intact and whose heritage dates back 100 years.

Yet in addition to the dwelling and setting, both unique in themselves, Anne Holliday has gone one step further in distinguishing her home by turning the living and dining room areas into an art gallery.

Even labeling it a mini art museum is not a misrepresentation. Excluding the contemporary artwork, many of the pieces are dated and highly valued by art collectors.

The sign out front simply reads, "The Barn Gallery." Certainly no further explanation is needed.

THOUGH NEVER having been an art dealer before, Mrs. Holliday is well acquainted with antiques and collectibles, having had her own shop, "The Brass Bed," in Crete before the family moved to this area several years ago. She also taught an adult education course concerning art and antiques.

"Art was more a personal collection to me at first but it became more and more fascinating," said Mrs. Holliday. "There is so much good graphic art, one can still afford to invest in pieces done by the great masters," she continued. "Few people realize that."

Graphics are decidedly her main interest and to back up her statement she pulled out a Rembrandt etching and a lithograph by Picasso.

"A lot of the artwork on exhibit are things I've owned," she said. "Others are taken on consignment."

Mrs. Holliday also represents families whose estates are being divided. It is one way valuable art collections change hands.

THIS IS precisely how she came by four artist-proof-positive photographs on glass by Edward Curtis, a noted Indian photographer whose pictures record Indian history dating back to the early 1880s.

Over on one wall is an engraving with a date, circa 1845. It is the earliest known drawing of Chicago. The only other one like it is owned by the Chicago Historical Society.

Hung on the same wall is an oriental painting on silk that dates back even further, between 1820 and 1840.

Mrs. Holliday also has several Gibson drawings, and though not considered art but still of interest to collectors is an early Cook County land grant that survived the great Chicago Fire. It is dated April, 1834.

NOT EVERYTHING in The Barn Gallery hints of the past. There are several artists from the area whose most recent work Mrs. Holliday has on exhibit. But with her current background in antiques she has an eye for collectibles and even plans to turn her kitchen into a "primitive" room where she can display Early American antiques.

"I never did lose my passion for collecting," she laughs.

Mrs. Holliday's husband and two daughters have voiced no complaints. They enjoy their art gallery living room and her son, 11 months old, is already used to having his play pen in the middle of a museum.

"I prefer doing this from my home," continued Mrs. Holliday who feels the setting of her home adds a lot to the atmosphere of the gallery. And she is right. From one of her front windows one overlooks snow covered fenced-in fields, a peaceful interlude from shopping center hubbub.

"IT WOULD take a lot of the fun out of having a gallery if I had to go to a store everyday," said Mrs. Holliday. "Besides, it allows our children to have a wide exposure to art."

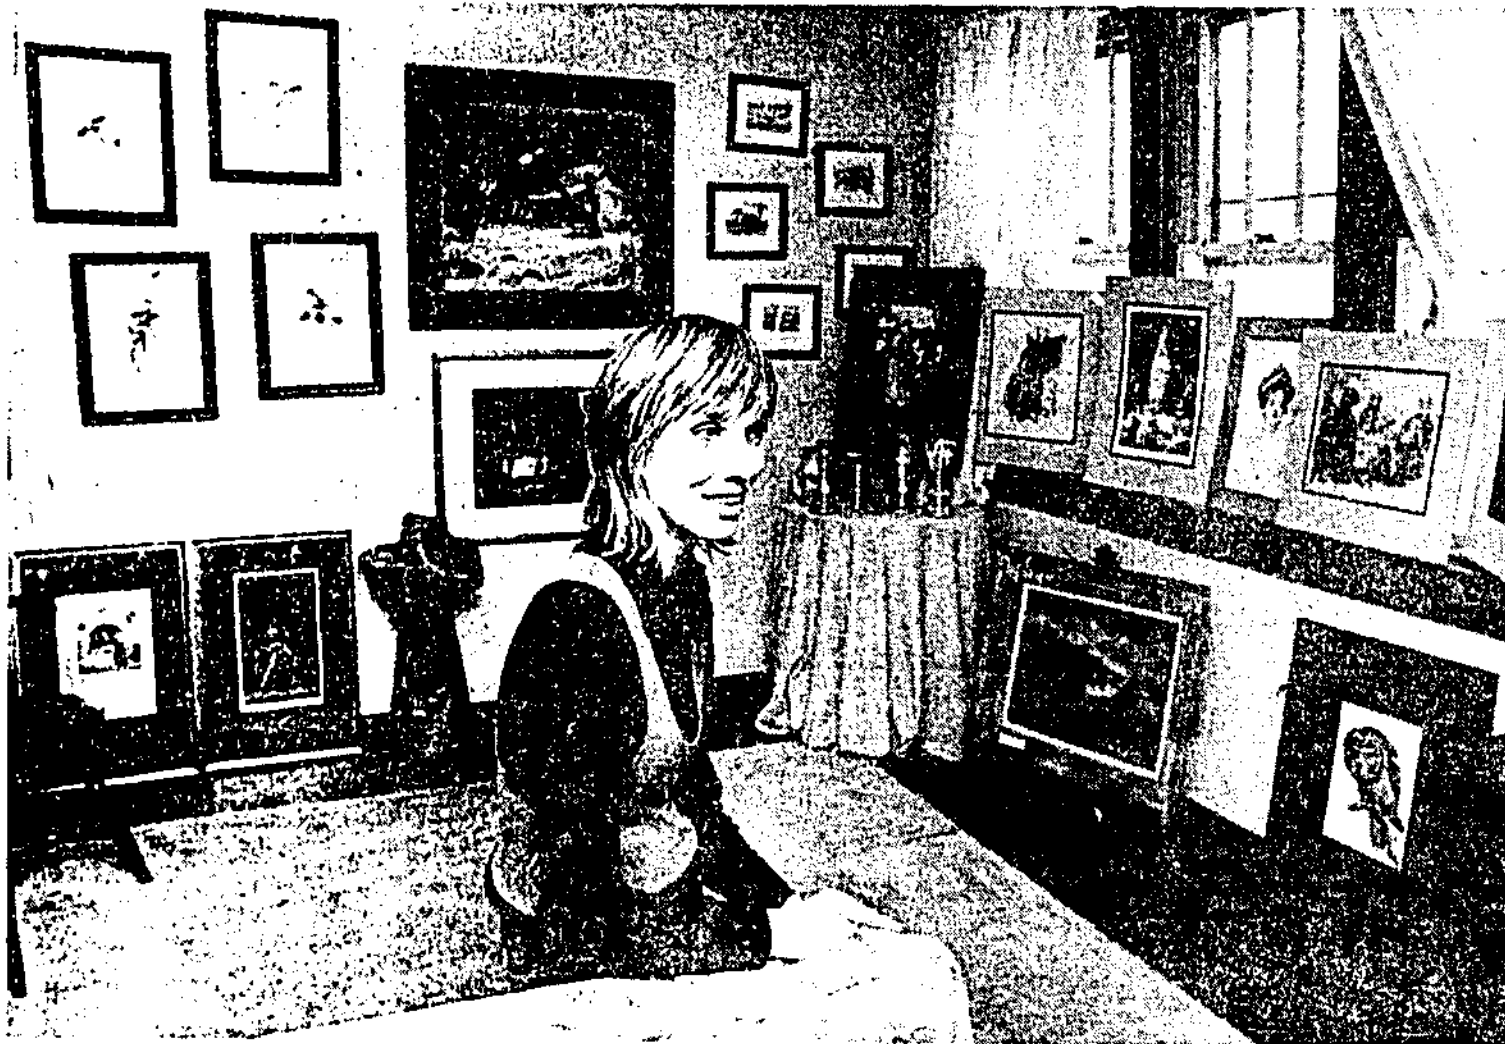

"The American people have become so transient that they feel a great need to return to the past," continued Mrs. Holliday in explaining why she felt interest in antiques and collectibles has recently skyrocketed.

"In an accelerated society things are happening too fast. People want to go back. They need roots. That's why early historical photography has become so meaningful of late.

"And also from an investment capacity people are becoming more and more conscious of art," she continued. "It's not just a status thing. It's having something unique. I love history anyhow, and I find a great analogy between art and history."

PAINTINGS AND PRINTS SURROUND Mrs. Anne Holliday who operates an art gallery out of her home in Palatine. The history of the house itself is unique having been a dairy barn before being made into a residence. Mrs. Holliday has always had an interest in antiques and plans to expand her present facilities by turning her kitchen into a "primitive room" which she will stock with Early American collectibles.

"THERE IS SOMETHING to suit everyone's tastes," maintains Mrs. Anne Holliday. Art treasures currently on exhibit in The Barn Gallery include this Rembrandt etching.

VERY SELDOM IS THIS much art found lining one whole wall of a dining area. But in the Michael Holliday residence the art work is all for sale. While many of the contemporary paintings are taken on consignment, Mrs. Holliday also represents many families who desire to sell their art collections.

with Grace Carolyn

Look at the above picture makes me think of summer cottages, blue lakes and fishing for walleye. You might ask why, since the pictures are obviously of things related to Christmas. Well, I have two reasons.

First of all, I bought the objects shown above while on our vacation in our cottage near Duluth last summer. Secondly, it was just about as cold there then as it is here now, and there was very little we could do but go antiquing.

Obviously, the items in the picture are molds of some kind. Give up? They were used for making fancy ice cream specialties. They are of a heavy pewter-like lead, made in Germany (and so stamped) and were acquired from a most interesting man Duluth who had quite a story to tell about them.

IT SEEMS HE was in the dry ice business (it never having occurred to me that there was such a business) before the days of commercial or home refrigeration. Ice cream companies required more cold than ordinary iceboxes could provide, and he supplied them with dry ice. His territory ranged over three states, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa, and it was a thriving business, some forty or fifty years ago. His Company gradually converted to electric refrigeration equipment, and the ice cream makers also converted their old lead molds to newer plastic ones, which were filled and unmolded by machine.

The dry ice man had the foresight to gather up the discarded old molds which the ice cream companies either gave him or sold by the lot for a few dollars, and he has made a mint through the sales of these interesting and unique collectibles.

HE HAD ONLY about one hundred of them left when I visited his shop and he had sold literally thousands of them the past few years. I had noticed them in various shops and antique shows and was surprised by the prices asked for them.

They are usually described by the dealers as "pewter" but the Duluth man assured me they are not; that the composition of the metal is closer to lead. He had many shapes left, including hearts, flowers, bride and groom, Valentines, pumpkins, witches, Uncle Sam, American Flag, cornucopias and eggs. It is easy to guess the occasions for which these special ice cream treats were made. His wife had, in fact, used the bride and groom mold to make ice cream desserts for the wedding of their daughter.

IT WAS DIFFICULT to make a choice, for I wanted to buy the entire lot, but although his prices were less than I have seen hereabouts, the hundred would have been beyond my budget. I settled for the five shown, all with a Christmas theme, and I am using them to decorate my mantle this season. In the top row are an angel, a tree, a Santa, in the bottom row is a candle and a sleigh. All but the last are hinged in two halves, but the little sleigh is rather ingenious, coming apart in four hinged pieces. There is little detail on the outside of these molds, for the design is on the inside where the ice cream was formed, and therefore they look better standing open.

I wouldn't care to be any farther north just now, but next summer, when the temperature reaches a sizzling 46 degrees above zero, I may make another trip to Duluth and pick up a few more of the seasonal molds, if he still has some. It might be fun to try to mold ice cream, or even butter or gelatin in them for a party. If it doesn't work, the family can always eat the failures.

LOOKING AT the picture above makes me think of one more thing, and that is to wish every reader a Christmas of peace, joy and an abundance of love.

The Book Stall

"MAO AND CHINA,"
BY STANLEY KARNOW.
Viking, $15

Stanley Karnow in Mao and China provides the first comprehensive account of the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution which brought the largest single segment of mankind to the edge of chaos.

Karnow spent 11 years in East Asia as a China Watcher for Time, the Saturday Evening Post and the Washington Post. He wrote Mao and China in 1970-71 as a research fellow at Harvard.

"This is a book about a man in collision with a country," Karnow writes at the outset. "The man is Mao Tse-tung. The country is China."

Mao saw the old ruling class tradition emerging, the old bureaucracy, the old habits the Chinese Revolution was supposed to have smashed.

So beginning in 1966 Mao launched a new revolution, urging on millions of Red Guards, until many of his oldest associates had been swept from office. Finally the army had to bring things back under control.

The Cultural Revolution was over by 1969. Mao told the Red Guards near the end: "You have let me down and, moreover, you have disappointed the workers, peasants and soldiers of China."

In sometimes confusing detail, Karnow chronicles the events that led to what again, at least for the time being, is a stable administration. He concludes:

"More than any individual in modern times, Mao led them, the Chinese, to the rediscovery of their grandeur by inculcating them with a spirit of national identity, a sense of purpose, and a dedication to self-reliance. But in his success lay the seeds of his chief failing. Unwilling to adjust to the prose of stable administration, he sought to sustain the poetry of revolution."

"THE WAR GAME," EDITED BY PETER YOUNG.
Dutton, $10

This is a recreation of 10 great land battles. In 128 pages military historians tell what happened in such famous engagements as Thermopylae, Agincourt, Waterloo, Gettysburg and El Alamein. Each chapter is well illustrated and mapped, and each reminds the reader what the fighting was all about.

"DEAR DEAD DAYS," EDITED BY EDWARD D. HOCH.
Walker, $5.95

This is the 1972 Mystery Writers of America anthology, which half explains the "dead" in the title. The other reason for the title of these delightfully dire tales is that they are stories of the past, from B.C. through 1942.

"EDWARDIAN OCCASIONS," BY SAMUEL HYNES.
Oxford, $8

Half of these essays on the writers whose wit and wisdom distinguished the Edwardian age first appeared in the London Times Literary Supplement. They represent the period from Frank Harris to George Bernard Shaw and shed an intriguing sidelight on the times.

"JOY," BY WENDY KESSELMAN.
PHOTOGRAPHS BY NORMA HOLT.
Lawrence Hill, $5.95

Through simple stories and touching pictures, the authors tell the tale of a Puerto Rican boy who moves from a New York tenement to a housing project. It's a sequel to the equally warm and moving Angelita.

"NINA," BY
NINA VAN PALLANDT.
Walker, $6.95

The "kiss and tell" girl in the Clifford Irving hoax has rushed into print with lory. Like most footnotes, you must be her biographical footnote to literary history. Interestingly interested in the subject to bother.

"MANKOFF'S LUSTY EUROPE,"
BY ALAN H. MANKOFF
Viking, $10

Mankoff must have enjoyed his research — he apparently made an in-depth tour of all the better bordellos, pornography and other off-color facets of the major European capitals to produce what undoubtedly is a first in travel books. Lusty is a pretty mild way of putting it.

"THE DOOMSDAY SYNDROME," BY JOHN MADDOX
McGraw-Hill, $6.95

Here's one for the other side in the ecology controversy. Maddox believes those who warn of impending ecological disaster are overstating the case and that we must decide on whether we conquer our environment or cater to it.

Pete Townshend

After the break-up of the Beatles and all those solo albums and other one-man efforts that have surfaced over the last two years, it would not be surprising to find many listeners who are fed up with such ego trips as the "I did everything" album.

Well, no need to cringe any longer. Peter Townshend, resident genius of the Who, has come out with his first solo album and it is one of the finest, most lyrical and peaceful rock albums of the year. Dedicated to the Indian mystic Meher Baba, "Who Came First" (Decca-DL7-9189) is the next best thing to having a new Who album.

TOWNSHEND has abandoned most of the high energy that flows through the home group to present instead a very warm, humane look at suffering and peace with the universe. Meher Baba's philosophy of oneness fills the album, but probably no more beautifully than in Townshend's setting to music his universal prayer, "Parvartigar." It becomes a six-minute-plus hymn of hope and belief.

Two of the best songs are from a movie, "Life House," which Townshend never got around to actually making. The songs, "Pure and Easy" and "Nothing Is Everything" are full of lyrics, Townshend's as always, fine guitar playing and a sense of the positive. Note the sensitivity of: "There once was a note, pure and easy, played so free like a breath rippling by. I listened and I heard, music in a word, the words when you played your guitar."

All of the album was recorded in Townshend's basement studio and the only help he got was Ronnie Lane's (of Faces) singing and playing on "Evolution" and some other friends' on "Forever's No Time At All," for which he did nothing.

The album quiets the spirit, soothes the soul and satisfies the mind. It is a gem.

To Cast Courtroom Comedy-Drama

"The Night of January 16," a courtroom comedy-drama, will be cast Jan. 7 and 8, 7:30 p.m., in Vogue Theatre Barn, 150 W. Higgins Road, Hoffman Estates.

Bill Schumacher of Hoffman is directing the Ayn Rand play, the Guild Players' third play of the season.

It will be staged Feb. 21, 21 and March 2, 3, at the Theatre Barn. The Guild Players are sponsored by Hoffman Estates Park District.

There are 22 roles to be cast, including six non-speaking parts and many cameo

John Entwistle, the Who's bass guitarist, is also a solo artist, though in his case he has many helpers such as Peter Frampton. His second album, "Whistle Rymes" (Decca DL7-9190), pales by comparison with Townshend's however. It is a collection of cynical insights and pretty blah music.

THERE ARE SONGS of suicide, street pick-ups, nightmares and apathy. Occasionally, a line is amusing, like: "You can't keep an animal that ain't been tamed. You didn't even know the fella's name." But these moments are too rare and most likely the album will put you to sleep.

Then from the simple, we go to the complex — namely, the London Symphony Orchestra's version of "Tommy," (Ode SP-99001).

When Peter Townshend wrote "Tommy" and the Who recorded this first rock opera in 1969, they created one of the most beautiful and meaningful rock records of all time. It may even be the best.

But given the big orchestral and choral treatment, even stellar performances by Townshend, Rod Stewart, Ringo Starr, Richie Havens, Richard Harris and the rest of the Who can prevent the results from being an abomination.

If you want to hear "Tommy," go to Decca and get the original, put on your headphones and become truly deaf, blind and dumb except to the music. And be moved by an experience you aren't likely to ever forget.

The arrangements are crisper and the boys have groomed themselves a little more, but Raspberries haven't changed all that much in "Fresh" (Capitol ST-1123), their second album.

Four lads, a heavy drum roll, tiny guitar introduction and they are off — creating some more of the best post-Beatles light-weight rock. Sweet back-up harmonies, plaintive lead vocals and simple beat rule throughout good songs, such as "I Wanna Be With You," "Let's Pretend," "Every Way I Can" and "Nobody Knows."

FANS WILL NOTE this time around Wally Bryson only gets to write one song. Most of the writing is done by Eric Carmen alone or with David Smalley and the fourth member, Jim Bonfanti, just sticks to his drums.

Raspberries are fun, there's no doubt; but if they get in a rut, watch out. Next time 'round, they should go for more inventiveness.

roles including a judge, lawyers, court clerk, female defendant on trial for murdering her lover-boss, policemen and matrons.

Tryouts are open to the public.

Schumacher calls the play "a chance to see courtroom life in action. Some of the roles are dramatic, some humorous. It's a play with a unique ending, with the audience as the jury. We are really excited about it."

Scripts for those wishing to audition for "The Night of January 16" are available from the production manager, Kenneth Boutelle, 529-3998.

'Little Murders' Says A Lot

by MARILYN HEISER

If you can't beat 'em, join 'em. And Jules Feiffer's exaggerated slice of American life, "Little Murders," has our typical American family learning to love the killing game.

Why not? When everything in the world goes berserk, perhaps the only sane course of action is to stop rolling with the punches and to start inflicting them.

The production last weekend by Schaumburg Township Friends of the Library presented Feiffer's play in the absurd stylized manner necessary to reveal its funny and profound moments.

"Little Murders" zeroes in on an American family living in an extreme environment of filthy air, power shortages, crime and violence. It's a life of comically petty annoyances and real terror.

AGGRESSIVE, tough, very capable daughter Patsy brings home Alfred, the man she wants to marry, to mold into the man she could love. Alfred, a photographer of sorts, a self-described nihilist, is apathetic to the point of irritation, too indifferent to care if he's mugged every day in Central Park, too afraid to feel anything.

Weird as Alfred is, he fits in beautifully with an even stranger family.

Their approaches to life are all absurdly funny. Yet somehow, they are peculiarly rational solutions to extreme situations.

When senseless murder personally touches the family for the second time, and 345 unsolved murders in six months have driven the New York police berserk, the family learns not to just live with crime, but to love it.

William Schumacher of Hoffman Estates is Alfred, and his transformation from apathetic savior to gleeful savior of the family was extremely well done.

The new Alfred is a photographer cleaning up taking pictures of photographs, a chummy comrade rather than an expressionless zombie, a seemingly sane instigator of happy murders.

THE DIRECTOR, Joseph McAuliffe, shows a talented hand in molding his actors into stylized character studies. He helps to create a balanced atmosphere of comedy and horror, absurdly far-fetched, yet terrifyingly real.

Dick Kelly of Hoffman Estates intensified the role of the father, a comically offensive yet sadly pitiful man named Carol, who is obsessed by fear of homosexuality.

Iris Tompkins of Lombard as the mother, and Barbara Ashby of Schaumburg as the daughter, Patsy, competently carry off their roles. The rest of the cast complemented the production, with Steve Heller of Schaumburg particularly amusing as the harried lieutenant working on 345 unsolved murders.

The Friends of the Library is a talented group who in this case chose a play well suited to the improvised library theater, 32 W. Library Lane in Schaumburg. "Little Murders" will be staged again on Jan. 5 and 6.

Will 'Black Films' Ever Grow Up To Be Movies?

by DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA) —Black films (not to be confused with black comedy) keep going, keep growing. There are a couple of them around these days which are worth a second look.

One is "Sounder," a gentle experience that has a lot to say beneath its innocent exterior. It stars Cicely Tyson, Paul Winfield and Janet MacLachlan and it's a film that everybody should see, regardless of race, creed or age.

Where "Sounder" is a departure, because it is a black film without being an obviously angry film, "Super Fly" is more in the usual mold. It's a ghetto movie and it wears its anger like a flag.

I talked to "Super Fly's" white producer, Sig Shore, and black star, Ron O'Neal. They say there has yet to be a black film which appeals to both black and white audiences — but they hadn't seen "Sounder" when they made that statement.

Actually, O'Neal objects to the term "black film" and he's probably right in doing so.

"When I go to the movies," he said, "and go to see a James Bond picture, for example, I don't tell myself I'm going to see a white film. I say I am going to the movies."

But white audiences don't yet feel that way. When they go to see "Super Fly," they say they're going to see a black film, not just going to the movies.

"And something else. When a white man goes to a film like 'Super Fly,' and he sees a line of black people waiting to go in he doesn't say to himself that that's a line of moviegoers, he says, 'That's a line of potential rapists and murderers.'"

O'Neal and Shore think that the type of movies about blacks being made will slowly change.

"So far," O'Neal says, "black movies put down white. Give us time. Black films are in their infancy. White films, in the early days of movies, were full of cliches, too. The white heavy in the black film is a cliché but no more a cliché than the Stepin Fetchit character in white films used to be a cliché."

Television Specials Planned For 1973

The GE Monogram Series has four specials coming up in 1973, beginning in January with "Bighorn!" dealing with the mountain sheep of that name and efforts to save an endangered species. Others in the series are "Bellevue," a look at the famous New York City hospital; "Conquistador," a study of how the horse changed the life of the American Indian, and "Love and Hate," an examination of human behavior patterns narrated by Richard Burton.

Lithuanian Chain

Each year at the Museum of Science and Industry's "Christmas Around the World" display, the Lithuanian tree is one of the prettiest. It has no lights and no colored ornaments. It is trimmed just with hand made straw ornaments.

To make a Lithuanian chain for your tree you'll need a needle with a large eye, thin white string or dental floss, and white drinking straws.

Cut straws into pieces about one half inch long. Cut at an angle so the ends of each piece slant. Stick threaded needle through the center of each piece of straw (not through the hole). Tie a knot around the first piece so your chain won't slide off the end. String more pieces until your chain is the length you want. Tie the end in a knot.

(For next week's project, save sticky-when wet ribbons from your Christmas packages.)

by JACK GAWER

NEW YORK (UPI) — There isn't much new to be dug out of the Adam and Eve story, but Arthur Miller followed countless playwrights in using it as an instrument to make some sort of dramatic point.

The Miller play "The Creation of Adam and Eve" was a quick failure for this outstanding dramatist.

Miller's first comedy does have a gloss of humor from a writer whose specialty is dead-serious, topical dramas. The effort at humorous treatment of the Adam and Eve theme is not to be scorned, yet one feels that Miller's future is in his past-dead-serious drama.

Of course, Miller has not written just for comedy effect. There is some sort of "message" here meant to apply to modern man and his problems. It seems to have something to do with man's natural innocence and goodness being twisted into ugliness by circumstances that, for some reason, he can't or won't control.

The three acts embrace the innocence of life in the Garden of Eden until the forbidden apple episode results in God casting Adam and Eve out of Paradise; the couple's struggle to survive in the outside world, their eventual material progress, with sons Cain and Abel, which results in God feeling they have drifted from him and that it is necessary to introduce them to the fact of violent death.

Temptations At Mill Run To Usher In The New Year

by GENIE CAMPBELL

To usher in the new year Motown style, the place to do your New Year's Eve celebrating is the MILL RUN THEATRE in Niles.

The TEMPTATIONS, still sizzling on the record charts with their hit, "Papa Was a Rollin' Stone," will be staging six nights of entertainment in the theater-in-the-round beginning Tuesday and continuing through Sunday, New Year's Eve.

Teamed with the five Motown vocalists will be the HONEY CONE. Remember the lyrics, "Wanted, young man single and free?" They came from the Honey Cone's first hit single.

Performance times are 8:30 p.m. weekdays and 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Two shows will be presented New Year's Eve, 8:30 and 12:15. Free cocktails will be served New Year's Eve.

"HARR" is currently on stage at Mill Run Theatre through this weekend.

The SOUND ARRANGEMENT, four musicians who team together to create instrumentations and vocal interpretations, will return New Year's Eve and play through Jan. 27 at the GOLDEN BARREL SUPPER CLUB.

The group consists of Suzanne Eschmann, vocalist; Rich Gates, bassist; Greg Lowery, drums; and Dick Rivers, leader and pianist.

Henric's Golden Barrel is located in the O'Hare Inn, Mannheim and Higgins Road in Des Plaines.

Children are invited to participate in a free HOLIDAY FILM FESTIVAL oc-curing next Tuesday through Saturday in the Price Auditorium of THE ART INSTITUTE OF CHICAGO'S JUNIOR MUSEUM. Performance times on each of the five days are 11 a.m., 1 p.m., and 3 p.m.

The festival, sponsored by the Junior Museum Committee of the Woman's Board of the Institute, will feature three films for children: "Dot and the Line," a love story between a dot and a line; "The Way of a Trout," an underwater adventure; and a W. C. Field's comedy, "The Barbershop."

Wishbones instead of money will be accepted at PHEASANT RUN PLAYHOUSE for the day-after-Christmas performance of the musical revue, "Jump For Joy."

Producer Carl Stohn Jr. is assuming that people will stuff themselves with Christmas dinner and so is offering a free ticket to the Tuesday show (dinner not included) to anyone who brings a turkey wishbone to the box office.

Wishbone holders may pick up their tickets at 8 p.m. The performance begins at 8:30 p.m.

A musical group, the PRODIGY, will headline the New Year's Eve party featuring dinner and dancing in the Hall of Cities at the CHICAGO MARSHOTT MOTOR HOTEL, 8535 W. Higgins Road.

The party, $50 a couple, includes unlimited cocktails, buffet dinner, party hats and noisemakers, and a champagne toast at midnight. It all begins at 8 p.m. and will continue until 2 a.m. The buffet is at 8:30.

CO-HOSTESSES AT ONE cocktail party preceding the Cotillion Dance Club's Christmas date were Jo Schroeder and Marian Harris, shown with a guest, George Schillinger. After cocktails in the Schroeder home, the group went to Rolling Green Country Club for an evening of dancing.

COCKTAIL PARTIES in several homes preceded the Christmas social for the Cotillion Dance Club of Arlington Heights. One hostess was Jane Bowman, shown chatting with Gloria Mehl, Club treasurer.

For A Happy Life

It's Fun in December To:

1. Get out the Christmas phonograph records and give yourself a concert.
2. Resolve never to let other people's actions affect your mood.
3. Plan to make the day of Christmas Eve a happy festive occasion.
4. Hang on to the addresses you want to save that come on cards and letters.
5. Sit alone for half an hour and let a peaceful feeling pour over you.
6. Take pictures of your family as they prepare for Christmas.
7. Stretch ten times on tip-toe when your neck and shoulders ache with fatigue.
8. Note this by Marcus Aurelius: "Does anyone do wrong? It is to himself that he does the wrong."

DPTG To Stage 'Peanuts'

Charlie Brown, the forlorn, ever-losing little kid from the comic strip "Peanuts" will begin charming audiences at the Des Plaines Theatre Guild Playhouse on Jan. 5. He and his gang of juveniles will be portrayed by an adult cast who nevertheless have concentrated on capturing the inner innocence of children.

There will be three sets of performances, Jan. 5-6, Jan. 12-13 and Jan. 19-20, all at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are now available at the box office, 296-1211, from noon to 5 p.m. daily.

Dave Kajor, Elk Grove, will play the role of Charlie Brown. Karen Mason, Arlington Heights, will be Lucy. Tom Wagner, Elk Grove, is Schroeder, the piano nut and intimate of Beethoven or at least of his "Moonlight Sonata."

Jim Curren, Des Plaines, will be seen as the blanket-clutching Linus while Barbara Curren (Jim's wife) is Patty, the sweet-natured jump rope fiend.

Snoopy will be portrayed by Ken Johnson, Des Plaines, the extraordinary dog with imagination, who fancies himself at times as a World War I fighter pilot pitted against a German enemy called the Red Baron.

Saturday Basketball

Starting Jan. 6, the Hughes Sports Network begins telecasting "Game of the Week," live presentation of basketball contests in the Big Ten and Pacific 8 Conferences. There will be 11 Saturday broadcasts.

Christmas Day Special

The Public Broadcasting System network will have a Christmas Day telecast of a new production of "The Sleeping Beauty" ballet with choreography by Rudolf Nureyev, who also dances the leading role of the Prince. From 8 to 9:30 p.m. Dec. 25.

Attendants Carry Lanterns

Seven attendants wearing long purple velvet gowns trimmed with ivory lace and carrying lanterns with burning candles surrounded by flowers preceded Debrah Marie Dahlgren down the aisle for her Nov. 24 marriage to Don Curtis Reed.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dahlgren, 803 S. I-Oka, Mount Prospect, and her bridegroom is the son of the Charles Reeds of Chillicothe, Ill.

The couple met through Don's fraternity, Kappa Psi, at Drake University, Des Moines.

THEY WERE married by candlelight in a six o'clock ceremony in St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, and then greeted 200 guests at a dinner with dancing at O'Hare Inn.

Debbie wore a gown of silk organza delicately embroidered with ivory Alencon lace on the high neckline, Empire bodice and chapel-length train. A Camelot cap of re-embroidered lace and seed pearls held her silk illusion veil in place. Her bouquet was composed of white orchids, stephanotis and white roses.

Her attendants' gowns were of the purple velvet with bateau neckline and long sleeves cuffed with three rows of ivory Venice lace. They wore three-layered purple velvet bows in their hair.

The flowers accenting the lanterns they carried were Sterling Silver roses, statice, starburst mums and baby's breath.

CAROLE SCHWAKE, Arlington Heights, was maid of honor, preceded by six bridesmaids. They included Georgeann Kolves, Peoria; Jill Welch, the bride's cousin from Thornton, Ill.;

Mr. and Mrs. Don Reed

Helen Gershenfeld, Skokie; Janet Lindsay, Macomb; and Nancy Sinclair, Mundelein, with the groom's sister Dianna, 10, as junior bridesmaid.

Carey Norgaard, 4, of Des Moines, was flower girl and David Ems, 8, Mundelein, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

The little flower girl wore a lavender moire taffeta dress with ivory lace trim and lace pantaloons.

Randal Reed was his brother's best man. The groomsmen included Norman Dahlgren, brother of the bride who lives in San Diego; Martin Ogburn, Peoria; Jerold Lindsay, Macomb; Thomas Hoff- erica, Orland Park; and Francis Bartolo- mucci, Peoria.

THE WEDDING guests were seated by James Gardner of Crestwood and Alan Norgaard, Des Moines. Two of the special guests were the couple's grand- mothers, Mrs. Martha Welch and Mrs. Anna Reed.

Debbie and Don planned their wedding for the day after Thanksgiving but postponed their honeymoon until the Christ- mas holidays. They will spend ten days in Jamaica and then return to West Des Moines after the new year.

Debbie is a senior in elementary education at Drake, and minoring in art. She is a graduate of Forest View High School.

Don graduated from Drake University School of Pharmacy in 1971 and works for Target in Des Moines.

A Reminder To Brides

The Herald reminds brides-to-be of the deadlines in effect for reporting wedding news. Full information is printed on forms available in all the Herald offices.

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions) information is due within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story only or caption.

Accompanying picture should be a black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. At the discretion of the editors and the Herald photo department, color photos may or may not be used, depending on color tones contrast and clarity. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

We suggest the bride or some member of the family select a photo for the news- paper immediately upon receiving photo- grapher's proof. Better yet — have the

by Dorothy Ritz

by DOROTHY RITZ

Dear Dorothy: There's a ring mark on my bedroom dresser, probably from some toilet article. Have tried several remedies with no luck. Would appreciate any help you can offer. — M. Takaya

If the remedies you've tried have taken off the top surface, there isn't much you can do but have it spot-refinished. When there is a good polish on furniture, there are various remedies. There are instances where mayonnaise or petroleum jelly can be left on a stain overnight and when wiped off in the morning, the stain has disappeared.

My own favorite method is to make a paste of cigarette ash and oil, let it dry on a stain and then rub it off and polish. Cigarette ash is something like talcum powder but with a little more abrasive action. But summed up, no home remedy will work if the top finish has been rubbed off.

Dear Dorothy: This may be a pack rat trick, but it works. To use up small scraps of toilet soap, I take the foot and about six inches of the leg from a nylon stocking. When I think there are enough scraps, I tie the end and use the thing as any washcloth. It lathers beautifully. Everybody in the family likes the idea and every once in a while I add more scraps of soap by untying the knot. — Marge K.

Dear Dorothy: Could you find out the combination for making the wonderful spiced tea that seems to have orange peel in it? Had some at a friend's home and was so taken I got some for the family and they like it, too — Emily B.

You'll have to enjoy it the way it comes, Emily. It's a commercial product and the company isn't about to give away the secret. Actually, one might be able to figure out the spice combination, but only an expert on teas would know the precise kind of tea used.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Subur- ban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006.)

Chapel Wedding Service For Dr. Eldridge, Bride

The chapel of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church in McLean, Va., was the setting Dec. 2 for the wedding of Barbara de Wolf Gray and Dr. Thomas Haws Eldridge. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd James Eldridge, 28 E. Brookdale Lane, Palatine, Dr. Eldridge is an intern at Penn- sylvania Hospital in Philadelphia where the newlyweds are making their home.

Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Gray, McLean, is a graduate of Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia, and until her marriage was an editorial assistant in the Department of Pharmacology at the University, Charlottesville. Tom is a graduate of Amherst College and the medical school of the University of Virginia. He is also a '64 graduate of William Fremd High School, Palatine.

For the 5:30 p.m., double ring service Barbara chose a Renaissance gown of ivory crepe edged with ivory silk braid with train lined in green. A fingertip veil and a nosegay of winter white roses and stephanotis completed her ensemble.

Only attendant for Barbara was her sister, Mrs. James L. Lillie III, Alexandria, Va. She wore a floor-length gown in two shades of green and carried a cascade of bronze and yellow baby chrys- anthemums.

James A. Eldridge of Denver, Colo., brother of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Charles A. Castle, Charlot- tesville, and James L. Lillie III, Alexan- dria.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

It's Fashion

by United Press International

"No man can ever know the full horror of being a woman," says Clodagh, the designer from Dublin. "There's virtually no social situation in which he can't get by with a suit and tie. But now look at us, what we're faced with: Every party means an enormous decision. How can a man ever understand that?"

One way to dress for holiday parties: a casual evening cardigan in striped Lurex over a mock turtle neck with back zip. Add a long black velvet skirt. The look, which may be adapted by you, was in the Jaeger Holiday collection.

For men, the natural look of linen is combined with contrasting striping at neck and waist of a short-sleeved sweat- er. From Admit One's holiday-spring col- lection, it is available in trim colors of gold, blue, green and orange.

It's all there in black and white — Pendleton's message for spring '73. Smartly striped hacking jacket ($35) in spring-weight wool is worn with black sidebutton longskirt ($25). It's a design for what the manufacturer calls "live- wire mobility." Accent to the outfit is provided by Pendleton's Mondrian sweat- er vest $17 in red, white, and black, and a $15 red blouse by Country Sophisticates.

Hospital Checks Product Safety

A poorly designed coffee pot tips over, spilling scalding coffee on a child. The child is rushed to the emergency room of Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, where a teletype hookup notifies the Food and Drug Administration in Washington, D.C.

The FDA's Bureau of Product Safety checks into the situation and finds that a number of such coffee pots have tipped over, injuring people, so they recommend design changes to the manufacturer.

This is how the new National Electronic Injury Surveillance System works. Called "NEISS" for short, it links 119 hospital emergency rooms across the country with the Bureau of Product Safety. Its purpose is to provide data on injuries and deaths resulting from consumer products. The data will then be used by the Bureau of Product Safety — now part of the Consumer Product Safety Commission created by Congress in October — as a basis for developing product safety standards.

Holy Family is the only hospital in the northwest area participating in the program, although six other hospitals in the Chicago area are involved. Holy Family will be presented with an award today from the FDA in recognition of its contribution to NEISS.

THE HOSPITALS were selected at random in 30 states last spring, and the number will be expanded to represent 18 more states. The hospitals are expected to provide FDA analysts with 500,000 injury reports a year.

Information sent to Washington, according to Susan Fisher of the medical records department at Holy Family, consists of the products involved in the accident, the cause of injury, severity of injury, where it happened, and the patient's age and sex.

Followup studies on certain cases are then conducted by the FDA, during which brands are determined if possible. If a trend develops, the public will be notified as to the hazard, using the brand name, according to Malcolm Jensen, director of the bureau.

Are there any trends yet? Most of Holy Family's cases have involved sports, such as baseball, hockey and basketball, Mrs. Fisher said. But, she added, there have also been an above average number of bicycle injuries, along with fairly frequent cases involving chainsaws, lawnmowers, garage doors and tin cans.

Mrs. Fisher added that the FDA "always follows up on highchair injuries." Infant furniture has recently come under criticism for unsafe design, and the industry and FDA have been working on recommendations and standards for design of such equipment.

OF THE 250 to 350 patients processed through NEISS monthly at Holy Family, Mrs. Fisher said most are receptive to the program. She said some balk at first at giving the information, particularly if the accident occurred through their own negligence.

The FDA, which has a $1 million budget for NEISS, pays for the teletype and also allows the hospitals reimbursement per case reported.

About 38 per cent of household injuries are treated in emergency rooms, according to a Chicago survey firm. With an estimated 20 million injuries a year, the NEISS projections will relate to some 7.6 million product-related injuries.

In the first NEISS compilations, from July through September, team sports were the leading cause of injury, with bicycles second. Drugs and household cleaners were also fairly high.

Mild Cleansing

Women who find that their faces are drier than usual may discover that a switch to a mild soap with castile will help out by cleaning the skin without any harsh drying.

Please, please print a picture of Mike Connors. I would like to know where I could write to him. Are his ratings high? What happened to Lynda Day George of MISSION: IMPOSSIBLE? Does Cher pick her own clothes? I heard she was picked for the top ten best dressed women. Is this true?

D.M.R.

Mike Connors

Lots of questions—lots of answers! Mike's show, MAN-NA, is not doing very well thus far into this season. He has pulled ratings as low as 47 out of the top 61 shows. If the show stays that low very long, it looks bad and you know what happens then. Write to him in care of CBS-TV, 51 W. 52nd St., New York, N.Y. 10019.

Lynda remains as a regular on the series. Keep watching, she'll be seen again. Cher does pick out some of her clothes, but time does not allow her to choose all of them. The wardrobe department has done a splendid job in creating the dresses for the show and of course, an almost limitless budget helps. You heard correctly about her being chosen as one of the top ten dressers—that was in 1971. Cher was thrilled about it and enjoyed making fashion headlines.

Could you please tell me where I can write to Sonny and Cher, Susan Dey, and Maureen McCormick? It's a big order, but you'll try it. I want some news on Chastity Bono.

C.C.D.
Palatine

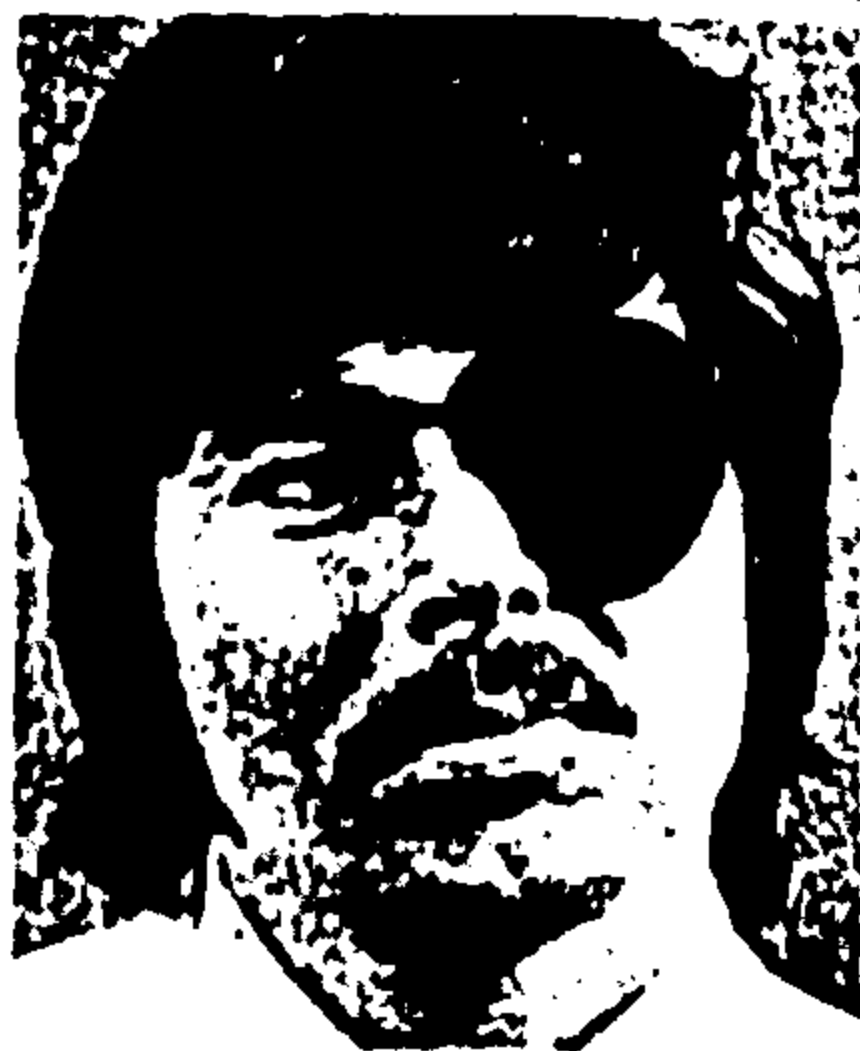

Susan and Maureen both can get their fan letters sent in care of ABC-TV, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019. CBS-TV, 51 W. 52nd St., New York, N.Y. 10019 is the address to send the letters to Sonny and Cher.

The only information we have about Chastity is her birthdate. She was born March 4, 1969. Ask for additional information when you write to her parents. It's nice to know you have confidence in us!

I like Bobby Sherman very much. Would you please print a picture of him with his moustache? Where may I write to him?

Susan Rice
Wheeling

Bobby Sherman

Sure, we'll print his picture with a moustache. He even has an eye patch. How 'bout that? Write to him in care of MGM Records, 7165 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90046.

• • •

Could you please tell me everything you know about David Hartman including his age? I think he's really great. Would you also print a picture of him?

K.E.
Palatine

Everything? We are sorry to inform you, but David is not going to have his series very much longer. THE BOLD ONES has had a mid-season cancellation. David chose acting as a career at age 24, after graduation from Duke University and a two year stint in the Air Force.

David Hartman

Born on May 19, 1937, Hartman was offered baseball contracts by the then Boston Braves and Phillies. He continued with schooling for a number of reasons: "partially because of the fine music and liberal arts program, partially because of baseball and finally because I wanted a change of scenery from New England," said Hartman.

Hartman has been busy ever since he started his acting career working off-Broadway, touring with the Harry Belafonte Singers, as a regular cast member of THE VIRGINIAN, and several movies. He has also guested on a number of TV shows.

David has become very popular and we are sure to see the handsome bachelor on TV again soon.

• • •

Could you please tell me a little about Joe Namath and where to write to him? I really think he is cute! Is there a place where I can get a picture of him? Where?

Elk Grove

Joe is not 'just another football player.' He is also a movie actor. Thus far, he has made three movies: "Norwood," "C.C. and Company" and "The Last Rebel." 'C.C.' brought him very good reviews. He also had his own local TV show and has hosted for Carson numerous times. Guest roles on other shows have also been popular.

His chain of night-spots is growing—called Bachelors III. During the off-season he lives in New York and Miami. The 29-year-old Namath is still one of the eligible bachelors!

Write to him in care of the New York Jets Football Club, Inc., 595 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. If you are unable to get a picture of him there send a request about the availability of posters to Theatre Poster Exchange, P.O. Box 845, Memphis, Tenn. 38101.

Where could I find a picture of Rock Hudson? Where may I write to Susan St. James? I am a great fan of the TV program "McMillan and Wife."

There is no generation gap that 'Snoopy' can't bridge

Snoopy, the capering canine of "Peanuts" comic strip fame, is recognized the world over.

"Snoopy and I visited six European countries during production of 'Snoopy's International Ice Follies,' and he attracted big crowds wherever he went," reported Walt DeFaria, co-producer of the special.

"The kids followed him all over the place, calling 'Snoopy,' pulling his tail and even dancing with him."

Snoopy and DeFaria, along with ice skating star Jill Shipstad and comedy-on-ice expert Mr. Frick, toured Denmark, England, France, Italy, Norway and Switzerland to film location scenes for the special, broadcast earlier this year.

"Snoopy has been skating with the Ice Follies for two years now, and the premise of the special was that he was touring Europe to line locations and talent for future ice shows," DeFaria explained.

During his European sojourn, Snoopy rode through the fjords of Norway on the Royal Viking Star, ate ice cream and drank root beer at sidewalk cafes in Paris, spooned up spaghetti at outdoor restaurants in Rome, rode a mountain tram in Switzerland and took pictures of the changing of the guard in London.

"Once, when Snoopy and Jill Shipstad were sitting at an outdoor restaurant in Rome, a charming old grandmother passed by selling roses," DeFaria recalled. "She rushed up to give a rose to Snoopy, completely ignoring the lovely Miss Shipstad."

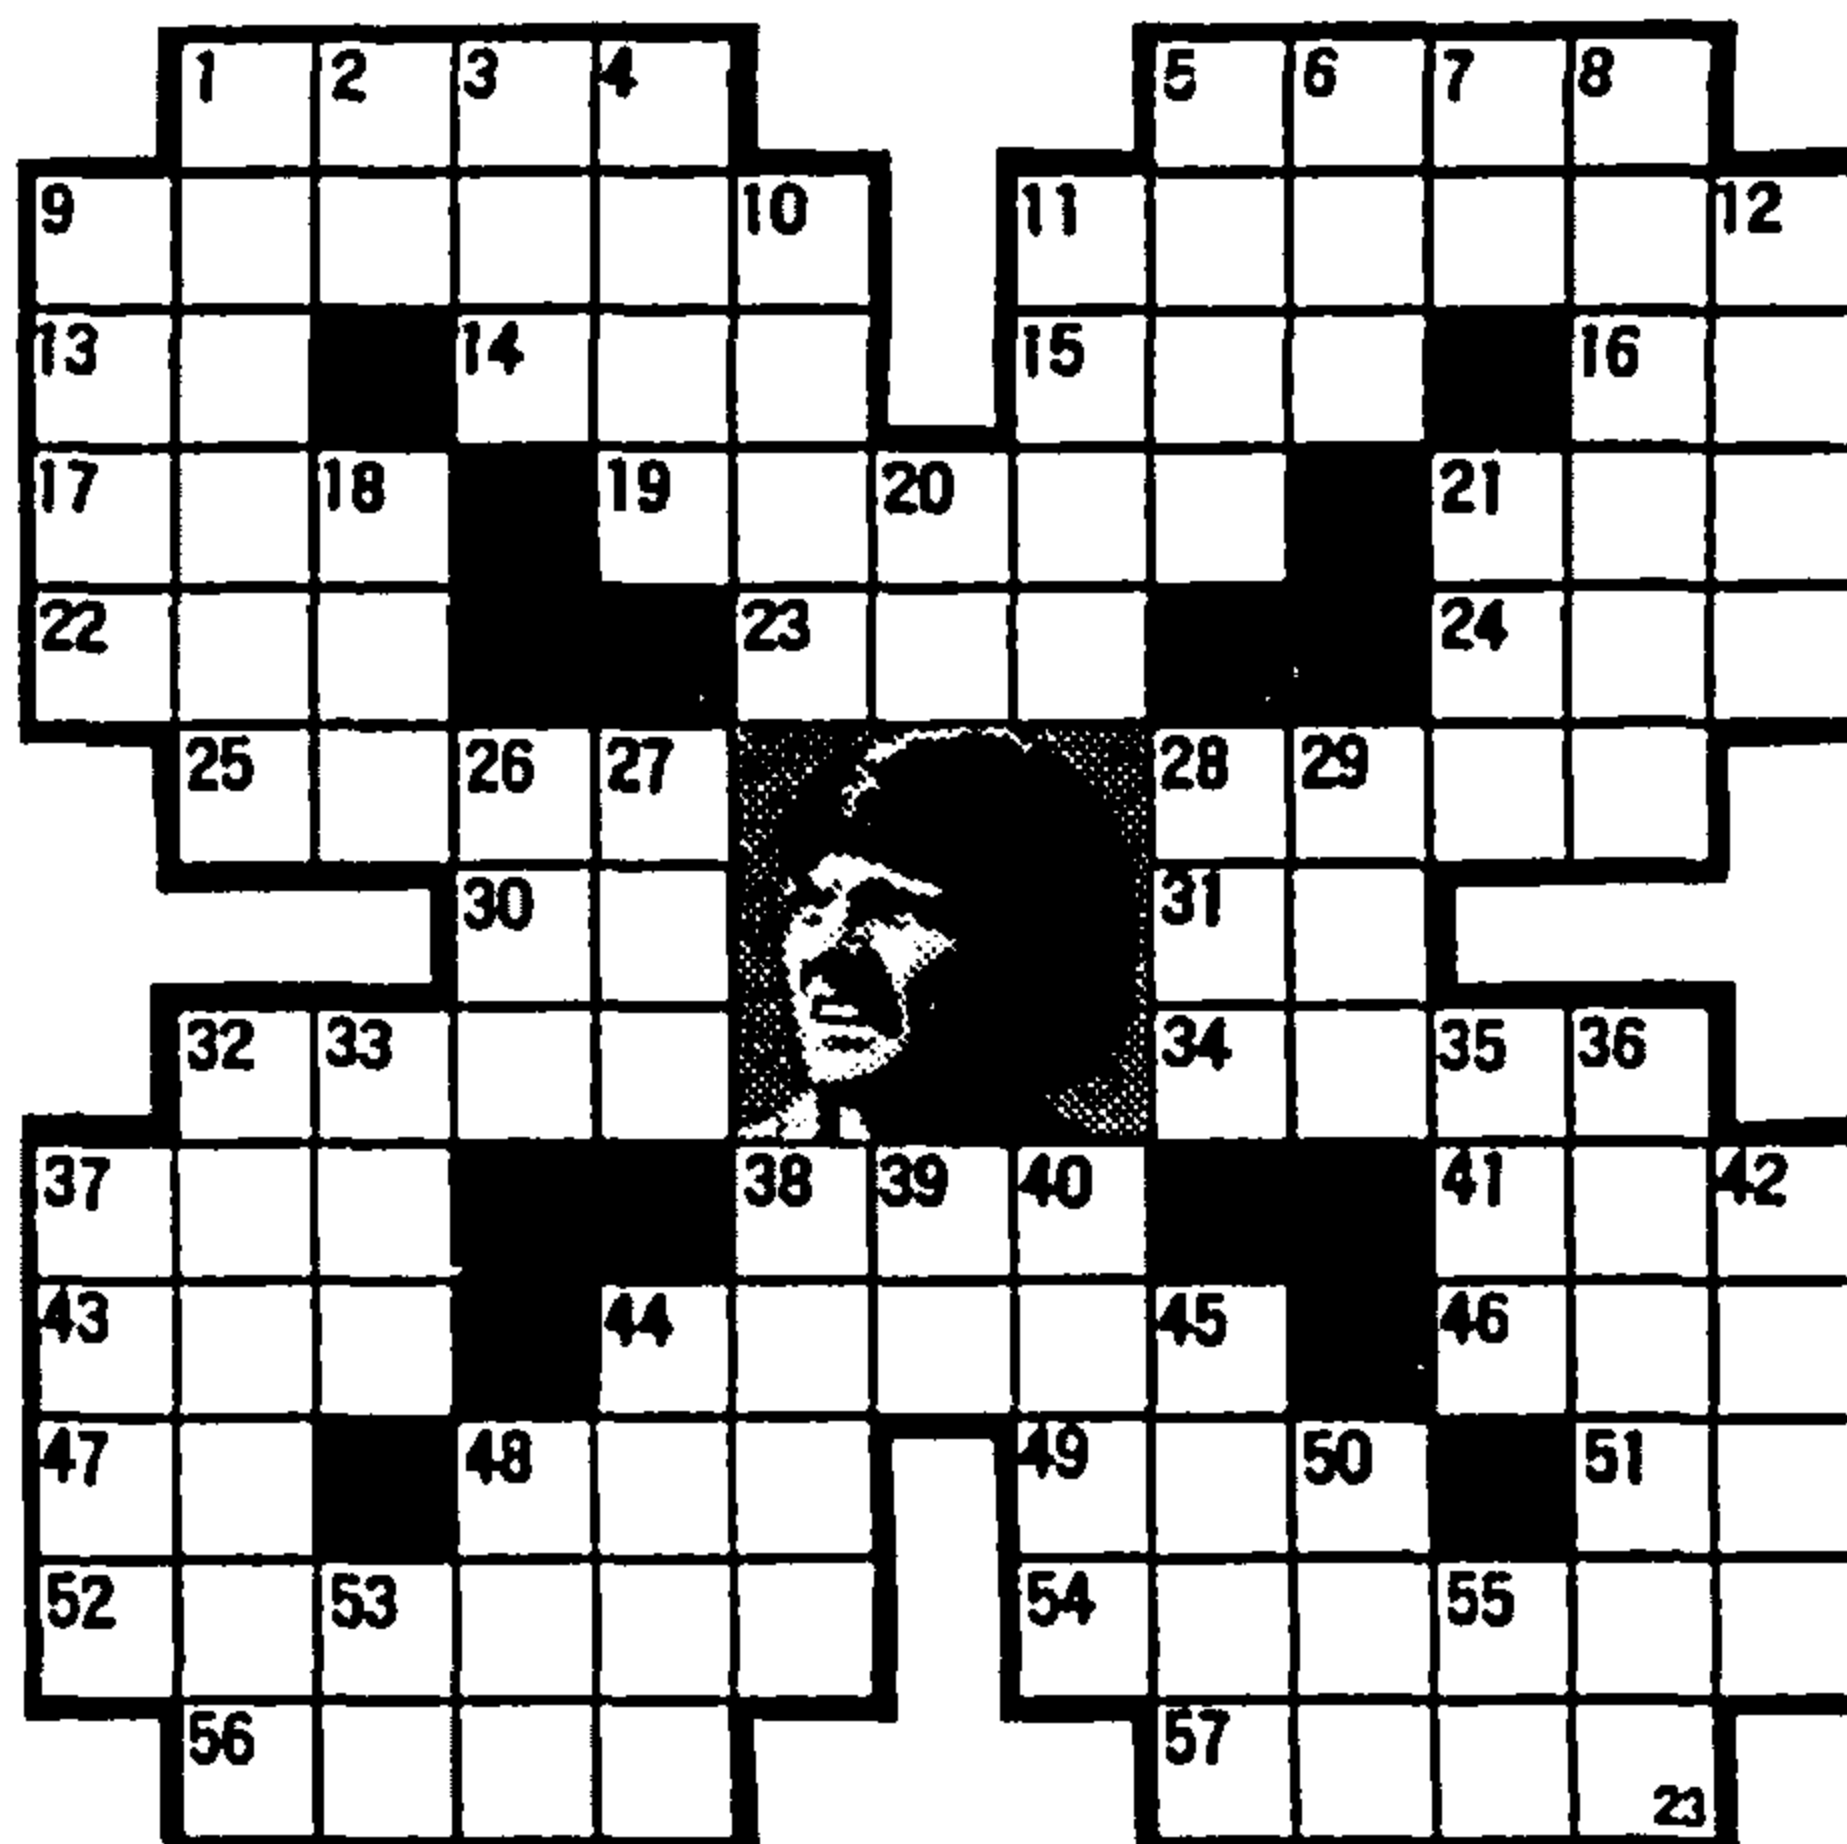

"The Tivoli Gardens in Copenhagen was one of the most pleasant visits, with Danish children following him throughout the journey through the park. Snoopy drove a miniature motor boat with the kids, danced with them and even played in their playground," he continued.

"The most amazing thing to me was that in every country we visited all the children knew Snoopy and called him by name."

"The cartoon strip is distributed in many of the countries (according to the Guinness Book of World Records, 'Peanuts' is the most widely syndicated comic strip in the world), but not in all of those we visited."

"Paperback collections of the 'Peanuts' cartoons are published in all of the countries," he explained. "So virtually all of the children have read about Charlie Brown's favorite beagle."

Cannon's singing brings tears to the eyes of many

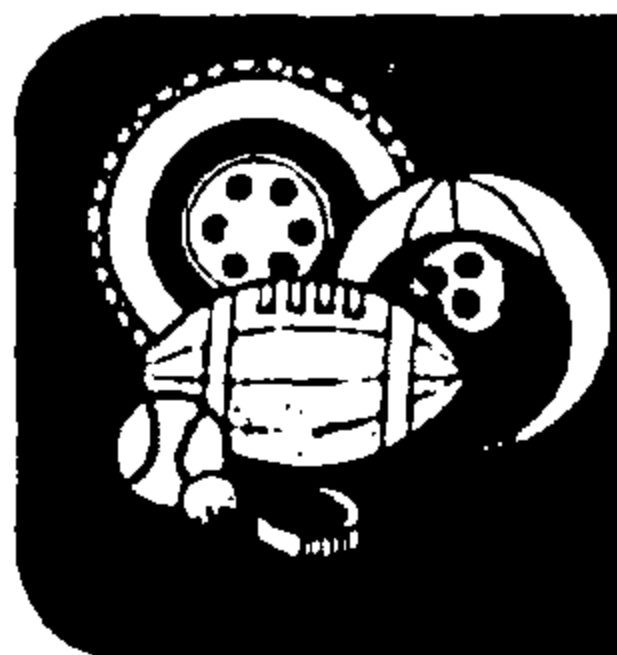

William Conrad stepped out of his role as private investigator Frank Cannon on his "Cannon" series seen on the Network to bring tears to listeners eyes when he offered a very moving rendition of "The Men in My Little Girl's Life," in his network television singing debut, on "The Sonny & Cher Comedy Hour" recently.

Although this is the first time a television audience will see Conrad in a musical solo, he is by far no stranger to the world of music. As a youth, he was a member of the church choir and was in great demand as a soloist for local weddings. He currently is a member of ASCAP, having written several songs for motion pictures in which he appeared.

"I made pretty good money as a singer when I was a youngster, but I never considered making a career of it. As for writing songs, I did that just for fun—they really weren't very good," says the basso-voiced Conrad, whose voice, whether singing or speaking, has played a large part in his professional show business career.

Conrad entered the entertainment field as an announcer-writer-director for a Los Angeles radio station. He went on to become a mainstay of network radio drama, winning his greatest fame as the ominous-toned Matt Dillon of the original "Gunsmoke" series which ran for 11 years on the CBS Radio Network.

"My life seems to be going in a circle," he says. "When I left radio, I became an actor. Then I devoted some 15 years to directing and producing for television and motion pictures. A few years ago, I returned to concentrating on acting and now I seem to be reverting back to my youth—singing."

Goulet makes the switch

"I love playing the villain," says Robert Goulet, the handsome actor and singer who portrayed a syndicate crime boss on "Mission: Impossible" earlier this season on the CBS Television Network.

The perfect leading man type with a host of avid feminine fans, Goulet isn't worried that portraying bad guys will hurt his image.

"THE PUBLIC IS much too smart to associate an actor's real personality with any single role," he says.

Goulet admits that he hasn't done as much acting in recent months as he'd like, due to his heavy commitments to the nightclub and concert stage. That same heavy load has also precluded any type of formal acting training.

"I've always wanted to study acting," he says, "but I've always been too busy working as an actor and singer. When I'm doing a dramatic role I depend mostly on instinct, what I've learned from experience and other actors, and from the guidance of the director."

AS TO A DRAMATIC series of his own, Goulet says it would have to be a very good concept simply because he doesn't relish the hours that stars of series like "Mission: Impossible" have to put in.

"Doing a series is just plain hard work," he says. "These guys are up at six in the morning, quit around eight at night and then go home and study the next day's lines."

A look at the latest migration into Israel on '60 Minutes'

A report on the one-or perhaps two-million aliens in the United States illegally and a look at the latest wave of Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union into Israel will be featured on "60 MINUTES" Sunday, Dec. 24, on the CBS Television Network.

The third segment on the Christmas Eve broadcast will be an essay written by Andrew Rooney entitled "What Christ Looked Like," which was first presented on the Network on Christmas Eve 1968. It traces visual and verbal descriptions of Christ.

CBS News Correspondent Mike Wallace looks at the flood of aliens entering the U.S. illegally and the problems accompanying this influx.

"The Immigration Service is strapped for men and money," explains Wallace. "At any given time, there are only 300 border patrol agents checking the 6,000 miles of U.S. border, not including the coast lines. And numerous illegal aliens come to this country willing to perform the jobs others won't touch—while the unemployment figure stays at between 5 and 6 percent of the work force and while the welfare rolls swell with the jobless."

"60 MINUTES" cameras track three Mexicans who illegally crossed the border into Southern California and watch their apprehension by U.S. authorities. In New York City, Wallace visits main hangouts of illegal aliens in Chinatown, Little Italy and the upper West Side, and attends an immigration court proceeding preliminary to deportation. Wallace also listens as disenchanted border officers tell of their disillusionment at the inefficiency and mismanagement of the Immigration Service. Barry Lando is producer of the segment.

"Promised Land," the story of the modern exodus of Jews emigrating from the U.S.S.R. to Israel, is the focus of a report by Correspondent Morley Safer.

Beginning at the point where a trainload of Russian Jews crosses the Czechoslovakia border into Austria, cameras follow them through their assimilation into Israel culture. The segment examines why and how the Jews left their homeland to start another life and the problems of that transition.

Gift list for the stars

Despite the smog, the lights of New York and Hollywood be adequate to light 'ol Santa's way to the homes of TV stars and personalities. I really have no idea what many of "the beautiful people" want for Christmas, but I'm always willing to hazard a guess...

Ruth Buzzi

With a little help from the office secretaries, who randomly selected one name from each of our alphabetical "star files," here's what some personalities may be hoping for on Christmas morning:

Beatrice Arthur—Television's liberal "Maude" probably wants some rest after her recent controversy over abortion, marijuana, etc.

Ruth Buzzi—Laugh-In's purse-flinging beauty may have asked Santa for a role in a love scene with Paul Newman.

Johnny Carson—He's undoubtedly requested that he not be asked to appear on Joannie Carson's VIP's Show.

Sandy Duncan—This talented gal has thousands of fans who probably join her in asking for a role that will sustain itself to the public's likings.

Ralph Edwards—Could the "This is Your Life" host be wishing for a life of his own?

Peter Falk—No doubt...the star of "Columbo" needs a clean rain coat. Not that he's necessarily asking for it for Christmas.

Zsa Zsa Gabor—Oh darling, she's asking for the world.

Hal Holbrook—Here's hoping he's asking for a TV series. His portrayal of "The Senator" still ranks among TV's best.

Burl Ives—He's probably asked for a crackerjack lawyer like Walter Nichols, whom he portrayed on "The Bold Ones," to see what can be done about "The Lawyers' cancellation.

Arte Johnson—Whatever this comedian is asking for, it must be v-e-r-r-y interesting...

Don Knotts—A tranquilizer is probably on his list, not that it would help any.

Julie London—Lovely star of "Emergency" may be wondering if a singing nurse will ever be written into the show's script.

Liza Minelli—I hope this super-talented gal is asking for another TV special.

Ozzie & Harriet Nelson—It's been rumored they're anxious to get back to the TV wars...could their wish come true?

Hugh O'Brian—The "Search" star certainly isn't hoping for a ban on electronic bugging devices.

George Peppard—TV's "Banacek" should be hoping for a way to do away with all those Polish jokes.

Harry Reasoner—If our luck is right, this ABC newsman will ask for the opportunity to do more news specials.

Mark Spitz—The Olympic swimming champ is probably hoping for some quick acting lessons now that he's a TV star.

Danny Thomas—This multi-talented star may be hoping that all good Americans have some freeze-dried coffee on Christmas morning. Or is it coffee crystals?

Johnny Unitas—The Baltimore Colts bench doesn't excite this pro quarterback, so he's probably hoping for a network TV announcing post next year. Here's betting he'll get it.

Karen Valentine—Popular "Room 222" actress undoubtedly is asking to be graduated into a more serious role.

Carol Wayne—The attractive "dumb blond" often seen on Carson's "Tonight" Show should be hoping for about the same as Miss Valentine.

Victor Sen Yung—The well-known Hop-Sing of "Bonanza" fame may be asking for a gold-plated frying pan, a token to recall the golden days of this popular show.

Rohlwing To End 20 Years As Town Supervisor

William Rohlwing, Elk Grove Township supervisor for the past 20 years, has announced that he will not run for reelection in April.

"I'm 80 years old. I'm going to retire and just take it easy," said Rohlwing.

Elk Grove Township includes parts of Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines and Rolling Meadows.

Rohlwing himself was a farmer, taking over his father's (John Rohlwing) property when he died in 1900. John Rohlwing also served as township supervisor from 1901-1908. Rohlwing Road (Ite. 53) was named after him.

ROHLWING retired from farming when he sold the land to the Cook County Forest Preserve District and the developers of a shopping center in 1958. He now lives at 901 S. I-Oka, Mount Prospect.

A widower twice, Rohlwing has seven sons, one daughter. He now lives at 901 S. I-Oka, Mount Prospect.

A widower twice, Rohlwing has seven sons, one daughter, 21 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Township supervisor is the second town office that Rohlwing has held. He was town tax collector during the 1930s.

When Rohlwing was first elected to supervisor in 1953 there was no town office. "We used to hold the board meetings at the town clerk's house," said Rohlwing.

The township did get an office in the late 1950s, renting a store in what is now a shopping center. "But all we had in it was an old pot-bellied stove," said Rohlwing.

The present town office, at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., was built in the early 1960's.

William Rohlwing

ROHLWING is the second 20-year veteran of township office who has announced he will not seek reelection. Ronald Bradley, township highway commissioner, has announced his retirement effective Jan. 8.

Alfred Steil has been appointed to fill the balance of Bradley's term. He has said he will run for commissioner in April.

The absence of Rohlwing and Bradley will not be the only changes in township government after the April elections.

Currently the township board consists of a supervisor, three auditors and a voting town clerk. After the election, the board will be changed to a supervisor, four auditors and a non-voting clerk.

All three auditors and the clerk are up for reelection. None have made any formal announcement on a decision to run again.

1 Of 3 School Board Members Is Candidate

Three members of the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 school board are up for reelection in April but only one has decided to run again.

Board Pres. Harry Peterson and Sharrille Hildebrandt have yet to make a decision about running. Judy Zanca has said she will run.

Peterson said he is "still undecided."

Mrs. Hildebrandt said, "I haven't really made up my mind. I had planned on running. Now it is not really that definite."

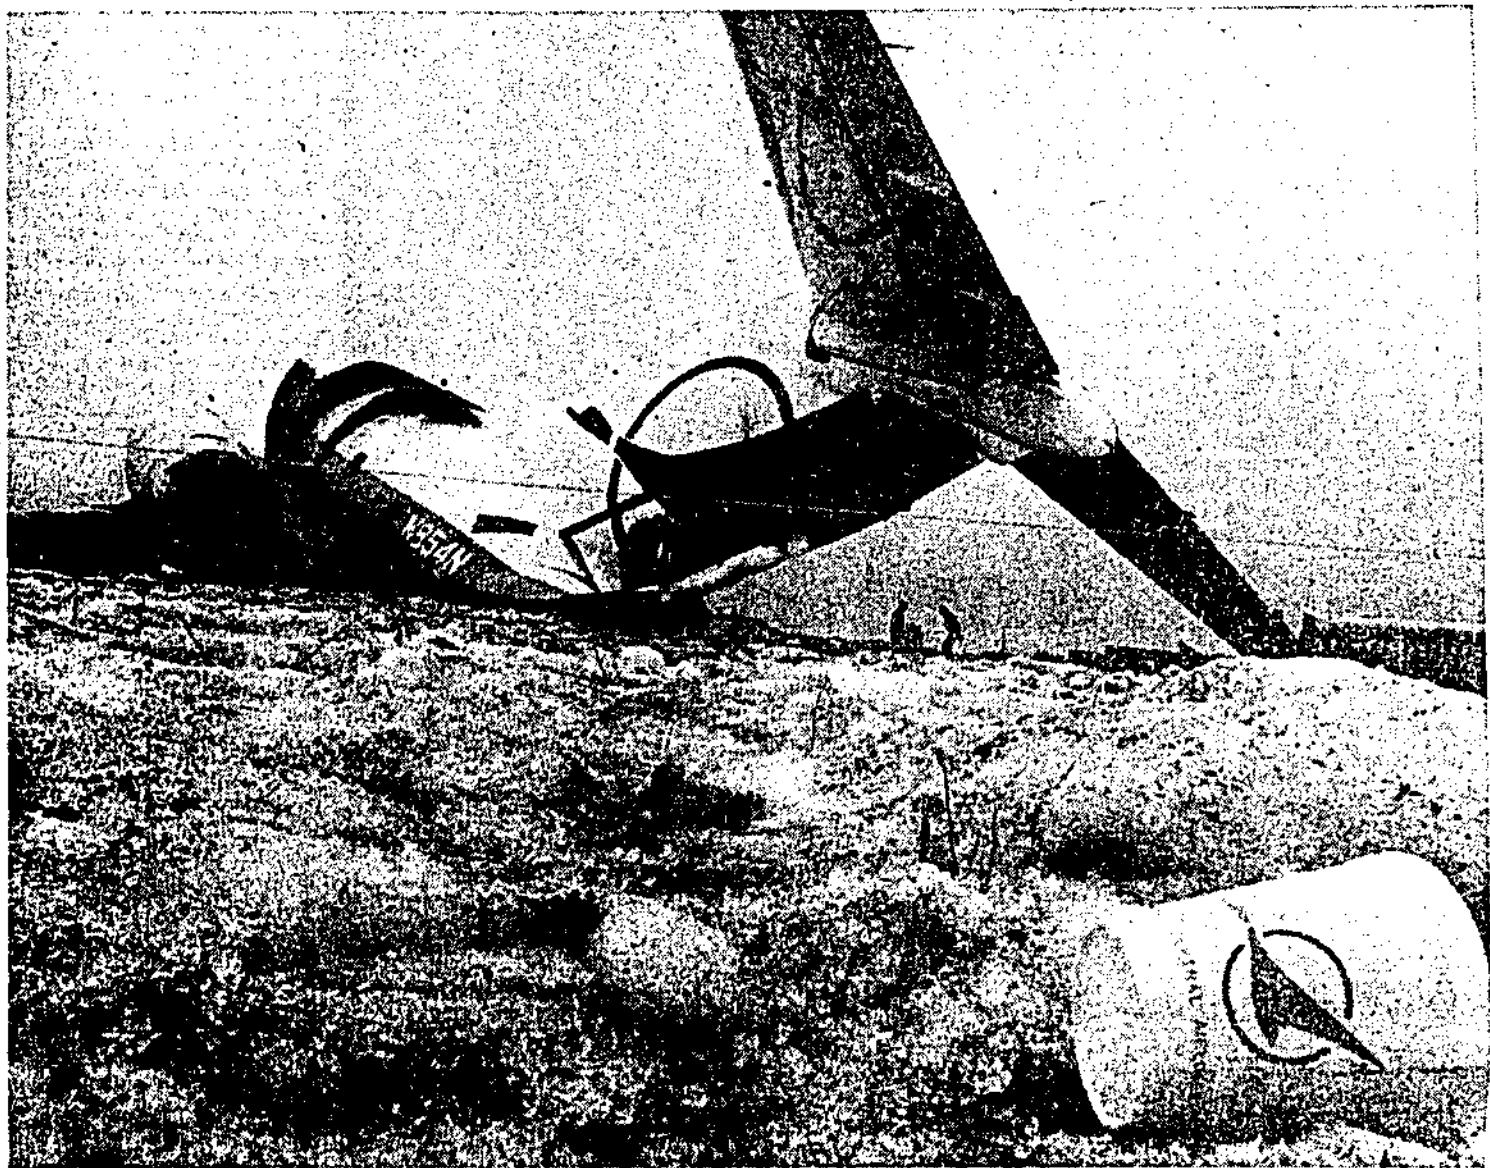

Mrs. Hildebrandt said a possible lack of time for school board activities was the reason for her indecisiveness.

She recently began a part-time job as an administrative assistant at Harper College. She also is finishing course work as a paralegal and plans to work with an attorney.

Mrs. Zanca said she has "no real plans" for a platform yet, but she is going to run. "I'm committed to changing the present trends of the district and have it become more interested in human beings."

All three board positions are three-year terms.

Petitions to run may be obtained at the school district central office, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., after Jan. 29. Petitions must be filed between Feb. 28 and March 23.

Hunks of twisted metal, the acrid smell of aviation fuel, and the nearly indistinguishable fuselage of what had been an airplane was all that remained yesterday at the scene of the North Central Airlines crash at O'Hare Airport.

About one-half mile away, on another runway, a Delta jet sat, minus its tail assembly. There, bigger chunks of airplane were scattered about.

With the exception of about 20 Chicago policemen and a few airport officials, that was the scene at the crash site.

The North Central DC-9 rested with only its tail and nose sections still intact. The cabin section of the plane was completely burned away. Nine of its passengers had died after a collision with the Delta jet in dense fog.

COFFEE CUPS, dinner trays and food carts were scattered about, probably never used on the flight which crashed on takeoff.

given strict orders not to talk about the crash, but they also admitted they knew little more than had been in the newspapers.

A U.S. Post Office security agent stood by, impatiently waiting for clearance to retrieve what might be left of several mail pouches aboard the plane.

"The mail we got off last night was terrible. It smelled like burned flesh," he said.

Neither plane has been moved. They await the federal investigators. The areas around the two planes had been cordoned off Wednesday night.

The police detail stood by on the windswept runway, quietly wishing they had pulled some other assignment.

A Delta maintenance truck was parked near the Delta Convair 880. A few police officers, sitting in an unmarked car, were nearby.

THE INFLATABLE escape chutes, now deflated, hung limply from the doors of the plane. An occasional gust of wind made them waver slightly.

The Delta man said he was waiting for the company's safety board to arrive. He said they apparently had been delayed by the same bad weather that had held up the arrival of other investigators.

The area between the two planes contained more bits of metal. The nose wheel of the North Central plane was about halfway between the two jets, imbedded in a mound of snow.

The point of impact was situated about 100 yards in front of the airport's new control tower, which was completed last summer.

AN O'HARE OFFICIAL who identified himself only as "Angelo," and that had been working straight through the night, said the tower may as well have been a hundred miles away Wednesday night.

"The fog was just too thick to see what was going," he said, noting the crash trucks and fire equipment had some trouble reaching the scene because of the weather.

Yesterday's overcast skies offered slightly better visibility, but the remains of the North Central plane still could not be seen clearly from the point of impact.

Elementary Districts Make Recommendation

It's High Schools' Unit Study Move

Representatives of local elementary school districts are leaving the next step in the unit district question up to the High School Dist. 214 board.

At a meeting Wednesday among officials from Dist. 214 and its feeder districts, elementary school board officials recommended that the high school board conduct any study to be made on the effects of unit districting in the area. Currently a citizens' group in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 is already conducting a study on the effects of a unit district (one that would include grades K-12) in that area.

Arthur Aronson, a Dist. 214 board member, said Wednesday he would forward the recommendation to his board at its meeting Jan. 8. A decision on exactly what the study would entail would have to be made by the board, he said.

SOME SCHOOL representatives at Wednesday's meeting indicated they considered Dist. 214 officials' interest in unit districting little more than a reaction to the activity in Dist. 59.

Mary Jo Reid of Dist. 21 asked rhetorically, "Why now? (should there be a study.) Just because 59 has taken action, are we to be snowballed into action?"

A representative of Dist. 15, Leland Gibbs, said his district had already studied the financial ramifications for his district if Dist. 59 formed a unit district. He, too, indicated that he considered Dist. 214's actions simply a reaction to Dist. 59.

Wednesday's meeting was the first for the group, formed among representatives of Dist. 214 and its feeder districts to consider the unit district matter. Interest in the unit district question from Dist. 214 followed the start of a citizens' unit district study in Dist. 59.

Aronson said, "I don't know if Dist. 214 would have taken action if Dist. 59 had not moved." But, he added that he hoped the unit district question "could be looked at in terms of the best education for the youngsters."

CONCERNING THE STUDY that will be made, H. Robert Powell of Dist. 25 said Dist. 214 should consider two propositions: —conducting a study independently of Dist. 59 and "marshalling its forces" to contend with Dist. 59's actions.

If Dist. 59 were to form its own unit district within its present boundaries, it would take about 40 per cent of Dist. 214's property tax base while taking only about 25 per cent of the Dist. 214 student population.

Dist. 59 Board Pres. Harold Peterson, who said he was at the meeting "as an observer," said Dist. 59 did not expect to have its feasibility study completed until March 1. He said that according to the district's timetable for action, a unit district, if formed, would not become effective until 1974.

Since any unit district proposal must be approved by both the county and state school superintendents, Peterson said, "We feel we will not be permitted to do anything detrimental to other districts."

No date was set for the group's next meeting. Attending Wednesday were representatives from Disls. 21, 23, 25, 57, 59 and 214.

'Don't Open Pal-Waukee Case Again'

by LYNN ASINOF

Pal-Waukee Airport owner George Priester said Tuesday that Wheeling's attempts to reopen the court case between the airport and Cook County may increase the problems of Wheeling residents.

"These people are going to back themselves right into state ownership of this field," Priester said. "Then they will be paying taxes for something they are against. You can be sure that if the state takes over this airstrip it will be used as a reliever (for O'Hare Airport) and the residents of Wheeling will just begin to have problems."

Wheeling Village Atty. Paul Hamer said the village will soon file an appeal to the recent court decision, which ruled that the county and the village have no control over airport operations.

Hamer said the appeal will argue that the court's ruling was invalid because the village had the right to present evidence and should not have been dismissed from the case.

PRIESTER, however, said he saw no reason for the appeal. "I guess Hamer must have nothing to do," he said. "The village has lost twice before and was thrown out of court the last time, but they continue to come after us."

According to Hamer, the substance of the suit is the determination of what governmental agency controls Pal-Waukee's operations. He said that since Pal-Waukee is a private airport, the FAA does not have the control over air traffic patterns or other related areas.

In July, Cook County Circuit Judge Nathan M. Cohen ruled that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has control over all ground movement, flight patterns, landings, takeoffs and the aircraft using Pal-Waukee Airport.

Hamer said that the FAA cannot preempt local authority over the enforcement of the county's special-use permit, which was issued in 1964, for the expansion of airport facilities.

THE PERMIT specifies that the airport runway not exceed 5,000 feet or have a weight-bearing capacity of more than 60,000 pounds. It also stated that visual flight patterns for the runway lie to the east of Wheeling.

The village charges that Pal-Waukee has violated these standards and that the county has the right to enforce them.

Judge Cohen ruled that the runway did not exceed 5,000 feet, although a turnaround area at the end of the runway made it appear longer. He also ruled that the FAA, not the airport, controls which planes land at the airport and where the flight patterns are established.

Priester said increased taxes would be the only possible reason for closing his airport.

"The Village of Wheeling will never be the one to do so, so they should stop wasting the taxpayers money and use it for something that will benefit the community," he said.

"Maybe the citizens should ask the board how much of their tax dollar has been spent in court against Pal-Waukee," Priester added.

Kerner Trial Delay Reportedly Denied

A defense motion for a postponement of the trial of Appeals Court Judge Otto Kerner and former state Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs was denied by U.S. District Court Judge Robert L. Taylor in Knoxville, Tenn., according to sources in Chicago.

Defense attorneys for Kerner and Isaacs had requested the postponement, demanding the government provide more particulars regarding its case against the two men.

The defendants are under indictment on charges of bribery, mail fraud, conspiracy and income tax evasion in connection with the purchase of race track stock while Kerner was governor.

Court sources said Taylor's denial of the defense motion means the trial of Kerner and Isaacs probably will begin Jan. 3 as scheduled.

Many local churches will conduct special Christmas services.

County Spokesmen Deny It...

Cook County administrators of Emergency Employment Act (EEA) funding yesterday denied that salary reimbursements for Hoffman Estates' director of youth services will end before next August.

"As far as we know, it will last until the end of August, just as we said it would," said Edward Reid, a training coordinator of the EEA department at the county's Bureau of Administration.

Reid said there was an apparent misunderstanding with village officials who anticipated reimbursement for the salary of Bryan Syer would be cut off in January or February.

The money comes from the federal government, and Reid said it would continue unless President Richard Nixon orders it stopped. Personnel from the department would contact the village today to clarify the matter, Reid said.

Even if the funding stops, it appears unlikely Syer's position would be eliminated, said George Longmeyer, village manager.

Longmeyer, who was under the impression the funding would end Jan. 15, said he had not received official notice but had inferred from "hearsay" the federal government would discontinue the allocations.

THE VILLAGE first participated in the program in August 1971. Its initial application and approval was for one year. Since then, reimbursement for Syer's salary has been handled with monthly applications and approvals. Longmeyer said he believed allocations for 1972 had not been approved, and the county agency was disbursing funds from excesses in its allocation. These would have resulted from program applicants that either did not actually participate or that dropped out mid-way through the year, he said.

"It is our intention, at this time, as far as I know, to keep Syer, even if the funding is dropped," said Longmeyer. "We feel that the service he provides is needed. It's a worthwhile program, and he appears successful with the program. I don't anticipate the program being scrapped at all."

And even though federal reimbursement cannot be obtained for a second youth counselor, Longmeyer indicated the chances are good the village board will agree to spend village monies to hire one.

"It is my understanding the youth commission will recommend we hire a second youth worker, due to Bryan's work load being so heavy. I can see the need for it. I will probably go along with the youth commission recommendation, because according to what I've observed of Bryan's work load, he's getting swamped," said Longmeyer. He noted, however, the village board must approve the expense.

WHIP Responds: We're An Open Political Party

by LYNN ASINOF

The nominating committee of the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) has responded to charges by former WHIP member Dick Massa. The committee says WHIP is the most open political party in the village.

"If Mr. Massa feels he can find a more open political party in Wheeling, we wish him well," the committee said in a statement. "In our many years as Wheeling residents, we are unaware of any other group which has allowed citizen participation in the selection of candidates."

Massa called WHIP "a closed corporation" after he was denied the opportunity to run from the floor for a place on the party's candidates slate for the upcoming village elections. He withdrew from the party Tuesday, saying the candidates slated by WHIP were unqualified to hold office as they had never participated in local politics before.

The nominating committee said it was satisfied with the candidates. The members said the slate was qualified to run primarily by their honesty, concern for their community, and determination to fairly represent the people, plus their education, business and civic achievements.

ACCORDING TO the committee members, Massa had been under consideration as a possible candidate until early this month when he informed the party he would not run. They said Massa also participated in the planning of the nominating and slating procedures and was fully aware of the party's schedule.

Massa said he had not been informed of the closing deadline to submit applications for candidacy, and said party officials should have kept in closer contact with WHIP members.

The nominating committee denied Massa's request Monday night to postpone the choosing of candidates so he could enter his name in nomination. They said he could not run from the floor because they did not have the time to screen his qualifications.

In their statement, the committee members noted that Massa's "obvious indecision would not be a quality in the eyes of the nominating committee."

At the Monday night caucus, Massa indicated he would consider running as a write-in candidate in the April elections. He later said he would not run because there was not enough time to organize before nominating petitions are due. The first filing date for petitions is Jan. 8.

THE NOMINATING committee said this position was inconsistent with his request to delay choosing WHIP candidates so he could run for a position on the slate.

The committee members noted that the two people who ran for but did not win a position on the WHIP slate have "pledged their support of those who share their concern, rather than resign."

"We hope Mr. Massa does not drop out of village affairs," the committee members added. "Wheeling needs all the interested citizens it can get."

Churches Plan Christmas Services

Buffalo Grove and Wheeling churches are planning special Christmas programs, services and holiday activities.

At St. Mary's Church, Police Chief Harry Walsh will assist at a midnight Mass on Christmas Eve planned as part of a special Christmas program entitled Martyrology. Walsh was recently ordained a permanent deacon in the Catholic Church.

Prior to the midnight service, there will be a concert featuring Christmas music from foreign lands. Several of the children from St. Mary's School are scheduled to participate in the concert, and group singing is also planned.

In addition to the regular 9:30 a.m. service Sunday at Living Christ Lutheran Church, 625 Dundee Rd., two other Christmas Eve services are planned. There will be a candlelight service at 7:30 p.m. and a Holy Communion service at 11 p.m.

NEW YEAR'S EVE services at Living Christ Lutheran Church are set for 9:30 p.m., and there will be a Holy Communion service at 7:30 p.m.

An informal service for families with small children is planned for Christmas Eve at the Kingswood Methodist Church, 401 W. Dundee Rd. Beginning at 7 p.m., there will be a slide program for children, telling the Christmas story. A Holy Communion service is set for 11 p.m.

Special Christmas services were conducted last Sunday at the Twin Grove

Baptist Church, 770 N. Arlington Heights Rd. The 10 a.m. service Sunday will feature a Christmas theme.

On Christmas Eve, St. Joseph the Worker Church, 181 W. Dundee Rd., will have a special Christmas Carol Vigil beginning at 11:45 p.m. Midnight mass will follow the carol ceremony.

Masses on Christmas day and New Year's Day will be according to the regular church schedule at 8:30, 9:30, and 11 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. Confession on Dec. 30 has been changed from 4 to 5 p.m. and from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The Wheeling Evangelical Free Church, 300 S. Schoenbeck Rd., will have a candlelight communion at 5 p.m. Christmas Eve. There will be no special services on Christmas day or New Year's Day, and regular worship services will be at 11 a.m. Sunday during the holiday period.

On New Year's Eve, the Church is having a family night beginning at 6 o'clock. The evening will feature a pot-luck supper and a movie.

The First Baptist Church of Wheeling, Elmhurst Road and Edward Street, will have Christmas Eve Vesper services at 5 p.m. There will be no special services Christmas Day, but regular worship services will be conducted throughout the holidays. The church will have a New Year's Eve service at 7 p.m.

Elementary Districts Recommend Unit Study

Representatives of local elementary school districts are leaving the next step in the unit district question up to the High School Dist. 214 board.

At a meeting Wednesday among officials from Dist. 214 and its feeder districts, elementary school board officials recommended that the high school board conduct any study to be made on the effects of unit districting in the area.

Currently a citizens' group in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 is already conducting a study on the effects of a unit district (one that would include grades K-12) in that area.

Arthur Aronson, a Dist. 214 board member, said Wednesday he would forward the recommendation to his board at its meeting Jan. 8. A decision on exactly what the study would entail would have to be made by the board, he said.

SOME SCHOOL representatives at Wednesday's meeting indicated they considered Dist. 214 officials' interest in unit districting little more than a reaction to the activity in Dist. 59.

Mary Jo Reid of Dist. 21 asked rhetorically, "Why now? (should there be a study) Just because 59 has taken action, are we to be snowballed into action?"

A representative of Dist. 15, Leland Gibbs, said his district had already studied the financial ramifications for his district if Dist. 59 formed a unit district. He, too, indicated that he considered Dist. 214's actions simply a reaction to Dist. 59.

Wednesday's meeting was the first for the group, formed among representatives of Dist. 214 and its feeder districts to consider the unit district matter. Interest in the unit district question from Dist. 214 followed the start of a citizens' unit district study in Dist. 59.

Aronson said, "I don't know if Dist. 214 would have taken action if Dist. 59 had not moved." But, he added that he hoped the unit district question "could be looked at in terms of the best education for the youngsters."

CONCERNING THE STUDY that will be made, H. Robert Powell of Dist. 25 said Dist. 214 should consider two propositions: —conducting a study independently of Dist. 59 and "marshalling its forces" to contend with Dist. 59's actions.

If Dist. 59 were to form its own unit district within its present boundaries, it would take about 40 per cent of Dist. 214's property tax base while taking only about 25 per cent of the Dist. 214 student population.

Dist. 59 Board Pres. Harold Peterson, who said he was at the meeting "as an observer," said Dist. 59 did not expect to have its feasibility study completed until March 1. He said that according to the district's timetable for action, a unit district, if formed, would not become effective until 1971.

Since any unit district proposal must be approved by both the county and state school superintendents, Peterson said, "We feel we will not be permitted to do anything detrimental to other districts."

No date was set for the group's next meeting. Attending Wednesday were representatives from Dist. 21, 23, 25, 57, 59 and 214.

Kerner Trial Delay Reportedly Denied

A defense motion for a postponement of the trial of Appeals Court Judge Otto Kerner and former state Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs was denied by U.S. District Court Judge Robert L. Taylor in Knoxville, Tenn., according to sources in Chicago.

Defense attorneys for Kerner and Isaacs had requested the postponement, demanding the government provide more particulars regarding its case against the two men.

The defendants are under indictment on charges of bribery, mail fraud, conspiracy and income tax evasion in connection with the purchase of race track stock while Kerner was governor.

Court sources said Taylor's denial of the defense motion means the trial of Kerner and Isaacs probably will begin Jan. 3 as scheduled.

New Master Plan Decision Target Date: Early '73

Buffalo Grove Plan Commission chairman Carl Genrich said he is hopeful a decision will be reached on the proposed master plan shortly after the first of the year.

Village plan consultant Robert Grossman presented his seventh alternative future land use map Wednesday to the members of the commission and an audience of about six persons at the regularly scheduled plan commission meeting.

"I think we've sent Bob back to the drawing board about enough," Genrich said after viewing the newest plan. "We've heard from the people and it's about time we made a decision."

Genrich identified what he called three "problem areas" of all the plans appointed members of the commission to study each and make recommendations at the next meeting, set for Jan. 3.

THE THREE points of the plan to be studied are:

—The limits of future growth. The plans currently recommend land uses in the next 20 years for nearly all the available land in Lake County, extending north almost to Mundelein and west to Milwaukee Road.

—The type of development in Lake County. Several Lake County residents have urged that the plan designate the area adjacent to existing single-family neighborhoods as single-family.

—Grossman's suggestions for the densities of each building area. In the seventh plan, the density of single-family areas is set at 32 units per acre. For planned unit developments (PUDs) is set at six units per acre or 10 units per acre, and for multi-family developments, 15 units per acre.

In addition to the density recommendations, Grossman also suggested including specific figures for the number of each housing type that may be included in the PUD ordinance now being developed.

The plan commission committee working on the PUD ordinance is also expected to have a rough draft of the measure at the Jan. 3 meeting.

Trips To Lutheran General Halted By Fire Department

The Buffalo Grove Fire Department has suspended all emergency trips to Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge until further notice. The department has been taking residents to that hospital upon request for the past two years. Normally, runs are to Northwest Community Hospital.

However, because of a recent decision by Lutheran General officials not to supply paramedic teams with equipment used on emergency cases, the department cannot afford to go to that hospital, according to Fire Chief Wayne Winter.

"We can't afford to put the rest of the village residents in jeopardy by not being resupplied for the trip back from the hospital. We did the runs to Lutheran General as a courtesy to the resident. We will not do so until the hospital begins resupplying paramedics," he said.

According to Lutheran General officials, the hospital cannot resupply paramedics because they don't have the supplies. "We are meeting and talking with people every day to discuss the paramedic system. However, at this time we can not resupply the firemen with materials because we don't have them," a spokesman said.

"Every other hospital in the area is working with us, so we continue to go with them," Winter said. "I understand that people at Northwest Community are also working to get Lutheran General to buy the necessary equipment."

DR. STANLEY Zydlo, coordinator of the program at Northwest Community, said he doesn't understand the whole situation. Without naming any specific hospital, he said, "They are not cooperating. They are not resupplying materials and are not cooperating."

Dr. Zydlo reportedly made his statements after a Morton Grove paramedic unit complained of the situation at Lutheran General.

"The decision of departments not to go to a certain hospital is strictly up to the firemen," Dr. Zydlo said. "I am shocked at the entire situation, as the ultimate goal of this program is to care for the sick and injured."

Dr. Zydlo had admitted that if a fire department is not resupplied by the hospitals to which it takes a patient, an ambulance will not be ready for the next run.

Winter added, "We prefer to take our patients to Northwest because that's where the doctors we communicate with are based. However, we never have problems at Holy Family and in the past we have not had problems with Lutheran General. We just want to avoid the problem."

Crash Scene One Of Desolation

by STEVE BROWN

Hunks of twisted metal, the acrid smell of aviation fuel, and the nearly indistinguishable fuselage of what had been an airplane was all that remained yesterday at the scene of the North Central Airlines crash at O'Hare Airport.

About one-half mile away, on another runway, a Delta jet sat, minus its tail assembly. There, bigger chunks of airplane were scattered about.

With the exception of about 20 Chicago policemen and a few airport officials, that was the scene at the crash site.

The North Central DC-9 rested with only its tail and nose sections still intact. The cabin section of the plane was completely burned away. Nine of its passengers had died after a collision with the Delta jet in dense fog.

COFFEE CUPS, dinner trays and food carts were scattered about, probably never used on the flight which crashed on takeoff.

Chicago police said they had been given strict orders not to talk about the crash, but they also admitted they knew little more than had been in the newspapers.

A U.S. Post Office security agent stood by, impatiently waiting for clearance to retrieve what might be left of several mail pouches aboard the plane.

"The mail we got off last night was terrible. It smelled like burned flesh," he said.

Neither plane has been moved. They await the federal investigators. The areas around the two planes had been cordoned off Wednesday night.

The police detail stood by on the windswept runway, quietly wishing they had pulled some other assignment.

A Delta maintenance truck was parked near the Delta Convair 440. A few police officers, sitting in an unmarked car, were nearby.

THE INFLATABLE escape chutes, now deflated, hung limply from the doors of the plane. An occasional gust of wind made them waver slightly.

The Delta man said he was waiting for the company's safety board to arrive. He said they apparently had been delayed by the same bad weather that had held up the arrival of other investigators.

The area between the two planes contained more bits of metal. The nose wheel of the North Central plane was about halfway between the two jets, imbedded in a mound of snow.

The point of impact was situated about 100 yards in front of the airport's new control tower, which was completed last summer.

AN O'HARE OFFICIAL, who identified himself only as "Angelo," and that had been working straight through the night, said the tower may as well have been a hundred miles away Wednesday night.

"The fog was just too thick to see what was going on," he said, noting the crash trucks and fire equipment had some trouble reaching the scene because of the weather.

Yesterday's overcast skies offered slightly better visibility, but the remains of the North Central plane still could not be seen clearly from the point of impact.

William Fremd, Local Educator, Dead At 70

William Fremd, who devoted his life to improving the education of Palatine children, died yesterday morning at Sherman Hospital in Elgin. He was 70 years old.

Mr. Fremd's 44-year service on elementary and secondary school boards in Palatine was cited at his retirement earlier this year as a tenure unmatched in the country.

He helped guide the growth of the Palatine school boards in Palatine was cited at his retirement earlier this year as a tenure unmatched in the country.

He helped guide the growth of the Palatine school system from six one-room buildings in 1928 to 19 buildings — and four area high schools — in 1972.

Mr. Fremd was born and raised in unincorporated Palatine Township, and farmed there until his retirement in 1963.

He is survived by his widow, Edith; a son, Maj. Robert Fremd, stationed at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.; two daughters, Marie Fremd, of Los Angeles, and Mildred Poole, of Palatine; and three grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at J. L. Poole Funeral Home, 23 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine.

The family asks that contributions be made to the William Fremd Memorial Fund, which is being set up with High School Dist. 211.

MR. FREM'D was praised yesterday by area school officials as a dedicated and unselfish public servant.

Supt. Richard Kolze of Dist. 211 said, "We are all terribly saddened by his death. Everybody around here just thought so very highly of Bill. A friend like that will be missed a great deal."

Flags at the district's offices and high schools, including William Fremd High School in Palatine which was named for Mr. Fremd in 1961, were flown at half-mast yesterday, and are to be at half-mast again today.

Gerald A. McElroy, former superintendent of Dist. 211, recalled Mr. Fremd as "a consistent help to all of us in the administration. He was certainly dedicated to the idea of making the schools of Palatine the best in the area."

Joseph M. Kiszka, deputy superintendent of Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, described Mr. Fremd as "respected and admired by everyone in the community. I don't know of anyone who didn't hold him in high esteem. He's just that kind of person."

The school district ordered school flags to be flown at half-mast in his memory. State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, R-Arlington Heights, who sponsored a resolution last spring in the Illinois General Assembly praising Mr. Fremd, cited his "long years of unselfish dedication and devotion to public education."

AT HIS retirement, Mr. Fremd also was honored with a telegram from S. P. Marland, U. S. Commissioner of Education, who said he joined President Nixon in congratulating Mr. Fremd for his "steadfast service to the schools and youth of Palatine."

"Your exceptional contributions in this vital area of public service have earned the gratitude of the people of your community."

Palatine Woman Rape Victim

A Palatine woman was the victim of an alleged abduction and rape shortly after midnight yesterday.

According to the police account, the 22-year-old woman was leaving her residence at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday to go to work when a man approached her and asked her for a ride to a local tavern.

She told police that when she refused, the man pulled a gun and threatened to kill her. With the abductor in the back seat, she drove on Hicks Road to Northwest Highway, then headed west toward Barrington. When they reached the tavern, the assailant reportedly ordered her to pull into the parking lot, where he again threatened her with the gun and raped her.

Following the assault, the man ordered the girl to drive him back to Hicks Road. He got out of the car and the girl said she drove home to her parents.

Palatine police said the girl refused to give any description of her assailant in fear of future harm. An investigation is being made into the incident.

Hunks of twisted metal, the acrid smell of aviation fuel, and the nearly indistinguishable fuselage of what had been an airplane was all that remained yesterday at the scene of the North Central Airlines crash at O'Hare Airport.

About one-half mile away, on another runway, a Delta jet sat, minus its tail assembly. There, bigger chunks of airplane were scattered about.

With the exception of about 20 Chicago policemen and a few airport officials, that was the scene at the crash site.

The North Central DC-9 rested with only its tail and nose sections still intact. The cabin section of the plane was completely burned away. Nine of its passengers had died after a collision with the Delta jet in dense fog.

COFFEE CUPS, dinner trays and food carts were scattered about, probably never used on the flight which crashed on takeoff.

given strict orders not to talk about the crash, but they also admitted they know little more than had been in the newspapers.

A U.S. Post Office security agent stood by, impatiently waiting for clearance to retrieve what might be left of several mail pouches aboard the plane.

"The mail we got off last night was terrible. It smelled like burned flesh," he said.

Neither plane has been moved. They await the federal investigators. The areas around the two planes had been cordoned off Wednesday night.

The police detail stood by on the windswept runway, quietly wishing they had pulled some other assignment.

A Delta maintenance truck was parked near the Delta Convair 880. A few police officers, sitting in an unmarked car, were nearby.

THE INFLATABLE escape chutes, now deflated, hung limply from the doors of the plane. An occasional gust of wind made them waver slightly.

The Delta man said he was waiting for the company's safety board to arrive. He said they apparently had been delayed by the same bad weather that had held up the arrival of other investigators.

The area between the two planes contained more bits of metal. The nose wheel of the North Central plane was about halfway between the two jets, imbedded in a mound of snow.

The point of impact was situated about 100 yards in front of the airport's new control tower, which was completed last summer.

AN O'HARE OFFICIAL who identified himself only as "Angelo" and that had been working straight through the night, said the tower may as well have been a hundred miles away Wednesday night.

"The fog was just too thick to see what was going," he said, noting the crash trucks and fire equipment had some trouble reaching the scene because of the weather.

Yesterday's overcast skies offered slightly better visibility, but the remains of the North Central plane still could not be seen clearly from the point of impact.

Library Board Members To Run As Team In April

Michael F. Foley

Judith Gamoran

Dorothea Gilpin

Gerald A. McElroy

Four Palatine Library Board members whose terms are expiring this year are uniting to run as a team in the April 17 election.

Only one of the four, Dorothea Gilpin, was actually elected to the board. The other incumbents, Judith Gamoran, Gerald A. McElroy and Michael F. Foley, were appointed within the past 15 months to fill board vacancies created by resignations.

Petitions for the posts are available now at village hall, 54 S. Brockway St. Filing dates run from Jan. 8 through Feb. 12. Candidates must be registered voters living in Palatine, and their filing petition must include signatures of 50 Palatine voters.

McELROY, MRS. GILPIN and Mrs. Gamoran will be running for six-year terms. Foley will be aiming for four years, which is the unexpired term of the previous board member.

Breaking a precedent set in the past three elections, the local Republican organization will not be endorsing any library board candidates this year.

"We put it to the captains and they voted no," committeeman Bernard Pedersen said yesterday. "I wouldn't want to hazard a guess why it went that way," he added.

Library candidates are legally required to run on a non-partisan ticket, but local political parties may endorse candidates in the election. In the last race, a three-man ticket endorsed by the Republican party narrowly won the Palatine race over Mrs. Gamoran, who entered the race as an independent.

When a vacancy occurred last year, Mrs. Gamoran was appointed to fill the position.

McELROY CAME TO THE board last summer, and Foley, the newest member, started two months ago.

In the past several elections, library board candidates have usually run unopposed. This year's race will involve over half of the entire seven-man board of directors. Continuing board members are Mabel Ellering, Francis A. Regan and Robert H. Jensen.

Meetings are being planned to prepare for the upcoming library campaign by the four board members.

Land purchase for a new library has taken most of the board's energies in recent months. A resolution to buy a 1½-acre site south of Northwest Highway on Benton Street is being considered by the village trustees now, after library board members settled on the location.

munity and all who are concerned with the welfare of American education."

Mr. Fremd, born July 12, 1902, attended a one-room school house in Palatine and one of the new rural high schools in the state, graduating in 1920.

He became involved in the running of schools in 1928, when he happened to attend a board election meeting. "I was sitting in the back of the room minding my own business when someone nominated me for the board," he recalled in an interview last spring. "The next thing I knew, I was elected."

Mr. Fremd served on the elementary school board until 1946, and was instrumental in the consolidation of area school districts into what is now known as Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

He was elected to the Dist. 15 board of education in 1946, and served until 1957.

Caroling Called Off

Lack of response has caused cancellation of Palatine Park District Christmas caroling program originally set for 6:30 Saturday evening.

Park district employees said no one had asked about the event as of yesterday, so the event was called off.

63 Offer Blood In Local Drive; 292 January Goal

Some 63 persons have volunteered to do their share in the Palatine blood drive.

Organizers of the drive are hoping to find 292 donors for the first drawing, which is scheduled for Jan. 13 at Palatine High School.

Wayne Browning, chairman of the blood drive committee, said most of the 63 volunteers signed up individually.

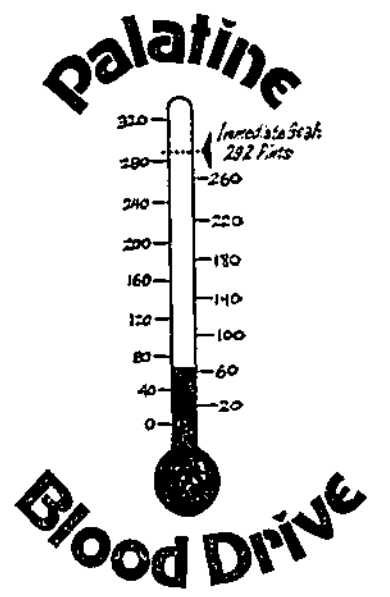

The number of volunteers is expected to swell within a week or two after six local groups have completed drives of their own to recruit donors.

The overall goal is 1,200 pints of blood, or 4 per cent of the Palatine residents, in five drawings set up throughout 1973.

If 1,200 residents donate a pint of blood each, every resident would be able to obtain an unlimited supply of blood for one year.

Potential donors must be between 18 and 65 years of age and in good health.

Residents interested in donating blood are asked to call the village health department, 358-7555.

Tennis Courts Requested

The developers of a proposed 42-unit condominium project next to the Palatine Park District's golf course may have to contribute two tennis courts to the district in exchange for use of the golf course access road.

Representatives of the park district this week suggested that Bernard J. Clark and Associates construct two tennis courts next to the four already at the Palatine Hills Golf Course recreation area for use of park district residents.

Without such a contribution, Park Board Pres. Paul W. Jensen contended at a plan commission meeting, the developers would be taking unfair advantages of the park facilities.

The developers had not planned to provide any recreational facilities with the condominiums on a 4.8-acre site known as the Talbot Ranch property, but residents of the complex would be able to use the nearby park district facilities.

THE DEVELOPERS said they would consider making a monetary contribution to the park district for two tennis courts.

They also will consider a recommendation by the park district to deepen the proposed lake-retention basin on the Talbot property, and to stock it with fish.

The developers need the approval of the park district in order to secure village approval for Cobblestone Court.

The developers hope to use the access road that leads from Northwest Highway to the golf course as an entranceway to their property. Park district officials have not been enthusiastic about the proposal.

The developers' offer to widen and improve the road, along with a contribution to build tennis courts, may be enough to get the park district's endorsement of the complex.

The plan commission is to further consider the annexation petition in January. Its recommendation will go to the village board for final action.

Cracker Barrel

SOME SCROOGE took it out on Palatine Mayor Jack Moodie's car during this week's village board meeting. After driving a few miles, both right tires went flat apparently having been slashed. Two new tires have been added to Moodie's Christmas wish list, plus more good will toward men and the mayor.

PARTY TIME. The annual Christmas party at Uncle Andy's, by accident or intent, happened to be just before the village board meeting this week. Trustee Fred Zajonc managed to break away soon enough to arrive late for a committee meeting before the board meeting, but trustee Terry Leighty never did make it. He arrived about 15 minutes late for the meeting, exchanging knowing looks with the other red-checked board members.

Blood Bank Plan Feasibility Study To Be Conducted

The Rolling Meadows Board of Health will conduct a feasibility study soon to determine community interest in joining a blood bank program, Board of health Pres. Kenneth Johnson said yesterday.

The survey has been requested by several aldermen, he said. "Some of the aldermen would like to have this done to see if there is interest in the city for it," he said of the survey.

Johnson said city employees will be contacted first. "Based on the findings from the rest of the city," he added. Since a survey of the entire city would involve much more effort, a separate committee would have to be appointed to do the job, Johnson said.

Participation in a blood bank program was first discussed in October when the board heard a presentation from Red Cross representative Karen Gaddis on that organization's program.

The Red Cross program provides unlimited blood to members whenever necessary in the period of one year. Membership requires that four units of blood per 100 members of a participating organization be donated yearly. If the city were to join the program, it would be required to donate 768 units of blood.

SHORTLY AFTER the presentation was made to the board, however, Johnson announced that the board was not interested in recommending city participation in any particular program at that time. Since individuals could join such programs through plans offered by other organizations, Johnson said the board's feeling was that the choice should be left up to the individual.

The board had permitted the Red Cross presentation, Johnson said at the time as a courtesy since representatives of the Beverly Blood Center Inc., in Chicago had made a similar appearance before the board several months earlier.

Some controversy had arisen over participation in the Red Cross program following a decision by the Palatine village board to join the program. Northwest Community Hospital public relations director Jack Ryan said participation in the plan could cause a blood shortage at the hospital, since the hospital gets blood from the North Suburban Blood Center.

The hospital preferred not to use Red Cross blood, Ryan said, because the donor's background is difficult to determine. Johnson said yesterday the board cannot make a decision to join any program. "We will only recommend to the city council, and to do that we will need the fact-finding study," he said. He said if the board finds there is a need or desire for such a program, it will tell the council so.

Two Arrested For Narcotics

Two persons were arrested late yesterday in narcotics raid at the Algonquin apartments in Rolling Meadows.

Charged were Ellen Liles, 20, 2410 Algonquin, Apartment 11, and Robert J. Witek, 21, of the same address. Rolling Meadows Detective Charles Smith and Sgt. Tim Lonergan made the raid on a search warrant issued yesterday. Undercover narcotics agents assisted.

Police said they found hypodermic needles and two pounds of marijuana in the apartment.

It was the second narcotics raid in as many weeks at the Algonquin Apartments. A raid two weeks ago resulted in the arrest of three persons charged with possession of narcotics and dangerous drugs. A quantity of heroin and hypodermic needles were found in that incident.

Offices To Close For Christmas

Local government offices, park facilities, and schools will be closed Monday in observance of Christmas. The Rolling Meadows City Hall will be closed Monday, although township, county, and state offices will be closed Saturday through Monday.

The Rolling Meadows Park District administration office will be closed at noon today and will not reopen until Tuesday. The sports complex will be open today and tomorrow but will close at 5 p.m. Sunday and all day Monday. The schedule for public skating from Tuesday through Friday next week will also be changed from the usual 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. hours to 1 to 5:30 p.m.

The Salt Creek Park District office will be closed Monday.

Palatine-Rolling Meadows School Dist. 15 will hold no classes from Monday through Jan. 1. School will reopen Tuesday, Jan. 2.

Postal deliveries will be made Saturday, but no deliveries will be made Monday.

No Paper Monday

There will be no Herald published Monday, Christmas Day. Publication will resume Tuesday.

Herald offices at 217 W. Campbell and 111 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights, will be closed all day tomorrow and all day Christmas Day.

Elementary Districts Recommend Unit Study

Representatives of local elementary school districts are leaving the next step in the unit district question up to the High School Dist. 214 board.

At a meeting Wednesday among officials from Dist. 214 and its feeder districts, elementary school board officials recommended that the high school board conduct any study to be made on the effects of unit districting in the area.

Currently a citizens' group in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 is already conducting a study on the effects of a unit district (one that would include grades K-12) in that area.

Arthur Aronson, a Dist. 214 board member, said Wednesday he would forward the recommendation to his board at its meeting Jan. 8. A decision on exactly what the study would entail would have to be made by the board, he said.

SOME SCHOOL representatives at Wednesday's meeting indicated they considered Dist. 214 officials' interest in unit districting little more than a reaction to the activity in Dist. 59.

Mary Jo Reid of Dist. 21 asked rhetorically, "Why now? (should there be a study.) Just because 59 has taken action, are we to be snowballed into action?"

A representative of Dist. 15, Leland Gibbs, said his district had already studied the financial ramifications for his district if Dist. 59 formed a unit district. He, too, indicated that he considered Dist. 214's actions simply a reaction to Dist. 59.

Wednesday's meeting was the first for the group, formed among representatives of Dist. 214 and its feeder districts to consider the unit district matter. Interest in the unit district question from Dist. 214 followed the start of a citizens' unit district study in Dist. 59.

Aronson said, "I don't know if Dist. 214 would have taken action if Dist. 59 had not moved." But, he added that he hoped the unit district question "could be looked at in terms of the best education for the youngsters."

CONCERNING THE STUDY that will be made, H. Robert Powell of Dist. 25 said Dist. 214 should consider two proposals: —conducting a study independently of Dist. 59 and "marshalling its forces" to contend with Dist. 59's actions.

If Dist. 59 were to form its own unit district within its present boundaries, it would take about 40 per cent of Dist. 214's property tax base while taking only about 25 per cent of the Dist. 214 student population.

Dist. 59 Board Pres. Harold Peterson, who said he was at the meeting "as an observer," said Dist. 59 did not expect to have its feasibility study completed until March 1. He said that according to the district's timetable for action, a unit district, if formed, would not become effective until 1974.

Since any unit district proposal must be approved by both the county and state school superintendents, Peterson said, "We feel we will not be permitted to do anything detrimental to other districts."

No date was set for the group's next meeting. Attending Wednesday were representatives from Dist. 21, 23, 25, 57, 59 and 214.

William Fremd Dead At 70

William Fremd, who devoted his life to improving the education of Palatine children, died yesterday morning at Sherman Hospital in Elgin. He was 70 years old.

Mr. Fremd's 44-year service on elementary and secondary school boards in Palatine was cited at his retirement earlier this year as a tenure unmatched in the country.

He helped guide the growth of the Palatine school boards in Palatine was cited at his retirement earlier this year as a tenure unmatched in the country.

He helped guide the growth of the Palatine school system from six one-room buildings in 1928 to 19 buildings — and four area high schools — in 1972.

Mr. Fremd was born and raised in unincorporated Palatine Township, and farmed there until his retirement in 1963.

He is survived by his widow, Edith; a son, Maj Robert Fremd, stationed at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.; two daughters, Marie Fremd, of Los Angeles, and Mildred Poole, of Palatine; and three grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at J. L. Poole Funeral Home, 25 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine.

The family asks that contributions be made to the William Fremd Memorial Fund, which is being set up with High School Dist. 211.

MR. FREMDE was praised yesterday by area school officials as a dedicated and unselfish public servant.

Supt. Richard Kolze of Dist. 211 said, "We are all terribly saddened by his death. Everybody around here just thought so very highly of Bill. A friend like that will be missed a great deal."

Flags at the district's offices and high schools, including William Fremd High School in Palatine which was named for Mr. Fremd in 1961, were flown at half-mast yesterday, and are to be at half-mast again today.

Gerald A. McElroy, former superintendent of Dist. 211, recalled Mr. Fremd as "a consistent help to all of us in the administration. He was certainly dedicated to the idea of making the schools of Palatine the best in the area."

Joseph M. Kiszka, deputy superintendent of Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, described Mr. Fremd as "respected and admired by everyone in the community. I don't know of anyone who didn't hold him in high esteem. He's just that kind of person."

The school district ordered school flags to be flown at half-mast in his memory. State Rep. Eugene S. Chapman, R-Arlington Heights, who sponsored a resolution last spring in the Illinois General Assembly praising Mr. Fremd, cited his "long years of unselfish dedication and devotion to public education."

AT HIS retirement, Mr. Fremd also was honored with a telegram from S. P. Marland, U. S. Commissioner of Education, who said he joined President Nixon in congratulating Mr. Fremd for his "steadfast service to the schools and youth of Palatine."

"Your exceptional contributions in this vital area of public service have earned the gratitude of the people of your community and all who are concerned with the welfare of American education."

Mr. Fremd, born July 12, 1902, attended a one-room school house in Palatine and one of the new rural high schools in the state, graduating in 1920.

He became involved in the running of schools in 1928, when he happened to attend a board election meeting. "I was sitting in the back of the room minding my own business when someone nominated me for the board," he recalled in an interview last spring. "The next thing I knew, I was elected."

Mr. Fremd served on the elementary school board until 1946, and was instrumental in the consolidation of area school districts into what is now known as Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

He was elected to the Dist. 15 board of education in 1946, and served until 1957.

MEANWHILE, he also served on the High School Dist. 211 board of education, from 1937 to April of this year. During his 35-year term, he served on 10 separate occasions as president of the school board, and numerous other times as secretary. He rarely missed a board meeting.

Turning Point Looms In Howie-In-Hills Controversy

by NANCY COWGER

Wednesday night will be the turning point in deciding the future of the Howie-In-The-Hills site in Hoffman Estates, George Longmeyer, Hoffman Estates village manager, predicted yesterday.

Longmeyer said the village board will meet in executive session Wednesday with representatives of Meridian Investment and Development Co. and the federal receivership now holding title to the land. Executive sessions may be closed to the public, and are permitted under the State Open Meetings Act for discussion of legal suits.

The meeting could signify the end of a $1.7 million legal suit against the village, or could mean the suit will be pursued in county and federal courts.

"I don't know whether it will wrap it up, but I will say this — it will be a major meeting point. It will either go one way or the other" as a result of Wednesday's meeting, said Longmeyer, who will attend the session.

"The receiver will be there, so obviously we still have the litigation and lawsuits and everything," he added, indicating final agreement may not yet have been reached on all points of negotiations over development of the land.

LONGMEYER ALSO indicated that Village Atty. Edward Hofert probably will make a statement on the results of the meeting Thursday morning.

The village, Meridian and the receivers are working for settlement of a string of lawsuits centering on the Howie property, which is a 497-acre site north of the Winston Knolls Subdivision and along both sides of Palatine Road.

Also involved in the suits are the Teamsters Union Pension Fund and a group of investors who purchased bonds to finance public improvements at the site prior to its assignment to the receivership.

The suit against the village, filed by the bondholders, charges former local officials with fraud in winning court approval on a special assessment to finance those same public improvements.

THE RECEIVERSHIP, was appointed by William Campbell, former federal judge, in 1964, when City Savings Association of Chicago, which held title to the site, went bankrupt. Campbell this summer ordered sale of the property, to liquidate the association's assets and partially repay association depositors. Meridian was highest bidder on the site.

The sale was dependent upon Meridian's receiving clear title to the land, and obtaining the zoning it desired from the village. Settlement of the suits would clear the title.

Zoning is the village's bargaining lever in settlement negotiations. Hofert has said he would not accept a settlement that left the village with any responsibilities other than granting zoning.

Meridian first presented its development plan to the village Oct. 3, and since then the village has had it under review by its own staff and by consultants, to determine impact on the village and services the village would be required to provide.

THE VILLAGE'S Plan Commission chairman, Richard Regan, said yesterday he had received final reports on the impact studies Dec. 13. He and Hofert have consistently said the village will not act on the development plan until full details have been disclosed in plan commission hearings before the public. The details, however, have been kept secret pending successful completion of negotiations.

Regan said yesterday he had received no specific instructions on when to schedule the hearings, although he has been asked to review the impact reports.

Hofert two weeks ago predicted the hearings could be held in late January or early February.

Former Cop Arrested On Hit-And-Run

A former Cook County sheriff's policeman wanted on a hit and run property damage charge by the county was arrested yesterday by Rolling Meadows police.

Police apprehended Donald Willie, 26, in Fairfax Village after receiving an all points alert from the sheriff's police. Police said Willie was going about 55 miles per hour westbound on Kirchoff Road when a short chase began and ended in Fairfax Village.

Willie had been wanted by the sheriff's police concerning a hit and run incident that took place Tuesday in the Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles. Willie is believed to have struck an auto there.

Police said Willie told them he is a former sheriff's policeman and had recently moved in to his parent's home in Fairfax Village. Rolling Meadows police charged him with speeding, driving under the influence of alcohol, and driving without a license yesterday.

He was released on $500 bond by Rolling Meadows police with a court date set for Jan. 30. Willie was then turned over to the sheriff's police for arraignment on the hit and run charge.

ABSENT-MINDED PROFESSOR? A College professor from Palatine called Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case yesterday to report the loss of his briefcase in the vicinity of Euclid and Plum Grove Road. It seems the professor set the case on top of his car as he got in the vehicle yesterday morning and drove with the case atop the car without realizing it. Police said the man thought snow fell off his car at the intersection until he realized later it was probably the case.

The problem is the case was filled with test papers and final grades of students. If the case is not returned to Rolling Meadows or Palatine police, the professor told Case, "you know what will happen; all the kids will tell me they got 100 on their exams."

Rohlwing To End 20 Years As Town Supervisor

William Rohlwing, Elk Grove Township supervisor for the past 20 years, has announced that he will not run for reelection in April.

"I'm 80 years old. I'm going to retire and just take it easy," said Rohlwing.

Elk Grove Township includes parts of Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines and Rolling Meadows.

Rohlwing himself was a farmer, taking over his father's (John Rohlwing) property when he died in 1908. John Rohlwing also served as township supervisor from 1901-1908. Rohlwing Road (Rte. 53) was named after him.

Rohlwing retired from farming when he sold the land to the Cook County Forest Preserve District and the developers of a shopping center in 1958. He now lives at 901 S. I-Oka, Mount Prospect.

A widower twice, Rohlwing has seven sons, one daughter. He now lives at 901 S. I-Oka, Mount Prospect.

A widower twice, Rohlwing has seven sons, one daughter, 21 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Township supervisor is the second town office that Rohlwing has held. He was town tax collector during the 1930s.

When Rohlwing was first elected to supervisor in 1953 there was no town office.

"We used to hold the board meetings at the town clerk's house," said Rohlwing.

The township did get an office in the late 1950s, renting a store in what is now a shopping center. "But all we had in it was an old pot-bellied stove," said Rohlwing.

The present town office, at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., was built in the early 1960's.

ROHLWING is the second 20-year veteran of township office who has announced he will not seek reelection. Ronald Bradley, township highway commissioner, has announced his retirement effective Jan. 8.

Alfred Steil has been appointed to fill the balance of Bradley's term. He has said he will run for commissioner in April.

The absence of Rohlwing and Bradley will not be the only changes in township government after the April elections.

Currently the township board consists of a supervisor, three auditors and a voting town clerk. After the election, the board will be changed to a supervisor, four auditors and a non-voting clerk.

All three auditors and the clerk are up for reelection. None have made any formal announcement on a decision to run again.

Stop Polluting Sewers: MSD

The Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) board issued an order yesterday demanding that Citizens Utility Co. "cease and desist" from polluting storm sewer systems with sewage in the New Town area of Mount Prospect.

Earlier yesterday an MSD committee recommended that the board issue the order which in part calls for Citizens to immediately stop "discharge of pollutants from the Prospect Heights Service Area into the waters under jurisdiction of the MSD."

If Citizens should fail to comply with the order, the attorney for the MSD is under instructions to obtain a court injunction to stop the discharge of sewage wastes into the storm system. A fine of at least $100 and up to $1,000 per day could be levied for violation of the MSD order.

TWO SPECIFIC illegal connections were mentioned in the order. They are a catch basin on the north side of Greenwood Drive in the block between Greenfield and Crabtree lanes and a second catch basin at the southwest corner of Willow Road and Park Drive.

A third illegal connection was mentioned by the committee but not included in the order. Instead a citation has been issued. This is where a sewer runs over the Fochanville Ditch near the Soo Line R.R. tracks. The outlet dumps sewage into the ditch, according to MSD officials.

Harper College Trustee Selected

An Arlington Heights resident, William A. Kelly, of 317 S. Stratford Rd., was selected last night to serve on the Harper College Board of Trustees.

However, formal approval of the appointment was deferred until the January board meeting, as Eugene Nugent of Palatine has not yet formally submitted a letter of resignation to the board.

College officials termed it a procedural delay. Nugent is moving from Palatine to Cleveland, Ohio, next month.

Kelly, 53, is an attorney from the law firm of Kell and Conerty of Woodstock, which specializes in product liability and environmental law.

Kelly has received a law degree from DePaul University in 1970 and is also a registered professional engineer in Illinois.

by STEVE BROWN

Hunks of twisted metal, the acrid smell of aviation fuel, and the nearly indistinguishable fuselage of what had been an airplane was all that remained yesterday at the scene of the North Central Airlines crash at O'Hare Airport.

About one-half mile away, on another runway, a Delta jet sat, minus its tail assembly. There, bigger chunks of airplane were scattered about.

With the exception of about 20 Chicago policemen and a few airport officials, that was the scene at the crash site.

The North Central DC-9 rested with only its tail and nose sections still intact. The cabin section of the plane was completely burned away. Nine of its passengers had died after a collision with the Delta jet in dense fog.

COFFEE CUPS, dinner trays and food carts were scattered about, probably never used on the flight which crashed on takeoff.

Chicago police said they had been given strict orders not to talk about the crash, but they also admitted they knew little more than had been in the newspapers.

A U.S. Post Office security agent stood by, impatiently waiting for clearance to retrieve what might be left of several mail pouches aboard the plane.

"The mail we got off last night was terrible. It smelled like burned flesh," he said.

Neither plane has been moved. They await the federal investigators. The areas around the two planes had been cordoned off Wednesday night.

The police detail stood by on the windswept runway, quietly wishing they had pulled some other assignment.

A Delta maintenance truck was parked near the Delta Convair 880. A few police officers, sitting in an unmarked car, were nearby.

THE INFLATABLE escape chutes, now deflated, hung limply from the doors of the plane. An occasional gust of wind made them waver slightly.

The Delta man said he was waiting for the company's safety board to arrive. He said they apparently had been delayed by the same bad weather that had held up the arrival of other investigators.

The area between the two planes contained more bits of metal. The nose wheel of the North Central plane was about halfway between the two jets, imbedded in a mound of snow.

The point of impact was situated about 100 yards in front of the airport's new control tower, which was completed last summer.

AN O'HARE OFFICIAL who identified himself only as "Angelo," and that had been working straight through the night, said the tower may as well have been a hundred miles away Wednesday night.

"The fog was just too thick to see what was going," he said, noting the crash trucks and fire equipment had some trouble reaching the scene because of the weather.

Yesterday's overcast skies offered slightly better visibility, but the remains of the North Central plane still could not be seen clearly from the point of impact.

One of our family's favorite Christmas holiday outings each year is a trip to a "Christmas Around the World" program at the Museum of Science and Industry. Each year we pick a different country, then enjoy sampling its special foods and learning about its holiday customs.

However, it isn't necessary to go to Chicago to learn about Christmas elsewhere. You may only have to go down the block or next door. One of the fascinating things about the Chicago area is the diversified backgrounds of its people.

If Juergen and Barbara Roennau were still in Germany, for instance, they'd have a fat blue carp blopping about their bathtub today. For their first few family Christmases, which they spent in Germany, Barbara carried a live carp home from the fish store in a pail. By Christmas Eve, the fat fellow was ready for cooking. Salt and vinegar in the boiling water turned him the traditional blue.

ALTHOUGH THEY no longer have blue carp for Christmas Eve dinner, the Roennaus have preserved many of the traditions Juergen grew up with in Germany.

On the first Sunday in Advent, a manger is displayed, with straw, oxen, and an ass. The following Sunday sheep and shepherds are added. A week later the wise men and Joseph appear. Next comes Mary. And on Christmas Eve the baby Jesus is put in place.

Ring of the Christmas bell signals German children that the Christ child has arrived with their gifts. They scamper in for their first look at the decorated Christmas tree.

"Our Christmas is kind of a hodge-podge," said Barbara. "The children like the idea of Santa Claus, so he brings the gifts to our house." Tina, Steve, Tricia, and Pammy also help trim the tree earlier that day with apples, cookies, candy, and handmade ornaments. A real German tree would also be ablaze with real candles.

"As time goes on, our tree gets a little bare," said Barbara, "but I have replacements for the candy and cookies that are eaten."

While she has been busy baking lebkuchen (honey cookies) and other German goodies, a few blocks away Vonnie Wengen has been turning out lefse, a flaky Norwegian pastry; julekage, a Christmas bread with candied fruits; and sandbakkelse, and sattemand, other Scandinavian pastries.

THIS YEAR she has had some expert help with the holiday baking. Her mother, Mildred Nelson of Evansville, Minn., is spending this month with the Wengens.

Vonnies and Warren will celebrate Little Jule Aften (Little Christmas evening) tomorrow with Sandy and Tom Johnson and their family, also Mount Prospect residents. Sandy is Warren's sister. The traditional Swedish dinner features oyster stew, wine, and Scandinavian pastries. Afterwards the children each open one Christmas gift.

Lutefisk will be the main attraction at the family's annual Christmas Eve dinner. This dried fish soaks in a salt water solution for several days before it is cooked and served with drawn butter. Other special Scandinavian dishes will be sylta, Swedish head cheese; potatisse kurve, a sort of spiced meat and potato sausage; and Swedish meatballs.

Following dinner, the family will open Christmas gifts, read the Christmas story from the Bible, and sing carols.

That night Santa Claus visits, so Cindy, 4, and Lisa, 6, will wake up Christmas morning to stockings full of small surprises.

Whether "Froehliche Weihnachten," "Glad Jul," or some other greeting is appropriate for your family, here's wishing all of you a very Merry Christmas and happy holiday season.

Fire District Land Hearing

A preliminary hearing on a condemnation suit filed by the Prospect Heights Fire Protection District to obtain land for a fire station addition has been set for Jan. 30.

The suit, filed in Cook County Circuit

Court last July, is seeking condemnation of land directly east of the current fire station near the corner of Camp McDonald and Elmhurst roads. The hearing has been set for 10 a.m. in the Chicago Civic Center.

"It is conceivable the case could go to trial that day. But more likely it will be heard about 30 days after," said Bob Venit, attorney for the fire district. He said he expects a decision on the case by spring.

Firemen want the land, owned by Robert and Phyllis J. Cook, for expansion of the current station. Trustees have been negotiating for purchase of the property since May, 1971 when voters passed a $275,000 bond referendum for an addition, remodeling of the station and more equipment.

The start of hearings on the case does not rule out an out-of-court settlement, Venit said. "If the owners want to settle they can do that anytime," he said. The fire district has made an appraisal of the land but trustees will not reveal the results.

Bah! Humbug!

Some last-minute thievery Wednesday night will probably make for an unhappy Christmas at the Angela Loukas home in Morton Grove.

Mrs. Loukas was shopping at the Randhurst Center between 6 and 7:45 p.m. Wednesday when someone broke into her car and stole about $100 worth of Christmas presents. The stolen items included records, boxes of cookies and candy, a floor pillow, gloves, cards and some wrapping paper.

Residents of Wheeling will just begin to have problems.

Wheeling Village Atty. Paul Homer said the village will soon file an appeal to the recent court decision, which ruled that the county and the village have no control over airport operations.

Hamer said the appeal will argue that the court's ruling was invalid because the village had the right to present evidence and should not have been dismissed from the case.

PRIESTER, however, said he saw no reason for the appeal. "I guess Hamer must have nothing to do," he said. "The village has lost twice before and was thrown out of court the last time, but they continue to come after us."

According to Hamer, the substance of the suit is the determination of what governmental agency controls Pal-Waukee's operations. He said that since Pal-Waukee is a private airport, the FAA does not have the control over air traffic patterns or other related areas.

In July, Cook County Circuit Judge Nathan M. Cohen ruled that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has control over all ground movement, flight patterns, landings, takeoffs and the aircraft using Pal-Waukee Airport.

Hamer said that the FAA cannot pre-

A TWO-CAR COLLISION at about 9:30 a.m. yesterday at River and Euclid roads in Mount Prospect resulted in injuries to three persons. The driver of one of the cars, Gregory Strachnow, 56, of Des Plaines, was reported in fair condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines. The driver of the second car, Marle Long, 25, of 1080 Wheeling Rd., and a passenger, Victoria Benedict, 25, of 1016 Boxwood Dr., both of Mount Prospect, were treated and released. Police charged Strachnow with disobeying a red light.

Elementary Districts Make Recommendation

It's High Schools' Unit Study Move

Representatives of local elementary school districts are leaving the next step in the unit district question up to the High School Dist. 214 board.

At a meeting Wednesday among officials from Dist. 214 and its feeder districts, elementary school board officials recommended that the high school board conduct any study to be made on the effects of unit districting in the area.

Currently a citizens' group in Elk

Grove Township Dist. 59 is already conducting a study on the effects of a unit district (one that would include grades K-12) in that area.

Arthur Aronson, a Dist. 214 board member, said Wednesday he would forward the recommendation to his board at its meeting Jan. 8. A decision on exactly what the study would entail would have to be made by the board, he said.

SOME SCHOOL representatives at Wednesday's meeting indicated they considered Dist. 214 officials' interest in unit districting little more than a reaction to the activity in Dist. 59.

Mary Jo Reid of Dist. 21 asked rhetorically, "Why now? (should there be a study.) Just because 59 has taken action, are we to be snowballed into action?"

A representative of Dist. 15, Leland Gibbs, said his district had already studied the financial ramifications for his district if Dist. 59 formed a unit district. He, too, indicated that he considered Dist. 214's actions simply a reaction to Dist. 59.

Wednesday's meeting was the first for the group, formed among representatives of Dist. 214 and its feeder districts to consider the unit district matter. Interest in the unit district question from Dist. 214 followed the start of a citizens' unit district study in Dist. 59.

Aronson said, "I don't know if Dist. 214 would have taken action if Dist. 59 had not moved." But, he added that he hoped the unit district question "could be looked at in terms of the best education for the youngsters."

CONCERNING THE STUDY that will be made, H. Robert Powell of Dist. 25 said Dist. 214 should consider two propositions: —conducting a study independently of Dist. 59 and "marshalling its forces" to contend with Dist. 59's actions.

If Dist. 59 were to form its own unit district within its present boundaries, it would take about 40 per cent of Dist. 214's property tax base while taking only about 25 per cent of the Dist. 214 student population.

Dist. 59 Board Pres. Harold Peterson, who said he was at the meeting "as an observer," said Dist. 59 did not expect to have its feasibility study completed until March 1. He said that according to the district's timetable for action, a unit district, if formed, would not become effective until 1974.

Since any unit district proposal must be approved by both the county and state school superintendents, Peterson said, "We feel we will not be permitted to do anything detrimental to other districts."

No date was set for the group's next meeting. Attending Wednesday were representatives from Dist. 21, 23, 25, 57, 59 and 214.

Teacher Training Program OK'd

A temporary, in-service released time program for teachers in River Trails School Dist. 26 has been approved by the school board.

The three-month test program will allow for dismissal of school one hour earlier every Monday afternoon. For students with working mothers who cannot be home an hour earlier in the afternoon, the Teacher's Administrative Council (TAC) proposed that these children either be shown films at school or that some cooperative venture with the park district be set up.

A choice of five or six different workshop programs will be offered to teachers in the in-service agenda. Despite the choice of options, all teachers will be obligated to take part in one of the workshops offered every Monday.

Gary Rathgeber, of the TAC, said Tuesday in his presentation to the board that, "It's our belief that the teacher is the crucial factor in the success of every educational program." In the long run, Rathgeber said, "we will improve the education we offer to the children" through the in-service program.

At the end of March, the board will review evaluations of teachers and principals to determine whether the released-time program will be continued permanently.

'Don't Open Pal-Waukee Case Again'

Pal-Waukee Airport owner George Priester said Tuesday that Wheeling's attempts to reopen the court case between the airport and Cook County may increase the problems of Wheeling residents.

"These people are going to back themselves right into state ownership of this field," Priester said. "Then they will be paying taxes for something they are against. You can be sure that if the state takes over this airstrip it will be used as a reliever (for O'Hare Airport) and the

Dog Eats Biscuits As Intruder Prowls

A burglar who stopped to feed the family dog broke into the Howard Dolan home, 105 N. Elm St., Mount Prospect, sometime Wednesday.

Bedroom Fire Traced To Cigaretts, Candles

Cigaretts and candles are believed to have been the cause of an early morning bedroom fire yesterday at a home in Mount Prospect.

Neither Ron Fiedler, 16, nor his brother, Curtis, 12, were injured in the fire at 7 N. Ridge Ave., although the fire started in their bedroom. According to police, Curtis was the one who woke and found the fire.

The police further said they found candles and cigaret butts on the floor of the bedroom. Ron Fiedler reportedly told police he had blown out the candles before going to sleep.

The fire, which caused an estimated $2,000 damage, was already burning the walls of the bedroom when the boys awoke. Fire also damaged much of the bedroom's contents.

The boys' parents, Edward and Geraldine Fiedler, were also unhurt in the fire.

Kerner Trial Delay Reportedly Denied

A defense motion for a postponement of the trial of Appeals Court Judge Otto Kerner and former state Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs was denied by U.S. District Court Judge Robert L. Taylor in Knoxville, Tenn., according to sources in Chicago.

Defense attorneys for Kerner and Isaacs had requested the postponement, demanding the government provide more particulars regarding its case against the two men.

The defendants are under indictment on charges of bribery, mail fraud, conspiracy and income tax evasion in connection with the purchase of race track stock while Kerner was governor.

Mini-Bus Backers Hope For Feb. 1 Starting Date

The prospective backers of a mini-bus transit company say they hope to have their vehicles running on the streets of Arlington Heights by Feb. 1.

Bus service that would connect major apartment developments and the train station during the morning and evening rush hours, and make trips to shopping areas during the off hours has been proposed by a Des Plaines and Buffalo Grove pair.

The two men are the backers behind the Metron company which is seeking an exclusive franchise to run the bus service in Arlington Heights.

TRAIN STATION service also would be available to single family residents under the Metron proposal, as would individual "dial-a-bus" service which would operate much like a taxicab.

The two men say it would cost apartment dwellers about $15 a month for a bus pass. The rate for single-family riders would be slightly higher.

Claude G. Luisada, of 381 Springdale Ln., Buffalo Grove, told the village board's transportation committee that two apartment complexes, Stonebridge Hill and Windsor Woods, already have expressed an interest in the proposed service.

Stonebridge Hill has even offered to split the cost of the pass 50-50 with its tenants, Luisada said.

TRANSPORTATION Committee chairman Trustee Dwight Walton said he was "very interested in the possibilities of the Metron proposal" but added that he wanted to know more about the financing of the company.

"There are all kinds of possibilities but I think we have to know if the finances are going to be there to bring them to fruition," Walton said.

Trustee Frank Palmatier said he was "interested and receptive" to the proposal but said he too was concerned that the company would have "sufficient (financial) staying power so that it won't fizzle out after a few trial runs."

Walton also expressed what he called his personal opinion that the village might assist the company in some way.

"I don't look upon this solely as your venture," Walton said. "Transportation is one of our interests and we as a community have to face up to the reality of a history of bus company failures."

He cited marketing and financing as two possible areas of village assistance.

LUISADA SAID he is confident that the proposed venture would be a success in Arlington Heights because of his plans to personalize the bus service.

"There are no routes here at all," he said. "The bus will go to the people's front door and take them where they want to go."

He said the apartment complexes offer a good starting point for the new service because the riders already are concentrated in one area.

Several apartment complexes already offer commuter bus service to their tenants, Luisada plans to take over and expand this ridership.

Schools Out, Maintenance Crews In

When schools close this afternoon in Arlington Heights School Dist. 25, students and teachers can look forward to a week-and-a-half vacation.

But for the district maintenance crews, along with the administration, it will be business almost as usual. Though no Dist. 25 employees will work weekends or on Christmas or New Year's, they will have a lot to do before classes resume Jan. 1.

"We do a lot of general cleaning of hallways and other heavily traveled areas," said Jim Monroe, director of building, grounds and auxiliary services.

The maintenance crews have three special projects to complete during the vacation at Dryden and Westgate schools and Miner Junior High School.

"The biggest job will be resurfacing of the gym floor of Miner," said Monroe. The floor was damaged during the August flooding along with several other buildings in the district. Most of the $16,000 worth of damage has been repaired, and the district has already received a $12,000 check from the state to pay for flood damage repair. The remaining $4,000 is expected before the end of the school year.

At Dryden School new light covers will be added to a few classrooms and at Westgate School shelving will be added to the learning center during the Christmas vacation.

Harper College Trustee Selected

An Arlington Heights resident, William A. Kelly, of 317 S. Stratford Rd., was selected last night to serve on the Harper College Board of Trustees.

However, formal approval of the appointment was deferred until the January board meeting, as Eugene Nugent of Palatine has not yet formally submitted a letter of resignation to the board.

College officials termed it a procedural delay. Nugent is moving from Palatine to Cleveland, Ohio, next month.

Kelly, 53, is an attorney from the law firm of Kell and Conerty of Woodstock, which specializes in product liability and environmental law.

No Paper Monday

There will be no Herald published Monday, Christmas Day. Publication will resume Tuesday.

SCATTERED DEBRIS, like the coffee cup in the foreground surrounded the twisted wreckage of the North Central Airlines DC-9 that crashed on takeoff Wednesday after colliding with a Delta Airlines plane in dense fog at O'Hare Airport.

Crash Scene One Of Desolation

by STEVE BROWN

Hunks of twisted metal, the acrid smell of aviation fuel, and the nearly indistinguishable fuselage of what had been an airplane was all that remained yesterday at the scene of the North Central Airlines crash at O'Hare Airport.

About one-half mile away, on another runway, a Delta jet sat, minus its tail assembly. There, bigger chunks of airplane were scattered about.

With the exception of about 20 Chicago policemen and a few airport officials, that was the scene at the crash site.

The North Central DC-9 rested with only its tail and nose sections still intact. The cabin section of the plane was completely burned away. Nine of its passengers had died after a collision with the Delta jet in dense fog.

COFFEE CUPS, dinner trays and food carts were scattered about, probably never used on the flight which crashed on takeoff.

Chicago police said they had been given strict orders not to talk about the crash, but they also admitted they knew little more than had been in the newspapers.

A U.S. Post Office security agent stood by, impatiently waiting for clearance to retrieve what might be left of several mail pouches aboard the plane.

"The mail we got off last night was terrible. It smelled like burned flesh," he said.

Neither plane has been moved. They await the federal investigators. The areas around the two planes had been cordoned off Wednesday night.

The police detail stood by on the windswept runway, quietly wishing they had pulled some other assignment.

A Delta maintenance truck was parked near the Delta Convair 880. A few police officers, sitting in an unmarked car, were nearby.

THE INFLATABLE escape chutes, now deflated, hung limply from the doors of the plane. An occasional gust of wind made them waver slightly.

The Delta man said he was waiting for the company's safety board to arrive. He said they apparently had been delayed by the same bad weather that had held up the arrival of other investigators.

The area between the two planes contained more bits of metal. The nose wheel of the North Central plane was about halfway between the two jets, imbedded in a mound of snow.

The point of impact was situated about 100 yards in front of the airport's new control tower, which was completed last summer.

AN O'HARE OFFICIAL who identified himself only as "Angelo," and that had been working straight through the night, said the tower may as well have been a hundred miles away Wednesday night.

"The fog was just too thick to see what was going on," he said, noting the crash trucks and fire equipment had some trouble reaching the scene because of the weather.

Yesterday's overcast skies offered slightly better visibility, but the remains of the North Central plane still could not be seen clearly from the point of impact.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT. It all started quite innocently. The village board was ready to vote on an ordinance that would make it illegal to remove shopping carts from grocery store premises, when Trustee James T. Ryan asked whether it was reasonable to single out shopping carts. And that's when the trouble started: "Personally, I had felt this was a Jewel of an ordinance," said Village Pres. John Woods. "Yes, but it's hardly a National Issue," opined Trustee Dwight Walton. "And I think we ought to specify the number of shopping carts, like 7-Eleven," added Trustee Ted Salinsky. It finally ended when the matter was referred to the board's legal committee, which promised to check out all the details.

TREE TRIMMING was a school-wide event at North School in Arlington Heights as each class made decorations for the two school Christmas trees. Carol Montgomery and Tommy Scanlan trimmed one of the trees with clothespin angels which they made in their third-grade classroom.

No New Faces In Local Park District Election

Though there have been several inquiries about election procedures, no one has decided to run for seats on the Arlington Heights Park District Board since Dec. 8.

Petitions, complete with 193 signatures, will be accepted from Dec. 20-30 at the park district office, 600 N. Ridge.

Six persons, including four incumbents, have declared their candidacy. Running for another term in April will be board members Charles Cronin, Jack Edwards, Lloyd Meyer and Kay Muller. William E. Schumann, who ran for a board seat in 1971 and Katy Graham, a 13-year park district resident have also said they will run.

Because of a new election law, candidates for the seats must have their petitions in a month earlier than normal. While this year's deadline is Dec. 30, last year's deadline was Feb. 1.

Because of resignations, all five park board seats will be vacated in April. There will be two two-year terms, one four-year term and two six-year terms available.

Petitions for the April 3 election may be picked up at the park district office, 600 N. Ridge.

Council Move To Cut Mayoral Post Shows Strength

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

A city council move to reduce mayoral power showed its strength last night at a judiciary committee hearing.

Twelve aldermen and Mayor Herbert Behrel battled the pros and cons of a part-time mayor, administrative assistant government back and forth before an audience of potential aldermanic candidates.

After two hours of discussion, supporters of the part-time proposal counted eight aldermen in favor of the change by ordinance, not referendum, and seven opposed.

Ald. Lois Czubakowski (5th) who has indicated that she will not seek reelection, did not attend the meeting and may cast the swing vote during one of two January council meetings.

Speaking in favor of the controversial proposal that aims at encouraging opposition to fifth term reelection of Behrel were Ald. Alan Abrams (8th), committee chairman, Ald. Robert Michaels (8th), Ald. Daniel Bonaguidi (7th), Ald. Spencer Chase (3rd), Ald. Charles Bolck (3rd) and Ald. John Seitz (7th).

Two vocal supporters at Monday's council meeting, Ald. Joseph Szabo (1st) and Ald. Thomas Koplos (1st) were absent last night.

"IT'S GOING TO BE close, very close," said Abrams, who chaired the meeting from the mayor's council platform.

Abrams called another committee meeting for Dec. 28, to complete a report with recommendations for the council.

Opposing the part-time mayor concept, which is used in most suburbs, were Ald. Ewald Swanson (6th), Ald. Robert Hinde (4th), Ald. Kenneth Kehe (2nd), Ald. Daniel Kisslinger (4th), Ald. Arthur Erbach (5th), and Ald. Robert Sherwood (3rd).

Sherwood began his comments by announcing that he will not seek reelection April 17. He was mentioned last fall as a possible mayoral candidate. "I will become a private citizen after the April 23 council meeting," he said.

Sherwood charged that a part-time mayor would be a "figurehead... to cut ribbons and sign papers," he urged a referendum, saying that it is "not in the best interest of the City of Des Plaines not to put the issue before them."

Abrams, who lectured the 11 aldermen at times, answered charges of "politics" and firmly argued in support of the proposal, claiming that the city's $20,000-a-year full-time mayor post "precludes the businessman—the woman who might have children at home" from seeking the office. "Not too many people are steeped or have sufficient backgrounds to run 'a municipal government. We need someone by virtue of training and experience to deal with the day-to-day problems a municipality might have," he said.

CITY ATTY. Robert DiLeonardi told the council members they could create an administrative assistant post by ordinance without referendum. The council also can cut the mayor's salary to $4,000 a year in the city budget, creating a part-time position.

Des Plaines "should not build any office in this city on any one person or put any person's tag on it," Abrams said. Behrel has served as mayor for 12 years and was elected alderman in 1948.

The mayor, who left midway in the meeting, called Abrams' comment "a lot of poppycock."

Behrel, in his only discussion with the council, said, "I have no objections to the administrative assistant or managerial form of government. This community on three separate occasions voted down the city manager type of government." The council "should be very careful... without giving them (voters) a choice."

The last city manager referendum was in 1961 when Abrams' eighth ward, about 20 per cent of the city, "was mostly farm land," the alderman said.

Attending the meeting were Berton Kosmen, who is circulating mayoral petitions; Dr. Gerald Meyer, a possible 7th ward candidate who lost election to Bonaguidi by less than 30 votes in 1969 and George Olen, defeated for second ward alderman in 1971.

SCATTERED DEBRIS, like the coffee cup in the foreground surrounded the twisted wreckage of the North Central Airlines DC-9 that crashed on takeoff Wednesday after colliding with a Delta Airlines plane in dense fog at O'Hare Airport.

Crash Scene One Of Desolation

by STEVE BROWN

Hunks of twisted metal, the acrid smell of aviation fuel, and the nearly indistinguishable fuselage of what had been an airplane was all that remained yesterday at the scene of the North Central Airlines crash at O'Hare Airport.

About one-half mile away, on another runway, a Delta jet sat, minus its tail assembly. There, bigger chunks of airplane were scattered about.

With the exception of about 20 Chicago policemen and a few airport officials, that was the scene at the crash site.

The North Central DC-9 rested with only its tail and nose sections still intact. The cabin section of the plane was completely burned away. Nine of its passengers had died after a collision with the Delta jet in dense fog.

COFFEE CUPS, dinner trays and food carts were scattered about, probably never used on the flight which crashed on takeoff.

Chicago police said they had been given strict orders not to talk about the crash, but they also admitted they knew little more than had been in the newspapers.

A U.S. Post Office security agent stood by, impatiently waiting for clearance to retrieve what might be left of several mail pouches aboard the plane.

"The mail we got off last night was terrible. It smelled like burned flesh," he said.

Neither plane has been moved. They await the federal investigators. The areas around the two planes had been cordoned off Wednesday night.

The police detail stood by on the windswept runway, quietly wishing they had pulled some other assignment.

A Delta maintenance truck was parked near the Delta Convair 880. A few police officers, sitting in an unmarked car, were nearby.

THE INFLATABLE escape chutes, now deflated, hung limply from the doors of the plane. An occasional gust of wind made them waver slightly.

The Delta man said he was waiting for the company's safety board to arrive. He said they apparently had been delayed by the same bad weather that had held up the arrival of other investigators.

The area between the two planes contained more bits of metal. The nose wheel of the North Central plane was about halfway between the two jets, imbedded in a mound of snow.

The point of impact was situated about 100 yards in front of the airport's new control tower, which was completed last summer.

AN O'HARE OFFICIAL, who identified himself only as "Angelo," and that had been working straight through the night, said the tower may as well have been a hundred miles away Wednesday night.

"The fog was just too thick to see what was going," he said, noting the crash trucks and fire equipment had some trouble reaching the scene because of the weather.

Yesterday's overcast skies offered slightly better visibility, but the remains of the North Central plane still could not be seen clearly from the point of impact.

Schools Fund Drive Nets $4,200 Here

The Teachers and Schools Division of the Des Plaines Community Chest annual fund drive has raised $4200 locally from teachers and school employees in Dist. 207, Dist. 62 and parochial elementary schools in the area. Under the direction of Mrs. Arthur R. Weiss, the division is still actively seeking donations and pledges as the drive nears its completion.

According to Mrs. Weiss, Dist. 62 donates through the payroll deduction plan, and District 207 and the elementary schools support the Chest either through single donations or individual pledges from teachers and employees. "All the local teachers and employees have been exceedingly generous this year but vigorous support these last days of the campaign is needed in order to meet our goal and thus assist the devoted social service agencies we support."

The Chest, a part of the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy, is divided into ten volunteer-headed divisions which seek financial support for 16 local social service agencies. The Chest hopes to raise $33,000 locally this year.

Individual residents, groups or organizations send their donations or pledges to: The Des Plaines Community Chest, P.O. Box 204, Des Plaines 60017.

Ziehn, Tuttle Won't Seek Reelection To Maine Board

Maine Township Supervisor William C. "Bud" Ziehn and Collector Milton Tuttle will not seek reelection when their terms of office expire next spring.

Ziehn, twice elected supervisor, and Tuttle were missing from a full slate of candidates filed last week by the Maine Township Republican party.

James J. Dowd, of 1503 Walnut Ave., former Des Plaines city attorney, will head the GOP ticket as candidate for supervisor.

Township Democrats did not file candidate petitions.

"We're not going to get involved this time out," Maine Democratic committeeman Nicholas Blase said. "It doesn't make much sense because there's a question whether the township government should exist."

Township Democrats and the League of Women Voters unsuccessfully attempted to place a referendum question abolishing township government on the Nov. 7 ballot. Blase predicted that the referendum will not be on the April 3 ballot. A circuit court suit was filed to force the issue on the November ballot but the case remains undecided.

ZIEHN SAID the "entire issue is going to be the abolition of the township. It's not going to be Republican versus Democrat. Our candidates are going to go into a great deal of detail about the virtues and advantages of township government."

Although the Democrats did not file a slate, opponents to the Republicans can file until Jan. 29. Independent candidates or a "new party" can file petitions.

Lack of a Democratic slate eliminates a primary election here.

Republican candidates include incumbents Philip Raffe, clerk, 225 Valerie Ct., Glenview; James A. Parks, assessor, 710 Forestview Ave., Park Ridge; Edward Koehler, highway commissioner, 2073 Eastview Dr., Des Plaines; Harvey Frindt, auditor, 8810 Gravo Ave., Niles; and Mrs. Katherine D. Korff, auditor, 1800 Lee St., Des Plaines.

Other GOP candidates include Roy H. Berquist, collector, 8403 Bruce Dr., Niles; Paul K. Halverson, auditor, 1639 Oakwood Ave., Des Plaines; and Mrs. Margaret Wirsén, auditor, 1131 S. Home Ave., Park Ridge.

Berquist, an attorney, was defeated in 1970 in the 4th District Republican primary election for state.

Elementary Districts Make Recommendation

It's High Schools' Unit Study Move

Representatives of local elementary school districts are leaving the next step in the unit district question up to the High School Dist. 214 board.

At a meeting Wednesday among officials from Dist. 214 and its feeder districts, elementary school board officials recommended that the high school board conduct any study to be made on the effects of unit districting in the area.

Currently a citizens' group in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 is already conducting a study on the effects of a unit district (one that would include grades K-12) in that area.

Arthur Aronson, a Dist. 214 board member, said Wednesday he would forward the recommendation to his board at its meeting Jan. 8. A decision on exactly what the study would entail would have to be made by the board, he said.

SOME SCHOOL representatives at Wednesday's meeting indicated they considered Dist. 214 officials' interest in unit districting little more than a reaction to the activity in Dist. 59.

Mary Jo Reld of Dist. 21 asked rhetorically, "Why now? (should there be a study.) Just because 59 has taken action, are we to be snowballed into action?"

A representative of Dist. 15, Leland Gibs, said his district had already studied the financial ramifications for his district if Dist. 59 formed a unit district. He, too, indicated that he considered Dist.

214's actions simply a reaction to Dist. 59.

Wednesday's meeting was the first for the group, formed among representatives of Dist. 214 and its feeder districts to consider the unit district matter. Interest in the unit district question from Dist. 214 followed the start of a citizens' unit district study in Dist. 59.

Aronson said, "I don't know if Dist. 214 would have taken action if Dist. 59 had not moved." But, he added that he hoped the unit district question "could be looked at in terms of the best education for the youngsters."

CONCERNING THE STUDY that will be made, H. Robert Powell of Dist. 25 said Dist. 214 should consider two proposals: —conducting a study independently of Dist. 59 and "marshalling its forces" to contend with Dist. 59's actions. If Dist. 59 were to form its own unit district within its present boundaries, it would take about 40 per cent of Dist. 214's property tax base while taking only about 25 per cent of the Dist. 214 student population.

Dist. 59 Board Pres. Harold Peterson, who said he was at the meeting "as an observer," said Dist. 59 did not expect to have its feasibility study completed until March 1. He said that according to the district's timetable for action, a unit district, if formed, would not become effective until 1974.

Since any unit district proposal must be approved by both the county and state school superintendents, Peterson said, "We feel we will not be permitted to do anything detrimental to other districts."

No date was set for the group's next meeting. Attending Wednesday were representatives from Dis. 21, 23, 25, 57, 59 and 214.

Miss Delich Named Therapy Coordinator

June Delich was named coordinator and assistant professor for the physical therapy assistant program at Oakton Community College at the regular meeting of the board of trustees Tuesday night.

Miss Delich will serve as teacher for the physical therapist assistant courses and work with the hospitals where students in the program receive training, Oakton officials said. She will also determine course objectives, guiding and directing each phase of learning.

Miss Delich a registered nurse, was graduated from Presbyterian-St. Lukes Hospital School of Nursing in Chicago. She received training in physical therapy at the Mayor Clinic School of Physical Therapy in Rochester, Minn. and in rehabilitation from the Elizabeth Kenny Rehabilitation Institute in Minneapolis earning certificates from each.

She has also earned a degree in sociology from the University of Illinois in Urbana and her master's degree in public health from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. In addition, she has completed graduate courses at the University of California and Southern Illinois University.

During her career in hospital and public health nursing, Miss Delich has been employed as industrial nurse and department head of the physical therapy department for the Arabian-American Oil Company in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia and assistant head nurse of the orthopedic Section of Fitzsimmons Army Hospital in Denver. She has also taught social sciences in the public schools in California.

82-Year-Old Woman Found Dead After Several Weeks

The partially decomposed body of an 82-year-old Des Plaines woman, apparently dead several weeks, was found by police yesterday on a couch in her home.

Police said the woman, Anna Domin, of 1052 Prairie Ave. lived in the house with her husband Herman, 79.

Police said Domin had been living in the house since his wife died but appeared to be senile and told police he didn't think his wife was dead, but, just wasn't feeling well.

According to reports, Patrolman James Kautz found the elderly woman's body after neighbors called police because they thought something appeared to be wrong in the Domin home.

The last person to see the Domin woman alive, other than her husband, was a neighbor who said Mrs. Domin appeared weak and ill when she saw her Nov. 26, police said.

The body was found about 4 p.m. and pronounced dead on arrival at Holy Family Hospital.

Police said the woman apparently died of natural causes and said it appeared there was no foul play. Police released Domin after questioning.

A niece told police she talked to Domin earlier yesterday over the phone and he thanked her for a basket of fruit she had sent the Domin.

The niece reportedly told police that Domin said nothing about his wife's death and that he had indicated the Domin woman was alive but not feeling well.

Neighbors told police the couple lived a quiet life, rarely leaving their home. Several of the neighbors said they had not seen the couple in over a year.

They Visit Convalescent Home Residents

Pre-Teens Learn Meaning Of Sharing

By KATHERINE BOYCE

Christmas means sharing, said a fifth grader at Immanuel Lutheran School in Des Plaines.

As a project in the fifth grade religion class, students spent half an hour a week visiting residents of the Des Plaines Convalescent Home for the elderly. "We share with them anything we can," said fifth grader at Immanuel.

A woman resident of the home is from Cuba and speaks only Spanish. A student named Immanuel, also from Cuba, talks with her in her native tongue and the entire class is learning Cuban folk songs that they plan to sing to her.

"There's a blind lady there," said Becky, another fifth grader. "We read Bible passages to her and she asked us to come back and read to her again."

The project was the students' own idea, said Karl Schmidt, school principal and teacher of the fifth grade class. It began as a discussion in religion class one day, he said. Students were talking about sharing and love and the spirit of Christmas. They decided the best gift they could give is themselves, said Schmidt.

"IT TEACHES us what sharing is," said Sandy, another student. "We make friends," said Paul, a classmate.

The students learn that religion is something to be applied to everyday life, said Schmidt. They are eager to continue the weekly visits after Christmas, he said, and the school is encouraging them. Religion isn't practiced an hour or two a week or just during church holidays, it's part of every day. "If we want to instill some love and values in the children, the project has to last all year," said Schmidt.

The children make art projects for the patients, sing songs and read to them. One patient asked the children to bring some bleach bottles and egg cartons to the home for the patients to use as materials for handicrafts.

"We hope each child will adopt one resident" and give her special attention, said Schmidt. One student has already asked her mother if she can bring one of the residents to her home to share Christmas dinner, he said.

THE CHILDREN at Immanuel are enthusiastic, said Schmidt, and are eager to talk and learn. They enjoy visiting the home and look forward to seeing the patients each week almost as much as the patients look forward to seeing them.

The school tries to build the child's awareness of other people. Students talk about love, sincerity, and sharing. "We concentrate on the child's feelings," said Schmidt. "We don't want them to say something because they think the teacher wants them to say it."

Parochial schools have failed to do their jobs. "If the student's faith doesn't come out in what he says or does," he said.

Center Fund At $1,426 And Growing

Dollar donations add up. In an effort to help The Salvation Army Community Counseling Center maintain its services to suburban families in crisis, the Herald is asking its readers to contribute $1 or more to a special Christmas season fund.

A total $1,426.50 had been received yesterday with more donations arriving daily.

"We appreciate this response to our call for help," said Charles E. Hayes, Herald editor and publisher. "The task of trying to prevent family ills and to cure them is a tremendous one. The need and demand for family counseling services exceed the center's limited resources, and it desperately needs help if it is to continue helping troubled families in our Northwest suburbs."

The professional, full-time family service agency is headquartered in Des Plaines with branch offices in Palatine and Schaumburg. A third office will open soon in Arlington Heights. The agency serves suburbanites in Wheeling, Palatine, Schaumburg and Elk Grove Townships and Des Plaines.

THE CENTER is financed largely by

The Salvation Army and Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy campaign with some income provided by a modest fee structure. It must depend, however, on the communities it serves for its continued service in the suburbs.

Proceeds from the Christmas season fund will be used to help defray an estimated 1972 deficit of $15,000.

Many readers enclosed notes of hope and encouragement with their donations.

Wrote Mrs. James A. Brown of Schaumburg: "I would just like to write a short note to you to say I don't think there is a better or more helpful organization than The Salvation Army. They are always there when needed."

"As a long-time member of the business community here, we are aware of the great work being done by The Salvation Army and want it to be continued," wrote Roger E. Sellstrom of Sellstrom Manufacturing Co., Palatine.

FROM Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Omaha of Buffalo Grove came this endorsement:

"The work of The Salvation Army has always been at the top of our list, right after our church and parish obligations. The Salvation Army is true charity. They give without asking. Their motto, as in no other charitable organization, is 'If a person asks for help, it is given.' And no questions are asked whether one is rich, poor or in-between."

I. H. Syoen of Arlington Heights echoed the sentiments of many readers toward the center with his simple comment, "God bless you wonderful people!"

IN ADDITION to gifts of $1, $2 and $3, a number of readers have contributed $5, $10 and more. Donations range from $1 given by a Rolling Meadows pensioner to $100 from a Park Ridge woman.

Support also came this week from three churches: $200 from First Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights; and $100 from South Church Community Baptist and $50 from St. Mark Lutheran Church Women in Mount Prospect.

Contributions may be sent to the Herald Center Fund, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Checks may be made payable to The Salvation Army Community Counseling Center, care of the same address. Persons who donate $1 or more will be included in the list of names published by the Herald during the fund campaign.

COMMUNITY COUNSELING CENTER

All-Area Counseling Center Handles Varied Problems

by BARRY SIGALE

The Salvation Army Community Counseling Center is all things to all people, according to Mrs. Marge Lusinski, director of the family services department.

The family service department handles the counseling of 234 families in Schaumburg, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Palatine Townships and the City of Des Plaines and is involved in such areas as marital, parent-child, adolescent problems and depression.

The center mainly deals with middle income families and charges fees based on a family's gross yearly income plus the number of persons in the family. But, Mrs. Lusinski emphasized, the center doesn't turn anyone away, even if they can't afford to pay.

With 11 social workers, a case worker and secretarial personnel, Mrs. Lusinski feels the center is meeting the needs of the people in helping them solve their own problems.

Staff personnel conclude that their purpose in dealing with individuals or families with problems is to act as a catalyst, to let the patient find his or her own solution to his or her problem.

EACH SOCIAL worker is assigned a variety of cases but the most pressing problems people come to the center with are marital and parent-child.

Mrs. Lusinski, three social workers, Shirley Whitman, Milti Takehara and Phyllis Gilson, and a case assistant, Holly Kusmer, explain in general terms some of the most common problems they handle and the process by which they first come in contact with people.

Mrs. Kusmer is in charge of the initial contact with persons seeking help. She takes about 60 to 70 phone calls a month from people asking to be counseled. She conducts an interview with each caller and determines whether the center is equipped to handle the problem or whether to refer the person to another agency.

"Usually the people who call do so because a crisis has just occurred, such as woman who has just found out her husband is having an affair," Mrs. Kusmer said. "Then I ask how they think we can help them. Usually they just want to talk to a third party. Then I ask if they've tried to solve the problem themselves before calling."

When it is determined that a person seeking help should be counseled at the center, the case is assigned to a social worker, who will conduct interviews at the office or make house visits.

MOST OF the persons counseled make regular visits to the center and by far the number one problem is marital.

The social workers listed several of the most common reasons for marital problems: lack of communication, infidelity, alcoholism and outside pressures.

In some cases where a communications breakdown is evident it is determined that the problem existed for a long time but that it came to the forefront when something like children growing up and leaving home occurs.

The couple is married several years, probably 20 or more, and they raise a family. When the children become independent and seek a life of their own the parents are suddenly faced with renewing a relationship they haven't had since they were first married, according to the staff.

"When the children are in the home, the couple's problems haven't surfaced too much yet," said Mrs. Lusinski. "But when they've grown and out of the home the couple is left to themselves. One of the parties (realizing there are problems) wishes to focus on their problems and bring them out in the open. But the other party doesn't want to face up to them. The first party then seeks help."

ANOTHER problem handled at the Center is the ones resulting from young couples getting married because the girl was pregnant. The girl is interested in getting married, the counselors said, but the boy wants the "prerogatives" of being a boy. He hasn't grown out of adolescence yet. The girl probably wouldn't have married the same type of person later on in life, they said. This shotgun marriage approach has resulted in the deterioration of many relationships.

Another common problem is the one involving the parent and the child and most often occurs because of the relationship the parents have with one another.

According to the counselors, the child is sometimes pressured to achieve too much at school. Some parents are too preoccupied with themselves to show interest in the child. There is no communication. Then the child misbehaves. It's hard for parents to understand this. They think that in their own way they are good parents.

An example of this is parents who come to the center about their child; they are there for 15 minutes talking about Johnny's problems but after that the conversation swings to the couple's own marital problems — then they don't talk about or mention Johnny's name again.

New Ellinwood Parking Lot To Generate $30,000 A Year

Des Plaines' new Ellinwood Street parking lot — open free to downtown shoppers during the Christmas holidays — will generate an estimated $30,000 a year in revenue, Mayor Herbert Behrel said this week.

Edward Benjamin of Benjamin and Long, city bond consultants, based the prediction on the $1,000-a-month revenue produced by 37 parking meters that were removed after construction last month of the new 110-car lot.

City officials still have not decided who will pay for parking in the lot, which was financed with part of $325,000 in parking revenue bonds.

"The thought-jelling that seems to have some merit is that they're (downtown merchants) willing to pay on some sort of square foot basis," Behrel said.

The mayor has urged that merchants foot the lot parking bill in order to advertise free shopper parking in Des Plaines. Most recent proposal would determine each merchant's share of the estimated $30,000 a year by floor store space.

BEHREL MET with chamber of commerce representatives this month to discuss competition produced by free shopping center parking and asked for the revenue estimate after the meeting.

Behrel also investigated a free shopper parking system in Waukegan. The North Shore city allows two hours free parking in five lots. Shoppers receive a time-stamped ticket and pay 25 cents for parking between two and three hours and 30 cents an hour after three hours. Maximum charge is $2.75.

Behrel said Waukegan subsidizes the parking from sales tax receipts. "They also charge 25 cents for all night parking," he said.

"I don't know if I'll be able to recommend that we look at sales tax money to retire these bonds," Behrel said.

THE CITY council recently disbursed the city's $903,000 in sales tax by using $190,000 for streets, $220,000 for garbage and $493,000 for construction of a new fire station at 405 S. River Rd.

"If we're using it all and there isn't any for parking lots we'll need to budget in the tax bill," Behrel said.

The city council authorized payment of $41,993 to Rock Road Construction Co. Monday for the Ellinwood lot work. The bill was $26,000 over cost estimates.

The council delayed consideration of the bill on Dec. 4.

Ald. Joseph Szabo (1st) building and grounds committee chairman, told the council that the overrun was caused by mathematical errors ("Someone misread the scale") and unexpected excavation.

Scouting News

Boy Scout Troop 6, sponsored by Trinity Lutheran Church, Des Plaines, had a committee meeting Nov. 16. Under the leadership of committee chairman Thomas Mahon, the new charter for 1973 was adopted, with parents volunteering for the following positions: committee chairman, Thomas Mahon; scoutmaster, Robert Enders; institutional representative, Philip Lindahl; secretary-treasurer, Carl Callahan; advancement chairman, John Boggskey.

On Dec. 1, 2 and 3, Troop 6 also had a weekend at Camp Wonderland at Camp Lake, Wis.

The boys were treated to "Navy cooking" by Richard Rohn and Norman Karling, after some of the boys worked for advancements in fire building, camp preparation and first aid.

The 26 boys and 10 adults who enjoyed the weekend had snowball fights, played games and were treated to movies.

No Action Seen By School Bd. On CAP Charges

River Trails School Dist. 26 has decided to take no action on the recent charge by the Citizen's Action Program (CAP) that Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect is underassessed.

CAP charged last month that Randhurst was underassessed by more than $7 million, even though Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton recently reassessed the property. If CAP is correct in its charge, Dist. 26 stands to lose $313,471 in property tax revenue next year.

Despite the possible loss of money, the school board has decided that any action on its part at this time would be unwise.

"I WOULD NOT favor initiating a lawsuit unless I was sure there was, in fact, an underassessment," said Board Pres. Lloyd Demel. "When there is an independent appraisal, at that point, we can get our attorney on the phone and find out where we go from here," he said.

The assessor's office has offered to allow an independent appraiser to reassess Randhurst. So far, however, CAP has rejected every candidate for appraiser suggested by the assessor's office as biased.

Supt. Tom Warden said that the district's attorney, Franke & Miller, had "concluded that a taxing body should not be using tax funds to initiate suits." Besides, "the attorney said he doesn't know of any damages that have been collected retroactively. It's always on the new assessment," Warden said.

The board directed Warden to keep in contact with CAP should there be any new developments on Randhurst.

A Late Birthday For Passenger

by JACK PENCHOFF

Mary Burchard celebrated her 69th birthday Wednesday night by sliding down the emergency chute of a Delta Airlines Convair 880.

She and her husband, John 72, both former Des Plaines residents, were among 86 passengers and seven crew members aboard the taxiing Delta jetliner that was struck in the tail section by a North Central Airlines DC-9, taking off from O'Hare Airport.

"The pilot had just finished announcing that we were late but were lucky to be on the ground. He said we didn't have a gate yet . . . then we felt the crash," Mrs. Burchard said, describing what happened immediately after the Delta jetliner touched down on the runway.

"Nobody panicked. The crew members were very nice and had us all leave the plane by sliding down the emergency chute," Burchard said.

"They had the runway lit up with flood lights and told us right away that all the emergency vehicles were at the other plane because that was where the injuries were. We couldn't even see the other plane but we did see the tail section and part of the wing of our plane lying on the ground," Mrs. Burchard said.

THE COUPLE said they had different thoughts running through their minds immediately after the crash.

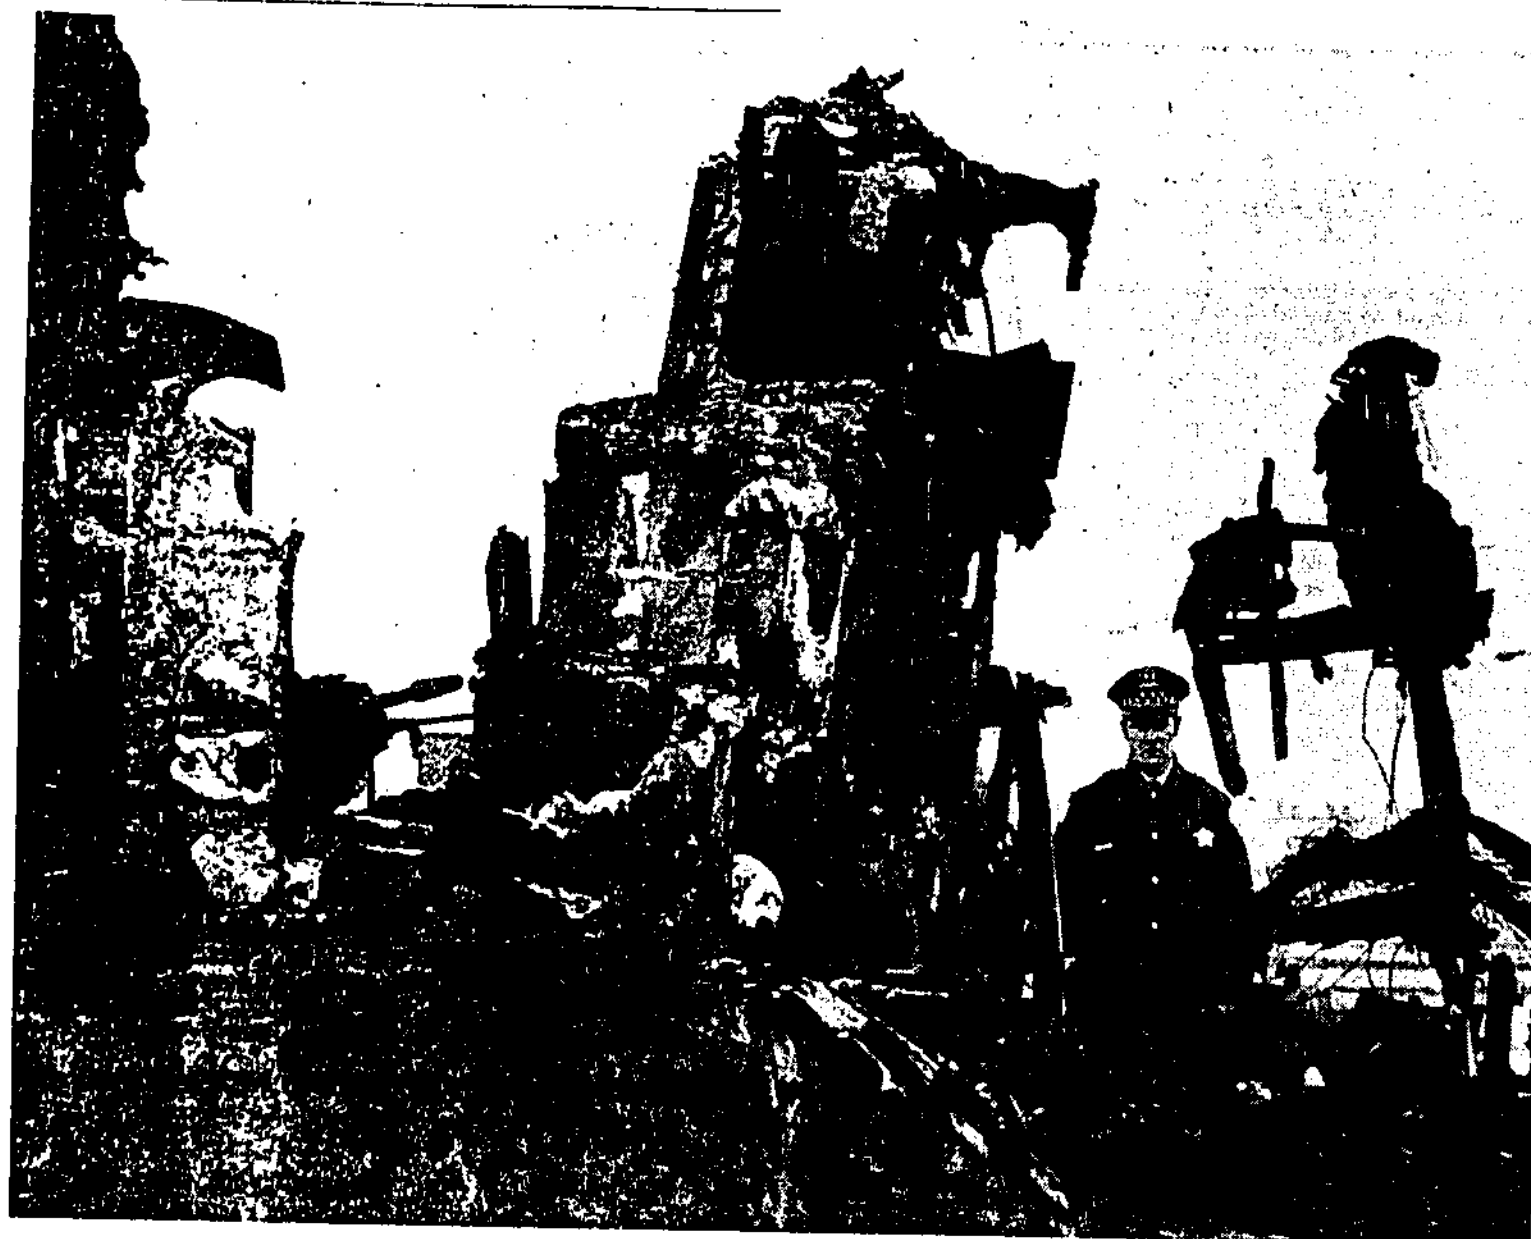

Burchard thought their plane had left the runway but Mrs. Burchard said she thought the plane had crashed. "The lady sitting next to us — she was next to the window — told us afterwards that she saw lights coming toward our plane but didn't know what they were," Mrs. Burchard said.

After waiting on the runway for about half an hour following the crash the passengers on the Delta were bussed to the terminal and by 7 p.m., an hour after the crash, were in a taxi on the way to their motel.

BUT THE evening was not over for Mary Burchard. At 8:30 p.m. the Burchards were driven by their son, Tom Burchard of Des Plaines, to a surprise birthday party for her at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 760 Pearson St., where some 50 friends and relatives had been gathered for more than an hour anxiously waiting for the couple's arrival.

The Burchards, who will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary next June, said the crash won't keep them from flying again.

"Those things just happen," said Burchard.

STANDING GUARD, one of the Chicago police peered through the burned out remains of the take-off Wednesday at O'Hare International Airport.

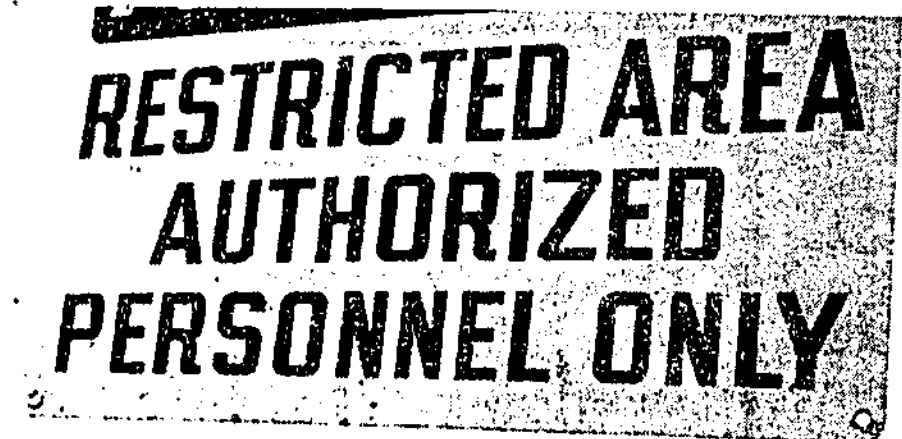

MARY AND JOHN Burchard relate the experience they shared as passengers on the Delta Airlines jetliner involved in Wednesday's crash at O'Hare Airport. Burchard founded Burchard's Cleaners, Des Plaines, in 1929. The couple moved to Florida after retirement two years ago.

9 Crash Victims Identified

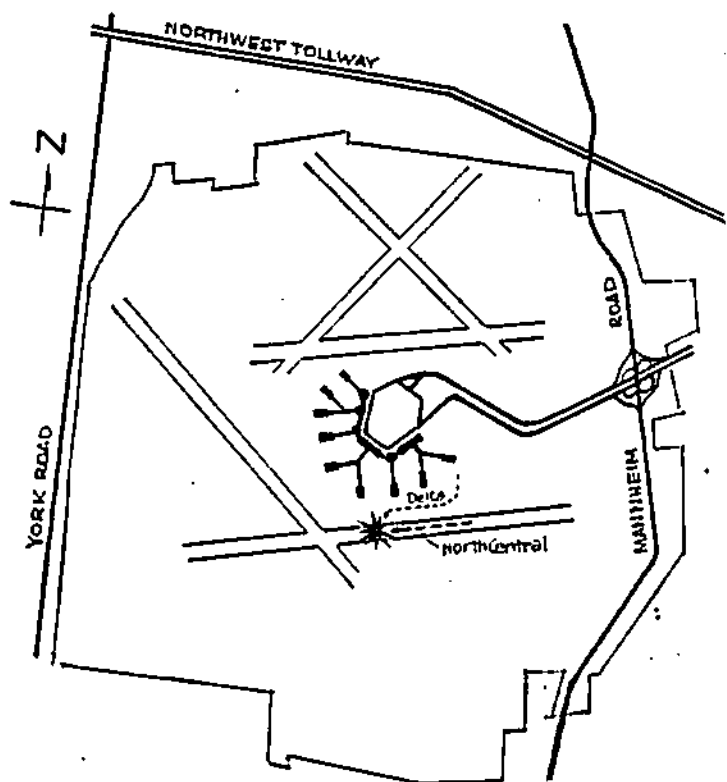

North Central Airlines has released the names of the nine persons killed Wednesday night in the crash of a North Central DC-9 at O'Hare Airport.

The dead were identified as:
1. Charles D. Blair, Madison, Wis.
2. Mrs. Helma Aalto, 79, Aurora, Minn.

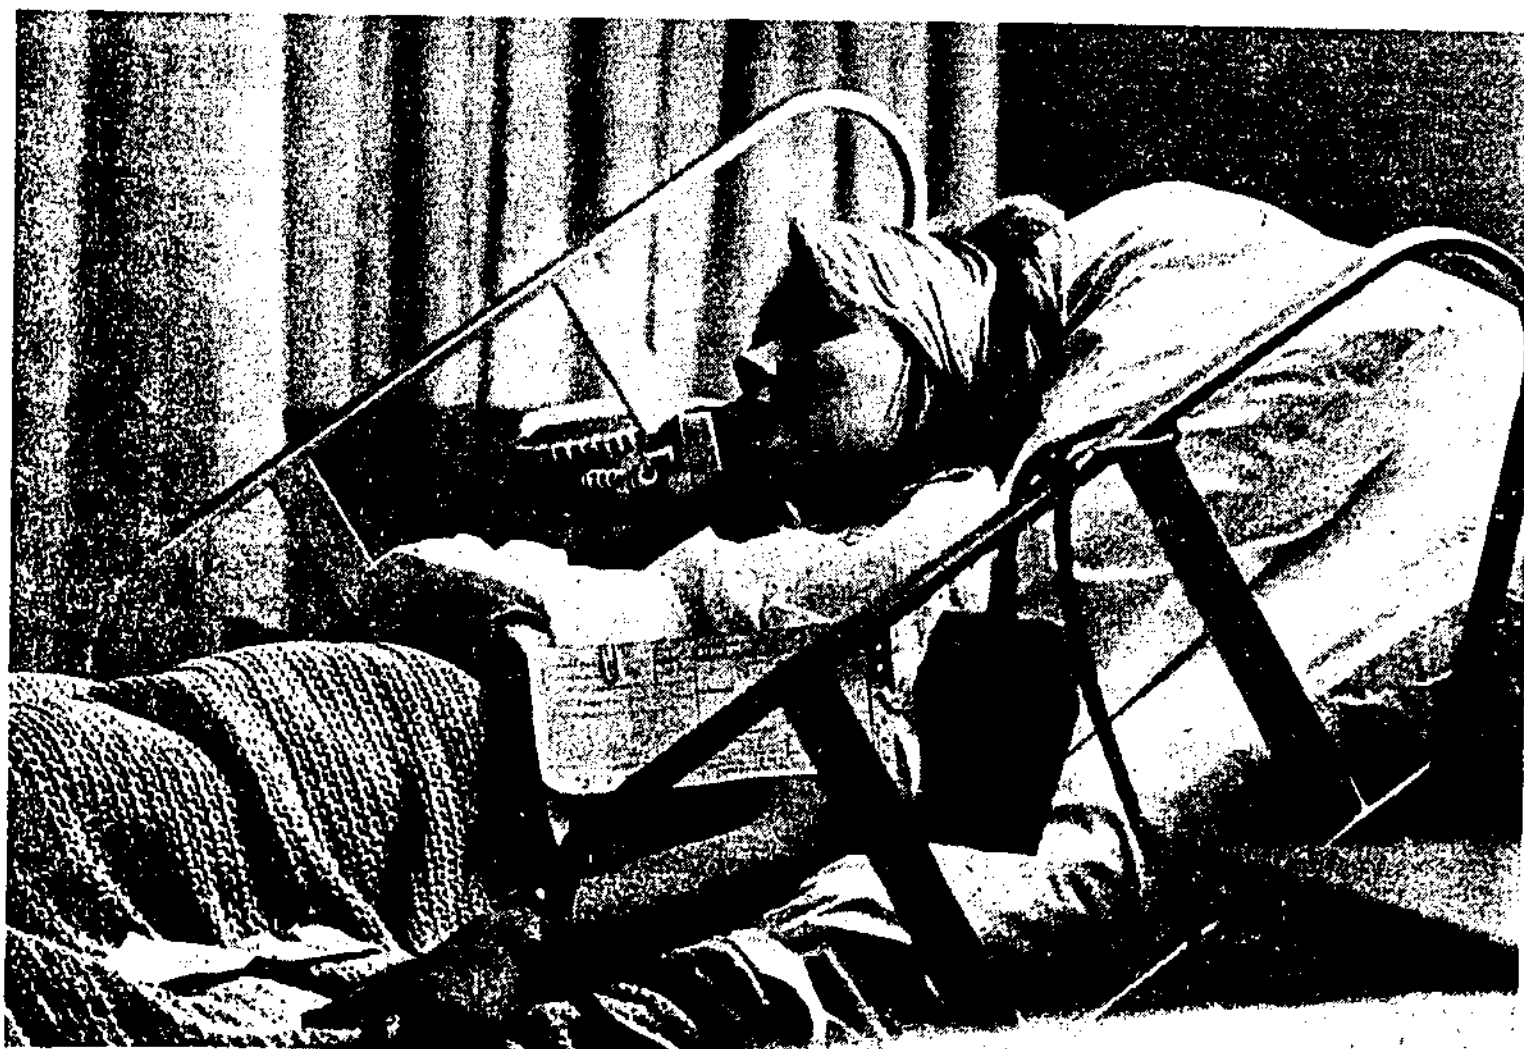

3. Darlynn Darby, Baker, Ore.
4. John Kruse, Sun Prairie, Wis.
5. Beverly Dempsey, Rantoul, Ill.
6. Mrs. E. Tonder, Haste, Norway.
7. Mrs. Beverly Long, Edgewater, Fla.
8. and 9. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Edward Wolf of Edgewater, Fla.

POINT OF IMPACT where the North Central Airlines jet collided with a Delta Airlines plane was directly in front of O'Hare's recently opened control tower. The Delta plane was taxiing across the runway being used by North Central when the crash occurred.

CALLING HOME, Pat Helgesen tried to reassure relatives Wednesday that she was not seriously injured in Wednesday's airplane crash. She sustained smoke inhalation. She was released from Resurrection Hospital yesterday.

West's Gymnasts Getting Closer; Show Improvement Even In Defeat

SUPER STAR. Dal-Joon Lee of Cleveland, who has been nationally ranked No. 1 since 1968, earned a spot on the United States World Table Tennis Team with a runner-up finish to teenage sensation Danny Seemiller Saturday and Sunday at Wheeling High School. Lee, who was the South Korean champ before coming to this country in 1966, went five years without losing a match to a United States player.

Maine West's varsity gymnasts are getting closer, but thru five meets had still not managed to top an opponent.

The Warriors finally went over 90 points for the first time this season, but were still losers recently, 111.84 to 93.06 against Wheeling.

Coach Sid Drain's gymnastics club met Glenbrook South on Wednesday of this week. Results of that dual meet were not available upon deadline.

The Warriors have shown steady improvement during their young season. They opened with only 63.7 points against Addison Trail.

Since, they've scored 75 against Waukegan and 79.3 against Niles East before retreating to 68.5 points against Proviso West. All were losing efforts.

The 93 point performance against Wheeling comes on the heels of West's disappointing showing against Proviso.

Bill Lumpert pulled thru the Warriors' highest individual score against Wheeling. He scored 7.55 on side horse. Ken Heller earned a 6.7 on trampoline Mark Scholdt a 6.7 in free exercise and Phil DePrato a 6.4 on parallel bars.

Maine won just one event — trampoline — against the Wildcats. The Warrior combination of Heller, Kevin Henderson (4.65) and Mark Scholdt (4.5) outscored Wheeling's John Moriarity (5.7) and Glen Mildenberger (3.5). Final results on tramp showed Maine West with a 15.85-9.2 advantage.

The Warriors came close in one other event, losing free exercise 18.75 to 17.15. Aside from Scholdt, Keith Ways (5.25) and Heller (5.2) scored for Maine.

By event, West's other top scorers were DePrato's 5.75 on horizontal bar and Ways' 4.95 on still rings.

The highest score by either team was a 7.95 on side horse by Wheeling's Dave Peterson.

In other gymnastics action, Maine East recently took it on the chin from Niles West and Elk Grove. The Blue Demons have watched their record fall to 2-4.

Niles West defeated the Demons 110.80 to 82.53. But Elk Grove was a much larger winner, triumphing 132.21 to 77.35 in a meet held Wednesday.

Maine East never led against Elk Grove and made its best showing in the first event, losing free exercise 19.15 to 15.85. Elk Grove scored at least 19 points in all six events and ran up 22.75 points on horizontal bar.

Joe Darby had East's highest score against the Grenadiers when he earned a 6.9 on parallel bar. John Jurica scored 6.45 on still rings and Steve Stein had a 6.65 on side horse.

Also against Elk Grove, Bill Yedor had a 5.8 in free exercise. Dan Dahlin led East in two events despite very low scores. He had a 3.8 on trampoline and 4.5 on high bar.

The Blue Demons were also outscored in all six events against Niles West. Darby recorded high Demon scores in three events. He had a 4.55 on horizontal bar, 7.50 on parallel bars and 6.3 on still rings.

By event, East's other high scores were Yedor's 5.6 in free exercise, Stein's 6.30 on side horse and Dahlin's 4.00 on trampoline.

Maine North has opened its second varsity gymnastics season by recording high deficit losses to New Trier West and Deerfield. New Trier dumped Maine, 105-31, in the Norsemen opener. Deerfield prevailed 72-39.

The Norsemen's top score has been a 5.1 on still rings by Rich Scarola. Brother Roger owns a 4.2 on the same event.

Maine North traveled to Schaumburg for a Thursday evening meet. Coach Art Wildner's team won't compete again until Jan. 5 when they host Niles East.

Maine West will be inactive until Jan. 12 when the Warriors host New Trier West. East travels to Niles North on Jan. 5.

HORSE SENSE is what Elk Grove's Bob Siemianowski uses this year as he tries to improve on his third place finish in the state meet in 1972. The Grenadier ace received splits of 8.6 and 7.8 for an 8.2 average to help pace Elk Grove to a booming 132.21 team score against Maine East Wednesday night.

Milton Richman

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some people listen to Bill Glass awhile and come away with the wrong idea.

They think maybe he's one of those Holy Rollers or goodie-goodies.

Bill Glass is neither.

He isn't a fighter, a lover or a swinger, he's simply a dedicated young evangelist, cut perhaps in the Billy Graham mold, who doesn't flinch one bit at taking on Joe Namath, Dave Meggysy and Jim Bouton all at the same time.

He's big enough to do it. Bill Glass goes 6-4 and 250 pounds.

He has the right credentials also, having played professional football 12 years and been an All-Pro defensive end with the Cleveland Browns before retiring from the game at the end of the 1968 season.

Bill Glass, you could say, isn't bashful about tossing a few stones.

"I'm not saying I'm without sin, though," he makes it clear. "All righteousness isn't necessarily self-righteousness."

As for Joe Namath, Bill Glass readily admits he doesn't know him personally.

"Everybody who knows him says he's a fine fellow," says Glass. "I'm sure if I got to know him I'd like him, but all I'm reacting to is the statements he made in his book, for example, 'Let everybody do his own thing.'"

"If everyone did only what he wanted to do, society would collapse overnight. Joe Namath writes about the two greatest American athletes of the 20th century, Jim Thorpe and Babe Ruth, and says they might envy his life-style. I say this: Jim Thorpe and Babe Ruth would never set themselves up as moral authorities. Joe Namath has."

Bill Glass happens to be 100 per cent right.

Glass, who goes around the country making speeches for an evangelistic association which bears his name, believes football is getting a black eye from some of those who play the game. He also believes it's an undeserved black eye so he has, in collaboration with Bill Pinson, a professor of Christian ethics at Southwest Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, also written a book called "Don't Blame The Game."

In it, he talks about Meggysy, another ex-football player who knocked the game in a book he wrote.

Bill Glass calls Dave Meggysy "a second-stringer" and that ought to get a rise out of Meggysy.

"He looks at the game from a second-stringer's viewpoint," says Glass. "He had a hard time making the starting line-up with the St. Louis Cardinals. During his 5-6 years with the pros he spent a lot of time hurt and on the bench, which distorts his viewpoint."

"So therefore he calls the game dehumanizing, brutal and violent and looks forward to a society where football has no place. In that way he would be alone in his view. There is no one else in professional football who shares Meggysy's view."

"You honestly say that?" I said to Glass.

"I know that," he came right back.

Glass also feels Jim Bouton offers a biased account in his book.

"He attacked 'Holy Rollers' and so-called 'little old ladies in tennis shoes,'" says Glass about the former Yankees' and Astros' pitcher-turned-author. "I say why didn't he attack a live option instead. Bobby Richardson, who used to be one of his teammates and has a real commitment to Christ, would have been a far better adversary for Bouton to pit himself against. It's awfully easy to attack a straw man. That's what Bouton did."

Bill Glass has quite a bit to say about sex and athletes in his book.

He tells of a story that was told in the Cleveland Browns' training room before a workout one day, and the story concerns Loren Young of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Young was walking on the beach at Daytona Beach, Fla., and he met a college student wearing a T-shirt with the stenciled motto: "Let's stamp out virginity."

"Man, that's a great looking T-shirt you have there," Young said to the fellow wearing it. "When you get through wearing it, you ought to save it. You are going to need it."

The student wanted to know why?

"You will probably be the father of a teen-age daughter one day," Young said. "When a boy comes to take your daughter on her first date, you will want to get out the T-shirt, give it to him and say, 'Would you please wear this on your date with my daughter?'"

Bill Glass says none of the Cleveland players who heard the story laughed.

Many of them have young daughters.

Gano Still Undefeated For Warriors' Matmen

Fred Gano preserved his undefeated record and Tom Willmington won his fifth match. But not enough other Warriors won as Maine West recently lost its fourth varsity wrestling meet, 25-24 to Highland Park.

The Warriors have also won once and tied once after six meets.

Gano, wrestling at 112 pounds, picked up a sixth straight triumph when he pinned Highland Park's Mehlbacher in 3:05 of the second period.

Willmington pinned his opponent one second before the final bell.

Maine trailed from the outset and never led until after Willmington's pin. That gave West a 24-22 advantage that didn't hold up when heavyweight Stan Cordis lost an 8-7 decision to the Little Giants' Coughenour.

A critical point, however, was registered back in the 138-pound match when sophomore Tony Mietus ran into "a real buzzsaw," according to head coach Dick Carlini.

Mietus was a 19-4 loser to Tony De-

Rose. That gave the Little Giants four points instead of the customary three awarded after decision wins of nine or fewer points.

Maine picked up just five victories in the meet. Aside from Willmington and Gano, Dave LeFavour pinned his opponent at 155 pounds after Ed Rappey and Ernie Wickstrom had won earlier decisions.

Ninety-eight pounder Brian Real lost his first match of the year, dropping a 5-0 decision to Flax.

Marc Hoozko, Jerry Mietus and Gary Gunderson also lost decisions for the Warriors. John Bistany was pinned.

The Warriors won all three underclass meets. The West junior-varsity won 35-20. The sophomores piled up a 34-17 advantage over Highland Park and the freshmen rolled, 47-14.

The Warriors will be inactive until after Christmas. Then they'll participate in the Dec. 29 Lake Park Tournament. Their next dual meet is Jan. 5 at home against Waukegan.

FEELS LLOYD, R.M. SLIGHTED

Dear Sirs:

I, like so many others, will probably decide that this letter is a waste of time, for I am from Rolling Meadows (and proud of it). As soon as you see where it's from, it will probably be discarded in the oval file (wastebasket). Your paper may have "Rolling Meadows" printed on the top of the front page, but basically, it's the Arlington Heights Herald. Once you get past the front page, this is very obvious. I've had many gripes in the past, but this is the first one I have written about.

Your issue dated Dec. 12 shows a picture in the sports section of Zeke Bratkowski and John Huarte from the Bears speaking at the Pro Sports Club luncheon. In the background (as usual), sits Jack Lloyd, of Rolling Meadows High School. The caption under the picture briefly mentioned that Jack received the Knute Rockne Award. In the article concerning the luncheon, again, there are only a few brief words mentioning that Jack happened to make all-state linebacker. I think that making all-state linebacker takes a great amount of personal ability, dedication, and hard work on the individual's part and is worthy of more than a few lines of print. We in Rolling Meadows are very proud of Jack Lloyd and the Rolling Meadows football team and coaching staff.

I, for one, think that the MSL and the Herald should also be proud of Jack's achievements and pay due respect by printing a complete article on him. It's not often that we have an all-stater from our area. Or is it just a token gesture on your part to put "Rolling Meadows" on your paper for commercial reasons? The thought will always be in my mind that if he (Jack Lloyd) was from Arlington, this just might be front page news, with two or three columns devoted to an Arlington Heights boy's accomplishments.

Come on, give credit where credit is due. Rolling Meadows is here to stay. As time passes, it's going to be very hard to pass by the accomplishments of our town.

A Very Proud Resident
Rolling Meadows

The fact that the Herald chose to honor Jack Lloyd and two representatives of the school at the sports luncheon speaks for itself. There were many All-Staters in the area this year, but we felt it was appropriate to publicly honor the All-Stater from our newest school. Yes, Rolling Meadows is here to stay and will be recognized for its accomplishments in high school sports, as it has been in the past. Thanks for your interest.

A.D. SENDS THANKS

Dear Bob Frisk:
I would like to thank you for myself,

Ange Barro and Jack Lloyd for having us as your guests at the Pro Sports Luncheon. It was a most enjoyable afternoon.

We are most appreciative of your continuing support of our high school athletic programs. I'm sure that Paddock Publications must have the finest prep sports coverage in the entire country.

"VERY FAIR ACCOUNT"

Dear Herald:

The entire situation involving the gymnast at Hersey High School needed some type of explanation. I had heard so many different viewpoints that I didn't know what to believe. I think Jim Cook did an excellent job presenting both sides of the issue in his series this week. The Herald is to be congratulated for giving us this type of in-depth reporting and not the sensationalized stuff we read in other papers. It was a very fair account, with both sides presented.

DOLPHINS HAD PATSY SCHEDULE

Dear Herald:

Everyone has been raving about the Miami Dolphins and all their great records this year, especially their 14-0 record as they were the first team ever to win that many games in a regular season.

What I have not seen mentioned often is Miami's schedule. How many people realize that the Dolphins were the ONLY team in the NFL that did not play a single playoff team all year! In fact, the best record of any team they played was 8-6 (the New York Giants).

There are tremendous inequities in the NFL schedule every year. Everyone thinks the San Diego Chargers had a bad year because of their 4-9 record. But San Diego had to play half of its schedule (seven games against six teams) that made the playoffs. Green Bay was 10-4 and made the playoffs even though they had to play five playoff teams. To me, this is more impressive than 14-0 with a soft schedule.

Even the Bears had to play four playoff teams. I guarantee you their record and that of a lot of other teams would be a lot better if they got to play Buffalo twice and New England twice every season.

Granted, the Dolphins are a very good team with some great stars, and deserved all their wins. But I'd better not hear any talk of them being one of the all-time great teams, like the Packers of the '60's.

Santa Myth Won't Hurt Kids, Says Pediatrician

by PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Is it sneaky for parents to pull the wool over kids' eyes with the Santa Claus tale? Can it hurt a child to keep that jolly myth alive once he learns the facts of Christmas from the boys or girls in the neighborhood?

Some psychologists pooh-pooh the whole Santa Thing, viewing it as some kind of trap. It might dent the psyche when the child finds out his parents, teachers, uncles, aunts, grandparents and others deceived him with kindness in his first years on this planet.

Dr. Jay M. Arena, past president of the American Association of Poison Control Centers, immediate past president of the American Academy of Pediatrics and a professor of pediatrics at Duke University Medical Center in Durham, N.C., doesn't feel that way.

Asked the questions about the Santa myth, Dr. Arena answered.

"I HAVE MIXED feelings about the Santa myth. For the first few years of life this sort of fantasy doesn't hurt kids. I have seven of my own and fantasy helps make Christmas warm for everyone. That is my personal view."

When the bells and helmses at your mortgaged cottage find out there isn't a Santa Claus, nurse the child's injured psyche with talk along the following lines.

"Tell him it's a tradition," said Dr. Arena. "I enjoyed it as a child, tell him. Tell him also — I wasn't disillusioned by it. I think I grew up to be an adequate adult."

"And remind him that someday he'll have the chance to play Santa for his children."

Asked about educational toys for Christmas, Dr. Arena said that toys that teach, like anything else, can be run into the ground. When buying a toy a good question to ask: am I buying this because it satisfied me? Or — am I buying it with the child in mind.

HE SAID one example of a good educational toy — with play value, too — is the Green Safety Lady developed by the Georgia Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

"It's a pretty doll," Dr. Arena said. "The child pulls a string and gets a safety message. We feel a small child will get something from this."

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: There's a ring mark on my bedroom dresser, probably from some toilet article. Have tried several remedies with no luck. Would appreciate any help you can offer. — M. Takaya

If the remedies you've tried have taken off the top surface, there isn't much you can do but have it spot-refinished. When there is a good polish on furniture, there are various remedies. There are instances where mayonnaise or petroleum jelly can be left on a stain overnight and when wiped off in the morning, the stain has disappeared.

My own favorite method is to make a paste of cigarette ash and oil, let it dry on a stain and then rub it off and polish. Cigarette ash is something like talcum powder but with a little more abrasive action. But summed up, no home remedy will work if the top finish has been rubbed off.

Dear Dorothy: This may be a pack rat trick, but it works. To use up small scraps of toilet soap, I take the foot and about six inches of the leg from a nylon stocking. When I think there are enough scraps, I tie the end and use the thing as any washcloth. It lathers beautifully. Everybody in the family likes the idea and every once in a while I add more scraps of soap by untying the knot. — Marge K.

Dear Dorothy: Could you find out the combination for making the wonderful spiced tea that seems to have orange peel in it? Had some at a friend's home and was so taken I got some for the family and they like it, too — Emily B.

You'll have to enjoy it the way it comes. Emily. It's a commercial product and the company isn't about to give away the secret. Actually, one might be able to figure out the spice combination, but only an expert on teas would know the precise kind of tea used.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 290, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006).

Check Product Safety

A poorly designed coffee pot tips over, spilling scalding coffee on a child. The child is rushed to the emergency room of Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, where a teletype hookup notifies the Food and Drug Administration in Washington, D.C.

The FDA's Bureau of Product Safety checks into the situation and finds that a number of such coffee pots have tipped over, injuring people, so they recommend design changes to the manufacturer.

This is how the new National Electronic Injury Surveillance System works. Called "NEISS" for short, it links 119 hospital emergency rooms across the country with the Bureau of Product Safety. Its purpose is to provide data on injuries and deaths resulting from consumer products. The data will then be used by the Bureau of Product Safety — now part of the Consumer Product Safety Commission created by Congress in October — as a basis for developing product safety standards.

Holy Family is the only hospital in the northwest area participating in the program, although six other hospitals in the Chicago area are involved. Holy Family will be presented with an award today from the FDA in recognition of its contribution to NEISS.

THE HOSPITALS were selected at random in 30 states last spring, and the number will be expanded to represent 18 more states. The hospitals are expected to provide FDA analysts with 500,000 injury reports a year.

Information sent to Washington, according to Susan Fisher of the medical records department at Holy Family, consists of the products involved in the accident, the cause of injury, severity of injury, where it happened, and the patient's age and sex.

Followup studies on certain cases are then conducted by the FDA, during which brands are determined if possible. If a trend develops, the public will be notified as to the hazard, using the brand name, according to Malcolm Jensen, director of the bureau.

Are there any trends yet? Most of Holy Family's cases have involved sports, such as baseball, hockey and basketball. Mrs. Fisher said. But, she added, there have also been an above average number of bicycle injuries, along with fairly frequent cases involving chainsaws, lawnmowers, garage doors and tin cans.

Mrs. Fisher added that the FDA "always follows up on highchair injuries." Infant furniture has recently come under criticism for unsafe design, and the industry and FDA have been working on recommendations and standards for design of such equipment.

OF THE 220 to 350 patients processed through NEISS monthly at Holy Family, Mrs. Fisher said most are receptive to the program. She said some balk at first at giving the information, particularly if the accident occurred through their own negligence.

The FDA, which has a $1 million budget for NEISS, pays for the teletype and also allots the hospitals reimbursement per case reported.

About 38 per cent of household injuries are treated in emergency rooms, according to a Chicago survey firm. With an estimated 20 million injuries a year, the NEISS projections will relate to some 7.6 million product-related injuries.

In the first NEISS compilations, from July through September, team sports were the leading cause of injury, with bicycles second. Drugs and household cleaners were also fairly high.

Alpha Gam Alumnae Shop For 'Adopted' Family

The December meeting of Northwest Suburban Alumnae Club of Alpha Gamma Delta was primarily devoted to viewing and wrapping gifts which club shoppers had chosen for a family recommended by the Easter Seal Society.

This is the 10th year that the club has supplied the funds and the members have applied their shopping skills toward choosing appropriate gifts for their "adopted" family.

The project began in early November when Mrs. David Rolston, altruistic chairman, read a letter from the Easter Seal Society describing this year's family, recommended because one member is currently undergoing treatment at the Chicago Easter Seal Center.

THE MOTHER and six children, who range in age from 2 to 13, were identified by age and size. Club members then volunteered to shop for one member of the family. Each shopper was given money which was raised by the club's annual sale of Christmas cards.

The presents, which included such items as sweaters, gloves, a toy drum, model airplane kits, Play-Doh and a doll, will be delivered to the family along with used books, toys and clothes, a holiday food basket and a gift certificate for food at a local grocery store.

Although the Northwest Suburban Club has donated supplies and equipment to the Society in the past, the holiday shopping spree is a favorite because it gives all members a chance to participate.
